National Trust Studies 1979:

National Trust Studies 1979 ; [editor, Gervase Jackson Stops]. ,1978 National Trust Studies ,1978 Faded and Threadbare Historic Textiles and their Role in Houses Open to the Public Margaret Ponsonby,2016-04-15 Many historic houses that open to the public in England and Wales particularly those owned by the National Trust preserve their contents rather than restore them to a particular period The former owners of these houses often retained objects from various periods and this layering of history produces interiors that look aged and patinated Although the reason for this preservation and lack of fashionable renewable can be attributed to declining economic fortunes in the twentieth century there are many examples of families practising this method of homemaking over a much longer period Taking National Trust properties as its central focus this book examines three interlocking themes to examine the role of historic textiles Firstly it looks at houses with preserved contents together with the reasons for individual families choosing this lifestyle secondly the role of the National Trust as both guardian and interpreter of these houses and their collections and finally and most importantly the influence of textiles to contribute to the appearance of interiors and their physical attributes that carry historical resonances of the past The importance of preserved textiles in establishing the visual character of historic houses is a neglected area and therefore the prominence given to textiles in this project constitutes an original contribution to the study of these houses Drawing upon a range of primary sources including literature produced by the National Trust for their sites and documentary sources for the families and their houses such as diaries letters and household accounts the study takes a broad approach that will be of interest to all those with an interest in material culture heritage collecting studies and cultural history Directory of Rare Book and Special Collections in the UK and Republic of Ireland Karen Attar,2016-05-31 This directory is a handy on volume discovery tool that will allow readers to locate rare book and special collections in the British Isles Fully updated since the second edition was published in 1997 this comprehensive and up to date guide encompasses collections held in libraries archives museums and private hands The Directory Provides a national overview of rare book and special collections for those interested in seeing quickly and easily what a library holds Directs researchers to the libraries most relevant for their research Assists libraries considering acquiring new special collections to assess the value of such collections beyond the institution showing how they fit into a unique and distinctive model Each entry in the Directory provides background information on the library and its purpose full contact details the quantity of early printed books information about particular subject and language strengths information about unique works and important acquisitions descriptions of named special collections and deposited collections Readership Researchers academic liaison librarians and library managers Serials in the British Library ,1999 The Coastal Zone Kenneth Ruddell,William B. Morgan,James R. Pfafflin,1988 The Heritage Industry Robert Hewison,2023-02-03 First published in 1987 The Heritage Industry sets out to protect the present and the future of life in Britain from their most dangerous enemy a creeping takeover

