Black Seminoles in the Bahamas Rosalyn Howard, 2023-05-01 An excellent case study of a little studied and poorly known community experiencing the processes of identity formation and culture change Brent R Weisman University of South Florida This is the first full length ethnography of a unique community within the African diaspora Rosalyn Howard traces the history of the isolated Red Bays community of the Bahamas from their escape from the plantations of the American South through their utilization of social memory in the construction of new identity and community Some of the many African slaves escaping from southern plantations traveled to Florida and joined the Seminole Indians intermarried and came to call themselves Black Seminoles In 1821 pursued and harassed by European Americans through the First Seminole War approximately 200 members of this group fled to Andros Island where they remained essentially isolated for nearly 150 years Drawing on archival and secondary sources in the United States and the Bahamas as well as interviews with members of the present day Black Seminole community on Andros Island Howard reconstructs the story of the Red Bays people She chronicles their struggles as they adapt to a new environment and forge a new identity in this insular community and analyzes the former slaves relationship with their Native American companions Black Seminoles in contemporary Red Bays number approximately 290 the majority of whom are descended directly from the original settlers As part of her research Howard lived for a year in this small community recording its oral history and analyzing the ways in which that history informed the evolving identity of the people Her treatment dispels the air of mystery surrounding the Black Seminoles of Andros and provides a foundation for further anthropological and historical investigations The Also Ran: But a

Benjamin Lightbourne/Lightburn of Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania and His Descendants Robert C Lightburn,2019-03-16 I first became interested in genealogy when I was about twelve It was then that my paternal grandmother first introduced me to a book entitled Genealogy of the Fell Family in America Descended from Joseph Fell This book which was published in 1891 included my grandfather Charles McConnell Lightburn I was struck by the time span covered by the book nearly three hundred years and was fascinated by the fact that all of the people in that book were related to one another and to me either by blood or marriage My grandmother later gave me that book and it became the first book in my genealogical library My grandfather and my great aunt Mary told me that their father had fought for the North during the Civil War by the side of his older brother who was a brigadier general This fascinated me They also told me that there was a town in West Virginia called Lightburn I couldn t wait to find it on a map My own genealogical research did not begin until the late 1970s when I requested the Civil War records of my great grandfather Calvin Luther Lightburn and his brothers from the National Archives During the 1980s I continued my research albeit at a very low level of activity It was not until the early 1990s when I moved to the Washington DC area that I became intensively involved in some might even say addicted to genealogy The resources in the Washington DC area are extensive and I ended up spending many happy and sometimes frustrating hours conducting research in the National Archives Library of Congress and the library of the Daughters of the American Revolution By 1999 I had amassed a great deal of genealogical information most of which was stuffed in cardboard boxes I was encouraged to put what I had on paper by Faye M Brown Lightburn who had published her book Revolutionary Soldier Samuel Brown and Some of his Family in 1993 So after attending several related sessions at the National Genealogical Society Conference in the States which was held that year in Providence Rhode Island I finally screwed up my courage and plunged in I published the original book in 2003 This book is the second and probably last edition The Quest for Security in the Caribbean Ivelaw L. Griffith,2015-06-11 This comprehensive work on security in the English speaking Caribbean offers a wealth of information about the history politics economics and geography of the entire region The author examines security problems in the region as a geopolitical unit not on a selective case study basis as is usually done He assesses Caribbean security within a theoretical framework where four factors are critical perceptions of the political elites capabilities of the states the geopolitics of the area and the ideological orientations of the parties in power Political and economic issues are judged to be as relevant to security as military factors The author identifies safeguards which countries in the region may take in the coming decade
