Power and the Pursuit of Peace: Theory and Practice in the History of Relations Between States F. H. Hinsley, Francis Harry Hinsley, 1967-10 In the last years of the nineteenth century peace proposals were first stimulated by fear of the danger of war rather than in consequence of its outbreak In this study of the nature and history of international relations Mr Hinsley presents his conclusions about the causes of war and the development of men's efforts to avoid it In the first part he examines international theories from the end of the middle ages to the establishment of the League of Nations in their historical setting This enables him to show how far modern peace proposals are merely copies or elaborations of earlier schemes He believes there has been a marked reluctance to test these theories not only against the formidable criticisms of men like Rousseau Kant and Bentham but also against what we have learned about the nature of international relations and the history of the practice of states This leads him to the second part of his study an analysis of the origins of the modern states system and of its evolution between the eighteenth century and the First World War      General Naval Tactics Milan Vego, 2020-10-15 In General Naval Tactics Naval War College professor and renowned tactical expert Milan Vego describes and explains those aspects of naval tactics most closely related to the human factor Specifically he explains in some detail the objectives and methods elements of tactical employment of naval forces command and control combat support tactical design decision making and planning execution leadership doctrine and training Vego derives certain commonalities of naval tactics that occurred in recent and distant wars at sea Many parts of his theoretical constructs are based on works of a number of well known and influential naval theoreticians such as Admirals Alfred T Mahan Bradley A Fiske Raoul Castex and Ren Daveluy and influential naval theoreticians Whenever possible the author illustrates each aspect of theory by carefully selected examples from naval history making the theory more understandable and interesting Vego aims to present theory

The Militarisation of Peacekeeping in the Twenty-First Century James Sloan, 2011-11-01 Since the end of the last century UN peacekeeping has undergone a fundamental and largely unexamined change Peacekeeping operations long expected to use force only in self defence and to act impartially are now increasingly relied upon by the Security Council as a means to maintain and restore security within a country The operations are established under Chapter VII of the UN Charter and some are empowered to use all necessary measures language traditionally reserved for enforcement operations Through a close examination of these twenty first century peacekeeping operations including operations in Sierra Leone the Democratic Republic of the Congo Liberia C te d Ivoire Haiti and the Darfur region of the Sudan the book shows that they are for the most part fundamentally ill suited to the enforcement type tasks being asked of them The operations which are under funded under equipped and whose troops are under trained frequently lurch from crisis to crisis There is scant evidence some 10 years on that matters are likely to improve The book argues that bestowing enforcement type functions on a peacekeeping operation is misconceived Such operations are likely to be unsuccessful in their enforcement type tasks thereby causing serious damage to the excellent reputation of UN peacekeeping and the UN more broadly In addition because such operations are more likely to be perceived as partial their ability to carry out traditional non forceful peacekeeping tasks may be impeded Finally the Security Council s practice of charging peacekeeping operations with enforcement functions lessens the pressure on the Council to work to establish genuine enforcement operations ie operations that are considerably better suited to restoring peace and security Dr Sloan is able to show in knowledgeable detail not only what has changed over the years but also what has brought these changes about His analysis leads him to offer not only well informed insights but critical observations too This book is a pleasing combination of detailed scrutiny of topics already familiar provisional measures consent so called Chapter VI 2 action implied powers and a rigorous questioning as to their place in or indeed relevance at all to militarised peacekeeping The reader will find much new terrain traversed and plenty of out of the box thinking From the foreword by Dame Rosalyn Higgins

Japan's Aging Peace Tom Phuong Le, 2021-06-22 Since the end of World War II Japan has not sought to remilitarize and its postwar constitution commits to renouncing aggressive warfare Yet many inside and outside Japan have asked whether the country should or will return to commanding armed forces amid an increasingly challenging regional and global context and as domestic politics have shifted in favor of demonstrations of national strength Tom Phuong Le offers a novel explanation of Japan s reluctance to remilitarize that foregrounds the relationship between demographics and security Japan s Aging Peace demonstrates how changing perceptions of security across generations have culminated in a culture of antimilitarism that constrains the government s efforts to pursue a more martial foreign policy Le challenges a simple opposition between militarism and pacifism arguing that Japanese security discourse should be understood in terms of multiple militarisms which can legitimate choices such as the mobilization of the Japan Self Defense Forces for peacekeeping operations and humanitarian relief missions Le highlights how factors that are not typically linked to security policy such as aging and declining populations and gender inequality have played crucial roles He contends that the case of Japan challenges the presumption in international relations scholarship that states must pursue the use of force or be punished showing how widespread normative beliefs have restrained Japanese policy makers Drawing on interviews with policy makers military personnel atomic bomb survivors museum coordinators grassroots activists and other stakeholders as well as analysis of peace museums and social movements Japan s Aging Peace provides new insights for scholars of Asian politics international relations and Japanese foreign policy
