You are what You Hear Harry Witchel,2010 Pondering the musicality of everything from bird songs to the language he calls motherese Dr Witchel illustrates the power of music and addresses the questions Why do we have music What does music do to our emotions Can animals hear and understand music What does music do to your brain Why do people listen to sad music Why do some people like classical but others only like heavy metal Is there some essential feature to all music You Are What You Hear is an erudite and entertaining study that is unique in many ways No other book has thoroughly elaborated the connection between music and social territory in humans although in other music making species scientists have shown this connection to be clear cut Given the wealth of scientific evidence and historical narratives presented in You Are What You Hear an intellectual investigation of this avenue is long overdue Written by a psychobiologist the work straddles hard science and psychology approaching music from a unique interdisciplinary perspective Successfully bridging these strands of evidence You Are What You Hear elucidates the significance of territory not only in music but in daily life This lively and engaging book will have a broad appeal not only to the general public but to students interested in the relationship between music and culture Anyone from seventeen to ninety seven will have the potential to gain something from this book

Sunset ,1926 Seeing Ourselves in Nature Jessica Fong,2025-08-19 Discover the profound and joyous stories of Black and Brown nature educators In Seeing Ourselves in Nature author Jessica Fong asks how educators in the United States who are Black Indigenous or other people of color can create space for predominantly BIPOC children and families to reconnect to nature Recognizing the scarcity of stories from people of color in the predominately white literature surrounding nature education in the United States Fong sought out thirteen other BIPOC educators to share their rich and profound experiences with young children in nature Sharing these stories is a first step in the long road to making nature education equitable for all children In section one educators work toward liberation and justice by actively pushing against the pushdown of academics on children of color In section two community and cultural connections based in nature come to the forefront as educators share the importance of seeing Black and Brown faces in natural spaces both in real life and in the images found in books In section three prose and poetry stories from Black women become radical by virtue of their simplicity as they connect the students and families they serve by centering their experiences with nature In section four children harness their powerful curiosity and intrinsic motivation when interacting with nature
