Silent Coup of the Guardians Todd Andrew Schmidt, 2022-11-14 Growing political radicalization and polarization in American government has created a scarcity of civilian leadership knowledge, expertise and power. Political rivals and adversaries too busy combating each other have abandoned the helm of the ship of state, stalling reason, compromise, intellectual curiosity and effective governing. Adrift, a faction of exceptionally capable and influential guardians America's military elites increasingly fill roles in civil society and government intended for competent, democratically elected or politically appointed civilian leaders who are held accountable to the American electorate. Todd Schmidt demonstrates that U.S. military elites play an exceptionally powerful role due to their influence over policy process outcome and implementation. Through personal interviews with high ranking national security experts across six presidential administrations, Schmidt concludes that nuanced relationships between military elites, the president and Congress decision making in national security and foreign policy and the balance of power in civil-military relations suggest a potential trend of praetorian behavior among military elites. A silent coup of the guardians has occurred and professionals and citizens need to ask what should be done to rebalance U.S. civil-military relations.

Constructing National Security Jarrod Hayes,2013-10-07 Jarrod Hayes explores why democracies tend not to use military force against each other He argues that democratic identity the shared understanding within democracies of who we are and what we expect from each other makes it difficult for political leaders to construct external democracies as threats At the same time he finds that democratic identity enables political actors to construct external non democracies as threats To explore his argument he looks at US relations with two rising powers India and China Through his argument and case studies Professor Hayes addresses not just the democratic peace but also the larger processes of threat construction in international security the role of domestic institutions in international relations and the possibility for conflict between the United States and the world s two most populous countries
