Making Meanings, Creating Family Cynthia Gordon, 2009-08-12 A husband echoes back words that his wife said to him hours before as a way of teasing her A parent always uses a particular word when instructing her child not to talk during naptime A mother and family friend repeat each other's instructions as they supervise a child at a shopping mall Our everyday conversations necessarily are made up of old elements of language words phrases paralinguistic features syntactic structures speech acts and stories that have been used before which we recontextualize and reshape in new and creative ways In Making Meanings Creating Family Cynthia Gordon integrates theories of intertextuality and framing in order to explore how and why family members repeat one another's words in everyday talk as well as the interactive effects of those repetitions. Analyzing the discourse of three dual income American families who recorded their own conversations over the course of one week, Gordon demonstrates how repetition serves as a crucial means of creating the complex shared meanings that give each family its distinctive identity.

Making Meanings: Creating Family takes an interactional sociolinguistic approach drawing on theories from linguistics, communication, sociology, anthropology, and psychology. Its presentation and analysis of transcribed family encounters will be of interest to scholars and students of communication studies, discourse analysis, sociolinguistics, linguistic anthropology, and psychology, especially those interested in family discourse. Its engagement with intertextuality as theory and methodology will appeal to researchers in media, literary, and cultural studies.

and at certain periods of its history German fiction is particularly rich Yet although the novel begins to assert itself in the seventeenth century we have to wait until the late eighteenth and Goethe's first major prose work Werther to see it truly rise to the level of other genres The thirteen novels featured in this collection have all proved milestones in the development of the form and there is heavy prominence given to works by Goethe himself and by Thomas Mann Through these as well as those by such figures as Kafka Hesse and Günter Grass we can trace the development of the novel to its far more self-conscious form ranging through the social studies of the nineteenth to works which treat a variety of intellectual psychological and philosophical issues in the twentieth A second volume will cover landmarks published between 1959 and the present day These essays all by specialists in the relevant field were originally delivered as lectures in the University of Cambridge
