National Trust Historic Houses Of Britain:

The National Trust, 2007 Historic Houses of the National Trust Adrian Tinniswood, 1991 The National Trust has in its care some 200 historic houses in England Wales and Northern Ireland Using 40 of the Trust's most interesting and important houses the author looks at how they came to be built their appearance and those who live and work with them Historic House Museums in the United States and the United Kingdom Linda Young, 2016-12-13 Historic House Museums in the United States and the United Kingdom A History addresses the phenomenon of historic houses as a distinct species of museum Everyone understands the special nature of an art museum a national museum or a science museum but house museum nearly always requires clarification In the United States the term is almost synonymous with historic preservation in the United Kingdom it is simply unfamiliar the very idea being conflated with stately homes and the National Trust By analyzing the motivation of the founders and subsequent keepers of house museums Linda Young identifies a typology that casts light on what house museums were intended to represent and their significance or lack thereof today This book examines heroes houses once inhabited by great persons e.g. Shakespeare's birthplace Washington's Mount Vernon artwork houses national identity as specially visible in house design style and technique e.g. Frank Lloyd Wright houses Modernist houses collectors houses a microcosm of collecting in situ domestic subsequently presented to the nation as the exemplars of taste e.g. Sir John Soane's Museum Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum English country houses the palaces of the aristocracy maintained thanks to primogeniture but threatened with redundancy and rescued as museums to be touted as the peak of English national culture English country houses the palaces of the aristocracy maintained for centuries thanks to primogeniture but threatened by redundancy and strangely rescued as museums now touted as the peak of English national culture Everyman woman's social history houses the modern demotic response to elite houses presented as social history but tinged with generic ancestor veneration e.g. tenement house museums in Glasgow and New York The British Country House Revival Ben Cowell, 2024 British country houses have experienced a renaissance since the early 1970s A new accord is needed today recognising the increasingly contested contribution of country houses to British cultural life Fifty years ago the future for country houses in Britain looked bleak The Victoria Albert Museum's exhibition The Destruction of the Country House which opened in October 1974 charted the loss of over a thousand country houses in the preceding century The makers of the exhibition warned that history could be about to repeat itself because of the threats besetting mansion properties principally from higher taxation Houses faced the prospect of having to be stripped of their collections and sold for use as offices hotels or hospitals with their parks and gardens turned into golf clubs Government might afford to save just a handful of the most significant of these places working in tandem with charities such as the National Trust The rest would be consigned to history This book traces the history of country houses in Britain from the Destruction exhibition to the present day The wave of country house losses anticipated in 1974 never actually happened Instead over the next five decades

Britain's country houses experienced a renaissance. Fiscal rules changed in the mid 1970s to make it easier for owners to hold on to their assets. Economic improvements in the 1980s and 1990s allowed many houses and estates to develop profitable commercial businesses. All of this was achieved only after dedicated campaigning from heritage organisations in support of the country house cause. The book argues that a new accord is needed today to recognise and value the ongoing if increasingly contested contribution of country houses to British life and culture in the twenty first century. The Ordnance Survey Guide to Historic Houses in Britain, 1987. Describes the history and background of more than one hundred eighty mansions and palaces in Scotland, England and Wales and provides information on hours, facilities and restrictions.

Touring and Publicizing England's Country Houses in the Long Eighteenth Century Jocelyn Anderson, 2018-02-22

Over the course of the long 18th century many of England's grandest country houses became known for displaying noteworthy architecture and design, large collections of sculptures and paintings and expansive landscape gardens and parks. Although these houses continued to function as residences and spaces of elite retreat, they had powerful public identities increasingly accessible to tourists and extensively described by travel writers. They began to be celebrated as sites of great importance to national culture. This book examines how these identities emerged, repositioning the importance of country houses in 18th century Britain and exploring what it took to turn them into tourist attractions. Drawing on travel books, guidebooks and dozens of tourists' diaries and letters, it explores what it meant to tour country houses such as Blenheim Palace, Chatsworth, Wilton, Kedleston and Burghley in the tumultuous 1700s. It also questions the legacies of these early tourists both as a critical cultural practice in the 18th century and an extraordinary and controversial influence in British culture today. Country house tourism is a phenomenon that demands investigation. London Louise Nicholson, 2007. Highlights the history, culture and contemporary life of the city and offers detailed walking tours of historic areas and complete visitor information. Tourism Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee, 2008. Incorporating HC 983 i session 2006-07.

