Kinship Medicine Wendy Johnson, MD, MPH, 2025-07-15 For fans of Braiding Sweetgrass The Future We Choose and The Blue Zones a book about the effect our relationship to nature has on our well being and health Our modern way of living is incompatible with our survival Most of us intuitively know this truth but almost everything in our society encourages us to ignore it Dr Wendy Johnson confronts this undeniable fact and breaks down how we think and act every day in ways that undermine our individual and collective well being The antidotes to many of the causal factors of poor health loneliness industrial diets systemic inequality fear of death profit based healthcare are relational with each other and with the living earth Through evidence from public health sociology anthropology human ecology and her experience as a family physician Dr Wendy Johnson will show you how We must incorporate an ecosystem perspective into modern medicine What you ingest and where you live can reinforce or upset your body s delicate balance Eliminating one organism in an ecosystem can affect all the others Histories of trauma can be passed down for generations Rekindling our relationships to non human life is essential to our well being Being closer to death can release some of its power over us Actions of communities will be stronger and more lasting than any individual efforts You will leave with a clear vision of what a new society might look like methods to accomplish this transformation and concrete examples of where it is being done successfully

Contours of White Ethnicity Yiorgos Anagnostou, 2009-11-15 In Contours of White Ethnicity Yiorgos Anagnostou explores the construction of ethnic history and reveals how and why white ethnics selectively retain rework or reject their pasts Challenging the tendency to portray Americans of European background as a uniform cultural category the author demonstrates how a generalized view of American white ethnics misses the specific identity issues of particular groups as well as their internal differences Interdisciplinary in scope Contours of White Ethnicity uses the example of Greek America to illustrate how the immigrant past can be used to combat racism and be used to bring about solidarity between white ethnics and racial minorities Illuminating the importance of the past in the construction of ethnic identities today Anagnostou presents the politics of evoking the past to create community affirm identity and nourish reconnection with ancestral roots then identifies the struggles to neutralize oppressive pasts Although it draws from the scholarship on a specific ethnic group Contours of White Ethnicity exhibits a sophisticated interdisciplinary methodology which makes it of particular interest to scholars researching ethnicity and race in the United States and for those charting the directions of future research for white ethnicities

Camera Graeca: Photographs, Narratives, Materialities Philip Carabott, Yannis Hamilakis, Eleni Papargyriou, 2016-03-09 While written sources on the history of Greece have been studied extensively no systematic attempt has been made to examine photography as an important cultural and material process This is surprising given that Modern Greece and photography are almost peers both are cultural products of the 1830s and both actively converse with modernity Camera Graeca Photographs Narratives Materialities fills this lacuna It is the first interdisciplinary volume to examine critically and in a theorised manner the entanglement of Greece with photography The book argues that photographs and the photographic process as a whole have been instrumental in the reproduction of national imagination in the consolidation of the nation building process and in the generation and dissemination of state propaganda At the same time it is argued that the photographic field constitutes a site of memory and counter memory where various social actors intervene actively and stake their discursive material and practical claims As such the volume will be of relevance to scholars and photographers worldwide The book is divided into four tightly integrated parts The first Imagining Greece shows that the consolidation of Greek national identity constituted a material cum representational process the projection of an imagery although some photographic production sits uneasily within the national canon and may even undermine it The second part Photographic narratives alternative histories demonstrates the narrative function of photographs in diary keeping and in photobooks It also examines the constitution of spectatorship through the combination of text and image and the role of photography as a process of materializing counter hegemonic discourses and practices The third part Photographic matter realities foregrounds the role of photography in materializing state propaganda national memory and war The final part Photographic ethnographies

Benefit-sharing in Environmental Governance Louisa Parks, 2019-11-20 Taking a bottom up perspective this book explores local framings of a wide range of issues related to benefit sharing a growing concept in global environmental governance Benefit sharing in Environmental Governance draws on original case studies from South Africa Namibia Greece Argentina and Malaysia to shed light on what benefit sharing looks like from the local viewpoint These local level case studies move away from the idea of benefit sharing as defined by a single international organization or treaty Rather they reflect different situations where benefit sharing has been considered including agriculture access to land and plants wildlife management and extractives industries Common themes in the experiences of local communities form the basis for an exploration of spaces for local voices at the international level in the Convention on Biological Diversity CBD often argued to be the most open arena to non state actors and therefore vital to how local voices may be included at the global level The book analyzes the decisions of the CBD parties to produce an in depth reflection on how this arena builds and delimits spaces for the expression of local community themes and paths for local community participation including community protocols The book then situates the bottom up findings in the wider debate about global civil society and deliberative democracy in environmental governance This interdisciplinary book will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental politics environmental law political ecology and global governance as well as practitioners and policymakers involved in multilateral environmental agreements

British-Ottoman Relations, 1661-1807 Michael Talbot,2017 The British Embassy in Istanbul was unique among other diplomatic missions in the long eighteenth century in being financed by a private commercial monopoly the Levant Company In this detailed study Michael Talbot shows how the intimate relation between commercial interest and diplomatic practice played out across the period from the arrival of an ambassador from the restored British crown in 1661 to the sudden evacuation of his successor and the outbreak of the first Ottoman War in 1807 Using a rich variety of sources in English Ottoman Turkish and Italian some of them never before examined including legal documents financial ledgers and first hand accounts from participants he reconstructs the detail of diplomatic practice in rituals of gift giving and hospitality within the Ottoman court examines the at times very different meanings that they held for the British and Ottoman participants and traces the ways in which the declining fortunes of the Levant company directly affected the ability of the embassy to perform effectively within Ottoman conventions at a time when rising levels of British violence in and around the Ottoman realm marked the journey towards British imperialism in the region MICHAEL TALBOT is Lecturer in History at the University of Greenwich The Ancient World ,2007 Book Review Index ,2006 Every 3rd issue is a quarterly cumulation

Grecia 1821 Mark Mazower,2024-06-07T00:00:00+02:00 Nel 1821 in Grecia uno sparuto gruppo di patrioti si rivoltò contro l'Impero turco. Contro ogni previsione queste donne e questi uomini riuscirono a spezzare l'ordine mondiale appena uscito dalle guerre napoleoniche. E a riaccendere in tutta Europa la fiaccola della libertà. Dopo la sconfitta di Napoleone a Waterloo nel 1815 le forze conservatrici dominavano tutta l'Europa e reprimevano ogni tentativo di mutare il corso dell'esistente in Italia come in Francia in Spagna come in Ungheria. Ma la speranza si riaccese all'improvviso e inaspettatamente proprio in uno dei luoghi simbolo del nostro continente la Grecia allora dominio dell'Impero turco. Contro ogni ragionevole speranza di successo la gente dei villaggi delle valli e delle isole della Grecia si sollevò contro il sultano Mahmud II e affrontò l'enorme potenza dell'esercito ottomano: la sua celebre cavalleria turca, i crudeli fanti albanesi e i temibili egiziani. Mark Mazower ci fa conoscere i cospiratori rivoluzionari e il terrore delle città assediate, le incredibili storie di sacerdoti, di marinai e schiavi, di eroi ambigui e di donne e bambini indifesi in un conflitto di straordinaria brutalità. La causa greca trovò sostenitori accesi da Foscolo a Byron e ha avuto un ruolo centrale nella nascita del Romanticismo. Anzi si può dire che proprio allora nacque un nuovo tipo di politica capace di far accorrere volontari da tutta Europa. Allora per la prima volta nella storia i leader europei hanno dovuto fare i conti con la volontà dei popoli di conquistare a un costo spesso terribile un futuro diverso da quello stabilito dall'alto.
