p. 2 Cases for Mathematics Teacher Educators Facilitating Conversations about Inequities in Mathematics Classrooms provides an excellent resource to start conversations describing the enactment of these actions. The book is organized into three main sections: 1. Conversations About Inequities in Mathematics Methods Courses, 2. Conversations About Inequities in Mathematics Content Courses, and 3. Conversations about Inequities in Graduate and Professional Development Contexts. Across these sections, there are 19 cases and 57 corresponding commentaries focused on dilemmas that arise when mathematics teacher educators foreground equity in their work. This book of cases provides a needed resource for MTEs to engage prospective teachers, practicing teachers, and future teacher educators in discussions about inequities, privilege, and oppression in society, in schools, and in the mathematics classroom. It is the product of the thinking and experiences of 87 authors who are committed to the improvement of mathematics teacher education.

Getting Real About Race Stephanie M. McClure, Cherise A. Harris, 2021-11-15

Getting Real About Race is an edited collection of short essays that address the most common stereotypes and misconceptions about race held by students and by many in the United States in general. Key Features: Each essay concludes with suggested sources including videos, websites, books, and/or articles that instructors can choose to assign as additional readings on a topic. Essays also end with questions for discussion that allow students to move from the what knowledge to the so what implications of race in their own lives. In this spirit, the authors include suggested Reaching Across the Color Line activities at the end of each essay, allowing students to apply their new knowledge on the topic in a unique or creative way. Current topics students want to discuss are brought up through the text, making it easier for the instructor to deal with these topics in an open classroom environment.
