Popular Cinema of the Third Reich Sabine Hake, 2010-01-01 Too often dismissed as escapist entertainment or vilified as mass manipulation popular cinema in the Third Reich was in fact sustained by well established generic conventions cultural traditions aesthetic sensibilities social practices and a highly developed star system not unlike its Hollywood counterpart in the 1930s This pathfinding study contributes to the ongoing reassessment of Third Reich cinema by examining it as a social cultural economic and political practice that often conflicted with contradicted and compromised the intentions of the Propaganda Ministry Nevertheless by providing the illusion of a public sphere presumably free of politics popular cinema helped to sustain the Nazi regime especially during the war years Rather than examining Third Reich cinema through overdetermined categories such as propaganda ideology or fascist aesthetics Sabine Hake concentrates on the constituent elements shared by most popular cinemas famous stars directors and studios movie audiences and exhibition practices popular genres and new trends in set design the reception of foreign films the role of film criticism and the representation of women She pays special attention to the forced coordination of the industry in 1933 the changing demands on cinema during the war years and the various ways of coming to terms with these filmic legacies after the war Throughout Hake's findings underscore the continuities among Weimar Third Reich and post 1945 West German cinema They also emphasize the codevelopment of German and other national cinemas especially the dominant Hollywood model

Realisms in Contemporary Culture Dorothee Birke, Stella Butter, 2013-08-01 Realism is a pervasive term in discussions of contemporary developments in the cultural sphere By drawing on different theories of realism the authors explore how the term may be used as a helpful concept in order to analyse and evaluate current trends in cultural production and in turn how cultural production changes our understanding of what counts as realism The contributions deal with realism in narrative fiction drama and audiovisual media film television news within the context of national traditions examples drawn on in the case studies range from Africa Britain Germany Iceland Russia Turkey to the United States While the authors take their cues from media specific realisms focusing especially on narrative fiction the volume also highlights continuities and intersections between notions of realism in different genres and media With its original essays this collection invigorates the transdisciplinary engagement with forms and socio political functions of realism in contemporary culture
