Prehistory In Northeastern Arabia:

Prehistory in Northeastern Arabia Masry,2014-09-19 This manuscript in its original thesis form was published by Field Research Projects of Florida in 1974 It had a very limited circulation and was basically in the form of a mimeographed edition The version now published here represents the work for the first time as a proper publication in book form and has been revised and edited and is appropriately produced as a regular archaeological book Fundamentally this was and remains the seminal work on the subject and was the first in its field It is an integral work of scholarship of permanent value It is a work written in its own time and no attempt has been made to retrospectively interfere or change the nature of the text or its conclusions but to publish it for what it is The work has ushered in a series of field excavations and analyses that expand upon it and amplify the information already given in the work itself Thus one could say that this original work has had a seminal and indeed catalytic impact on the archaeology of the Gulf over the last two decades This edition first published in 1997 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company conducted across the United Arab Emirates over the last few years are presented here revealing a wealth of new data on all periods of UAE archaeology from the Palaeolithic to the recent past Some of these discoveries fill important gaps in our knowledge while others have fundamentally revised what we thought we knew already Early Metallurgy of the Persian Gulf Lloyd Weeks,2022-08-01 This volume examines the earliest production and exchange of copper and its alloys in the Persian Gulf a major metal supply route for the Bronze Age societies of Western Asia Weeks addresses the geological and technological background to copper production in southeastern Arabia and contextualizes evidence for major fluctuations in prehistoric copper production The core of the volume consists of compositional and isotopic analyses The relationship between specialized copper production exchange and the development of social complexity in early Arabia is examined and the author addresses the broader archaeological issue of the Bronze Age tin trade which linked vast areas of Western Asia from the Indo Iranian borderlands to the Aegean in the third millennium BC Mortuary and Bioarchaeological

Perspectives on Bronze Age Arabia Kimberly D. Williams,Lesley A. Gregoricka,2019-05-27 This volume brings together an international consortium of archaeologists and bioarchaeologists at the forefront of mortuary archaeology work across Arabia to examine continuity change in death and remembrance While mortuary archaeology and bioarchaeology contribute important perspectives to the interpretation of life death in ancient Arabia these subdisciplines are rarely brought together in this region and only recently have skeletal remains been recognized as a rich source of scientific data complementing burial context Such joint collaboration highlights the novel interdisciplinary perspective proposed in this volume resulting in a synthesis of new ideas and interpretations that will undoubtedly guide future archaeological endeavors in Arabia and beyond

Precolonial African Material Culture , V. Tarikhu Farrar,2020-01-20 The idea of an inherent backwardness of technology and material culture in early sub Saharan Africa is a persistent and tenacious myth in the scholarly and popular imagination Due to the emergence of the field of African studies and the upsurge in historical and archaeological research in recent decades the stridency of this myth has weakened and the overtly racist content of arguments mustered in its defense have tended to disappear But more important are transformations in social political and cultural consciousness which have worked to reshape conceptualizations of African peoples their histories and their cultures Precolonial African Material Culture offers a thorough challenge to the myth of technological backwardness V Tarikhu Farrar revisits the early technology of sub Saharan Africa as revealed by recent research and reconsiders long possessed primary historical sources He then explores the ways that indigenous African technologies have influenced the world beyond the African continent
