National Civic Review No 4 Winter 2004:

National Civic Review, No. 4, Winter 2004 Michael R. McGrath, 2005-01-27      Towards the Dignity of Difference? Mojtaba Mahdavi, 2016-02-24 The rise of popular social movements throughout the Middle East North Africa Europe and North America in 2011 challenged two hegemonic discourses of the post Cold War era Francis Fukuyama's The End of History and Samuel Huntington's The Clash of Civilizations The quest for genuine democracy and social justice and the backlash against the neoliberal order is a common theme in the global mass protests in the West and the East This is no less than a discursive paradigm shift a new beginning to the history a move towards new alternatives to the status quo This book is about difference and dialogue it embraces The Dignity of Difference and promotes dialogue However it also demonstrates the limits of dialogue as a useful and universal approach for resolving conflicts particularly in cases involving asymmetric and unequal power relations The distinguished group of authors suggests in this volume that there is a third way of addressing global tensions one that rejects the extremes of both universalism and particularism This third way is a radical call for an epistemic shift in our understanding of us other and good evil a radical approach toward accommodating difference as well as embracing the plural concept of the good The authors strengthen their alternative approach with a practical policy guide by challenging existing policies that either exclude or assimilate other cultures that wage the constructed global war on terror and that impose a western neo liberal discourse on non western societies This important book will be essential reading for all those studying civilizations globalization foreign policy peace and security studies multiculturalism and ethnicity regionalism global governance and international political economy      Engaging Strangers Daniel J. Monti Jr., 2013 Partisans on both the left and right wings of America's theory class and political spectrum believe we're in trouble big trouble The economy is limping along Inequality has reached unprecedented levels And we seem to be on the verge of being overwhelmed by immigrants who don't look and act anything like our grandparents did much less the men and women who founded our country Angry scared disengaged and distrustful when we aren't openly antagonistic toward each other Americans can't figure out who we are as a people and openly fret about our best days being behind us To make matters worse our political system the one place we're supposed to be able to work on behalf of a broader public good with people who aren't like us appears even more broken than these other parts of our culture There's some unexpected good news however and it's coming from one of the last places in America you'd expect different people to be getting along Boston Bostonians well known for their unwelcoming and sometimes violent treatment of newcomers and unwillingness to find common ground with people deemed outsiders aren't acting broken or taking their resentments out on each other these days They've turned instead to calmer ways of talking about each other and treating each other in public Far from being disconnected and afraid people in Boston are better connected and more respectful of each other and their city is better organized and more orderly than at any time in its long and storied history Bostonians have learned to get along with the strangers among them in ways their ancestors never knew or expected the rest of us would be willing to entertain much less master They have their civic act together Engaging Strangers explores how the people of Boston have learned to practice a more congenial and respectful set of civic virtues In this book the author provides a model for civic conduct for the rest of America to study and follow Books In Print 2004-2005 Ed Bowker Staff,Staff Bowker, Ed,2004 Environmental Conflict Management Tracylee Clarke,Tarla Rai Peterson,2015-03-04 A step by step guide connecting theory to practice Environmental Conflict Management introduces students to the research and practice of environmental conflict and provides a step by step process for engaging stakeholders and other interested parties in the management of environmental disputes In each chapter authors Dr Tracylee Clarke and Dr Tarla Rai Peterson first introduce a specific concept or process step and then provide exercises worksheets role plays and brief case studies so students can directly apply what they are learning The appendix includes six additional extended case studies for further analysis In addition to providing practical steps for understanding and managing conflict the text identifies the most relevant laws and policies to help students make more informed decisions Students will develop techniques for public involvement and community outreach strategies for effective meeting management approaches to negotiating options and methodologies for communicating concerns and working through differences and outlines for implementing and evaluating strategies for sustaining positive community relations highlights success stories from new ways of working and challenges confronting local government in both developed and developing countries New Century Local Government makes a very valuable contribution to helping understand the changing role of local government and will ensure that practitioners are up to date with the most innovative initiatives in local government planning and administration
