Self-determined Learning Theory Deirdre K. Mithaug, Martin Agran, James E. Martin, Michael L. Wehmeyer, 2002-12-18 This volume brings together four semi autonomous bodies of research choice self determination self regulation and self management to form a new theory of self engaged learning entitled Self Determined Learning Theory This theory explains why and how students self engage It identifies the factors that give students the sense of control over their learning that is needed for sustained adaptive and ultimately successful learning It begins by describing the characteristics of disengaged learners then describes and illustrates self determined learning theory within both normal and special populations It then examines the theory s predictive value across several special population contexts and then concludes with a critique of the theory s credibility and worth Divided into three sections theory construction theory verification and theory evaluation this volume is organized using the four steps of a previous book Learning to Theorize A Four Step Strategy Step 1 defines a problem of not understanding something as discrepancy between what is known and not known about a circumstance Step 2 searches for information and explanations to change the condition of not knowing into a condition of knowing Step 3 evaluates the credibility and worth of the explanation constructed in Step 2 Step 4 adjusts existing beliefs so they are consistent with the new theory Although aimed primarily at leaders in special education it should also appeal to researchers and scholars in psychology educational psychology and school psychology who are interested in the applications of self regulated learning theory in this case to special populations

Wehmeyer, Brian H. Abery, Dennis E. Mithaug, Roger J. Stancliffe, 2003-01-01 This text provides a comprehensive overview of three theoretical perspectives proposed during the past decade addressing the self determination construct as it applies to the field of special education The three models were selected primarily because they have focused on defining and categorizing self determination for all students with disabilities including students with mental retardation and other cognitive disabilities These models are intended to provide students and practitioners a solid grounding in self determination theory All models have been evaluated among students with cognitive disabilities but are applicable to all students with or without disabilities The authors research each model and have applied their own theoretical framework to special education ensuring that interventions to promote skills like problem solving goal setting decision making and self advocacy are in place for all students By reading this text the reader will gain a solid theoretically based foundation in understanding the self determination construct which ultimately supports the development of instructional interventions that enable students with disabilities to become self determined It will be useful as a text in upper undergraduate and graduate courses in special education psychology social work welfare general education vocational rehabilitation and disability studies The Positive

Psychology of Personal Factors Dana S. Dunn, Michael L. Wehmeyer, 2022-01-17 Historically interventions designed to impact the lives of disabled people were predicated upon deficits based models of disability This began to change with the introduction of World Health Organization WHO frameworks particularly the International Classification of Function ICF that emphasized that disability could only be understood in the context of interactions among health environmental factors and personal factors and by examining the impact of such factors on a person's activities and participation The ICF identified personal factors as among the elements of a social ecological model of disability but did not provide an extensive taxonomy of what constitutes such factors The Positive Psychology of Personal Factors examines personal factors that come from the field of positive psychology and as such to begin to identify and build strengths based approaches to promoting the full participation dignity and well being of disabled people
