Rechnen Im Islamischen Orient Die Literarischen Spuren Der Praktischen Rechenkunst:

Routledge Handbook on the Sciences in Islamicate Societies Sonja Brentjes, 2023-01-24 The Routledge Handbook on the Sciences in Islamicate Societies provides a comprehensive survey on science in the Islamic world from the 8th to the 19th century Across six sections a group of subject experts discuss and analyze scientific practices across a wide range of Islamicate societies The authors take into consideration several contexts in which science was practiced ranging from intellectual traditions and persuasions to institutions such as courts schools hospitals and observatories to the materiality of scientific practices including the arts and craftsmanship Chapters also devote attention to scientific practices of minority communities in Muslim majority societies and Muslim minority groups in societies outside the Islamicate world thereby allowing readers to better understand the opportunities and constraints of scientific practices under varying local conditions Through replacing Islam with Islamicate societies the book opens up ways to explain similarities and differences between diverse societies ruled by Muslim dynasties This handbook will be an invaluable resource for both established academics and students looking for an introduction to the field It will appeal to those involved in the study of the history of science the history of ideas intellectual history social or cultural history Islamic studies Middle East and African studies including history and studies of Muslim communities in Europe and South and East Asia In Synchrony with the Heavens, Volume 1 Call of the Muezzin David King, 2004-02-01 This is the first investigation of one of the main interests of astronomy in Islamic civilization namely timekeeping by the sun and stars and the regulation of the astronomically defined times of Muslim prayer The study is based on over 500 medieval astronomical manuscripts first identified by the author now preserved in libraries all over the world and originally from the entire Islamic world from the Maghrib to Central Asia and the Yemen The materials presented provide new insights into the early development of the prayer ritual in Islam They also call into question the popular notion that religion could not inspire serious scientific activity Only one of the hundreds of astronomical tables discussed here was known in medieval Europe which is one reason why the entire corpus has remained unknown until the present A second volume also to be published by Brill deals with astronomical instruments for timekeeping and other computing devices In Synchrony with the Heavens, Volume 2 Instruments of Mass Calculation David King, 2005-06-01 This is the first investigation of one of the main interests of astronomy in Islamic civilization namely timekeeping by the sun and stars and the regulation of the astronomically defined times of Muslim prayer The study is based on over 500 medieval astronomical manuscripts first identified by the author now preserved in libraries all over the world and originally from the entire Islamic world from the Maghrib to Central Asia and the Yemen The materials presented provide new insights into the early development of the prayer ritual in Islam They also call into question the popular notion that religion could not inspire serious scientific activity Only one of the hundreds of astronomical tables discussed here was known in medieval Europe which is one reason why the entire corpus has remained unknown until the present A second volume also to be published by

Brill deals with astronomical instruments for timekeeping and other computing devices Rechnen im islamischen Orient Ulrich Rebstock,1992 The Sciences in Islamicate Societies in Context Sonja Brentjes,2023-11-30 This Variorum volume reprints ten papers on contextual elements of the so called ancient sciences in Islamicate societies between the thirteenth and the seventeenth centuries They address four major themes the ancient sciences in educational institutions courtly patronage of science the role of the astral and other sciences in the Mamluk sultanate and narratives about knowledge The main arguments are directed against the then dominant historiographical claims about the exclusion of the ancient sciences from the madrasa and cognate educational institutes the suppression of philosophy and other ancient sciences in Damascus after 1229 the limited role of the new experts for timekeeping in the educational and professional exercise of this science and the marginal impact of astrology under Mamluk rule It is shown that the muwaqqits timekeepers were important teachers at madrasas and Sufi convents that Mamluk officers sought out astrologers for counselling and that narratives about knowledge reveal important information about scholarly debates and beliefs Colophons and dedications are used to prove that courtly patronage for the ancient sciences continued uninterrupted until the end of the seventeenth century Furthermore these papers refute the idea of a continued and strong conflict between the ancient and modern sciences showing rather shifting alliances between various of them and their regrouping in the classifications of the entire disciplinary edifice These papers are suited for graduate teaching in the history of science and the intellectual cultural and social history of the Middle East and for all readers interested in the study of the contexts of the sciences The New

Cambridge History of Islam: Volume 2, The Western Islamic World, Eleventh to Eighteenth Centuries Maribel Fierro,2010-11-04 Volume 2 of The New Cambridge History of Islam is devoted to the history of the Western Islamic lands from the political fragmentation of the eleventh century to the beginnings of European colonialism towards the end of the eighteenth century The volume embraces a vast area from al Andalus and North Africa to Arabia and the lands of the Ottomans In the first four sections scholars all leaders in their particular fields chart the rise and fall and explain the political and religious developments of the various independent ruling dynasties across the region including famously the Almohads the Fatimids and Mamluks and of course the Ottomans The final section of the volume explores the commonalities and continuities that united these diverse and geographically disparate communities through in depth analyses of state formation conversion taxation scholarship and the military The Oxford Handbook of the History of Mathematics Eleanor

Robson,Jacqueline Stedall,2009 This handbook explores the history of mathematics addressing what mathematics has been and what it has meant to practise it 36 self contained chapters provide a fascinating overview of 5000 years of mathematics and its key cultures for academics in mathematics historians of science and general historians Historiography of the History of Science in Islamicate Societies Sonja Brentjes,2023-09-05 This book presents eight papers about important historiographical issues as debated in the history of science in Islamicate societies the history of science and philosophy of medieval Latin Europe and the history of mathematics as an academic discipline Six papers deal with themes about the sciences in Islamic societies from the ninth to the seventeenth centuries among them novelty context and decline Two other papers discuss the historiographical practices of historians of mathematics and other disciplines in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The central argument of the collected papers is that in addition and beyond the study of scientific texts and instruments historians of science in Islamic societies need to pay attention to cultural material and social aspects that shaped the scientific activities of the authors and makers of such texts and instruments It is pointed out that the diachronic contextualized comparison between methods and results of scholars from different centuries regions and cultures often leads to serious distortions of the historical record and is responsible for the long term neglect of scholarly activities after the so called Golden Age The book will appeal in particular to teachers of history of science in Islamic societies to graduate students interested in issues of methodology and to historians of science grappling with the unresolved problems of how think and write about the sciences in concrete societies of the past instead of subsuming all extant texts instruments maps and other objects related to the sciences under macro level concepts like Islam or Latin Europe CS 1114 From Alexandria, Through Baghdad Nathan Sidoli, Glen Van Brummelen, 2013-10-30 This book honors the career of historian of mathematics J L Berggren his scholarship and service to the broader community The first part of value to scholars graduate students and interested readers is a survey of scholarship in the mathematical sciences in ancient Greece and medieval Islam It consists of six articles three by Berggren himself covering research from the middle of the 20th century to the present The remainder of the book contains studies by eminent scholars of the ancient and medieval mathematical sciences They serve both as examples of the breadth of current approaches and topics and as tributes to Berggren's interests by his friends and colleagues The Enterprise of Science in Islam J. P. Hogendijk, A. I. Sabra, 2003 Recent historical research and new perspectives on the Islamic scientific tradition