English, Irish, & Scottish Silver at the Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute, Beth Carver Wees, 1997. In this stunning catalog Wees, curator of decorative arts at the Clark Art Institute, shares her extensive knowledge of silver. Robert Sterling Clark, who established the Art Institute in 1955, preferred Huguenot silver, especially that of Paul de Lamerie, so his collection, which contains typical objects from the early 16th to the mid 20th centuries, is especially rich in 18th century examples. Wees arranges this collection according to general function: Dining, Lighting, etc. and prefaces each chapter with exhaustively footnoted essays. She accompanies each item with crisp black and white photographs, a wealth of description and helpful commentary. Analogous to Kathryn Buhler's standard catalog of American silver in Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, this is a wonderful tool for researching makers and hallmarks, comparing stylistic elements or just marveling at the beauty of an extraordinary collection. While not intended to be a historical compendium, this informative visual feast belongs in all silver.

one tourist destination for Americans visiting Europe Stories from Home Margaret Ponsonby,2016-04-01 Most homes in the past were not elite wealthy interiors complete with high fashion furnishings designed by well known architects and designers as many domestic histories often seem to have assumed As this book makes clear there were in fact an enormous variety of house interiors in England during the period 1750 1850 reflecting the location status and gender of particular householders as well as their changing attitudes tastes and aspirations By focusing on non metropolitan homes which represented the majority of households in England this study highlights the need for historians to look beyond prevailing attitudes that often reduce interiors to generic descriptions based on high fashions of the decorative arts Instead it shows how numerous social and cultural influences affected the manner in which homes were furnished and decorated Issues such as the availability of goods gender regional taste income the second hand market changing notions of privacy and household hierarchies and print culture could all have a significant impact on domestic furnishing The study ends with a discussion of how domestic interiors of historic properties have been presented and displayed in modern times highlighting how competing notions of the past can cloud as well as illuminate the issue Combining cultural history and qualitative analysis of evidence this book presents a new way of looking at ordinary and provincial homes that enriches our understanding of English domestic life of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries The Curation and Care of Museum Collections

Bruce Campbell,Christian Baars,2019-03-11 Museum curators enter the profession with a specialist subject qualification and yet at some point in their career many curators find themselves in charge of a range of collections outside of their expert knowledge Interpreting curating and caring for mixed collections demands of curators a wide range of knowledge and understanding The Curation and Care of Museum Collections is designed to give curators the fundamental information and confidence they need to manage and care for all of the collections within their responsibility regardless of their previous training and experience Comprising two sections Museum Collections and Collection Development and Care the chapters cover archaeology art history military and natural sciences collections as well as heritage properties Every chapter in the book is focused on one type of collection but all chapters in the collection management section contain advice on topics such as organisational philosophy documentation legal issues and materials in order to provide a useful and comprehensive guide to managing collections The collection care section is structured in the same way considering the issues of storage display handling moving packing housekeeping health and safety emergency preparedness and pest pollution environmental light and vibration management The contributors to this book are experienced museum professionals each with their own specialism and a deep understanding of what it means to work in the context of mixed collections Providing a highly practical guide The Curation and Care of Museum Collections is essential reading for curators working in all types of museums galleries and heritage sites and for students of museology courses around the world Collections Management as Critical Museum Practice Cara Krmpotich,Alice Stevenson,2024-07-22 There is a common misconception that collections management in museums is a set of rote procedures or technical practices that follow universal standards of best practice. This volume recognises collections management as a political, critical and social project involving considerable intellectual labour that often goes unacknowledged within institutions and in the fields of museum and heritage studies. Collections Management as Critical Museum Practice brings into focus the knowledges, value systems, ethics and workplace pragmatics that are foundational for this work. Rather than engaging solely with cultural modifications such as Indigenous care practices, the book presents local knowledge of place and material which is relevant to how collections are managed and cared for worldwide. Through discussion of varied collection types, management activities and professional roles, contributors develop a contextualised, reflexive practice for how core collections management standards are conceptualised, negotiated and enacted. Chapters span national museums in Brazil and Uganda to community led heritage work in Malaysia and Canada; they explore complexities of numbering, digitisation and description alongside the realities of climate change, global pandemics and natural disasters. The book offers a new definition of collections management, travelling from what is done to care for collections to what is done to care for collections and their users. Rather than use being an end goal, it emerges as a starting point to rethink collections work.