by the past The author sets today's obsession with yesterday in the context of a climate of social and political decline The economic uncertainties and cultural convulsions of post war life have made the past seem a pleasanter and safer place But how true is that image of the past and whose past is it anyway Hewison questions the way institutions like the National Trust are helping to create a past that never was While the real economy crumbles a new force is taking over the Heritage Industry a movement dedicated to turning the British Isles into one vast open air museum This book will be of interest to students of history art and cultural studies Stories from Home Margaret Ponsonby, 2016-04-01 Most homes in the past were not elite wealthy interiors complete with high fashion furnishings designed by well known architects and designers as many domestic histories often seem to have assumed As this book makes clear there were in fact an enormous variety of house interiors in England during the period 1750-1850 reflecting the location status and gender of particular householders as well as their changing attitudes tastes and aspirations By focusing on non metropolitan homes which represented the majority of households in England this study highlights the need for historians to look beyond prevailing attitudes that often reduce interiors to generic descriptions based on high fashions of the decorative arts Instead it shows how numerous social and cultural influences affected the manner in which homes were furnished and decorated Issues such as the availability of goods gender regional taste income the second hand market changing notions of privacy and household hierarchies and print culture could all have a significant impact on domestic furnishing The study ends with a discussion of how domestic interiors of historic properties have been presented and displayed in modern times highlighting how competing notions of the past can cloud as well as illuminate the issue Combining cultural history and qualitative analysis of evidence this book presents a new way of looking at ordinary and provincial homes that enriches our understanding of English domestic life of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Art, Artisans and Apprentices James Ayres, 2014-06-30 Before the foundation of academies of art in London in 1758 and Philadelphia in 1805 most individuals who were to emerge as artists trained in workshops of varying degrees of relevance Easel painters began their careers apprenticed to carriage house sign or ship painters whilst a few were placed with those who made pictures Sculptors emerged from a training as ornamental plasterers or carvers Of the many other trades in a position to offer an appropriate background were limning staining engraving surveying chasing and die sinking In addition plumbers gained the right to use oil painting and for plasterers the application of distemper was an extension of their trade Central to the theme of this book is the notion that for those who were to become either painters or sculptor a training in a trade met their practical needs This training was of an altogether different nature to an education in an art school In the past prospective artists were offered by means of apprenticeships an empirical rather than a theoretical understanding of their ultimate vocation James Ayres provides a lively account of the inter relationship between art and trade in the late seventeenth to early nineteenth centuries in both Britain and North America He demonstrates with numerous illustrated examples the many cross overs in the art and mystery of artistic training and to modern eyes the sometimes incongruous relationships between the various trades that contributed to the blossoming of many artistic careers including some of the most illustrious names of the long eighteenth century The Country House Library Mark Purcell, 2019-09-03 Beginning with new evidence that cites the presence of books in Roman villas and concluding with present day vicissitudes of collecting this generously illustrated book presents a complete survey of British and Irish country house libraries Replete with engaging anecdotes about owners and librarians the book features fascinating information on acquisition bordering on obsession the process of designing library architecture and the care and neglect of collections The author also disputes the notion that these libraries were merely for show arguing that many of them were profoundly scholarly assembled with meticulous care and frequently used for intellectual pursuits For those who love books and the libraries in which they are collected and stored The Country House Library is an essential volume to own

Stourhead Dudley Dodd, 2021-10-14 Brings both house and garden vividly to life A magnificent achievement Gardens Illustrated A finely crafted work it is an important record of the history of one of the country's most splendid estates The English Garden The Palladian house of Stourhead in Wiltshire occupies a plateau above the confluence of three valleys When you cross the south lawn and descend the tree hung slopes you glimpse a lake adorned with classical temples Continue and you will find an allegorical grotto a gothick hideaway a Pantheon of demi gods and on high a deserted temple to Apollo To the west Alfred's Tower commands views over three counties a gaunt landmark to English monarchy and patriotism This is how in Georgian times Henry Hoare known as Henry the Magnificent would have explored the garden he designed Generations of the Hoare family bankers who combined service with enlightened patronage and philanthropy have developed and cultivated the garden at Stourhead and for many its breathtaking vistas are paradise Dudley Dodd charts the owners of Stourhead and the history of the landscape house and art collection He describes how flights of folly individual flair taste and careful stewardship have nurtured a national treasure which is among the finest English landscape gardens and since 1946 a jewel of The National Trust The stunning new pictures by the renowned photographer Marianne Majerus provide an up to date record of this enduring Elysium The National Trust Book of the English House Interior Geoffrey W. YOURSELF HOME IMPROVEMENT Housesteads Roman Fort - the Grandest Station Alan Rushworth, 2014-02-15 Housesteads is one of the most important forts on Hadrian's Wall Extensive excavations were carried out between 1874 and 1981 by Newcastle University Combining the results with those of excavations done between 1959 and 1961 by Durham University we now have a complete plan of the north east part of the fort These excavations uncovered principally Buildings XIII XIV and XV plus stretches of rampart between the north and east gates along with a multitude of features and stratigraphic evidence revealing not only the sequences but also large finds assemblages In addition to shedding much light on the material culture of the fort's occupants and the structural and chronological relationships between various parts of the fort limited reinvestigation of Building XIV and excavation of the east end of Building XV enabled significant reinterpretation of the original conclusions reached by the Durham investigators including some redating of structures These excavations uncover the full 300 year period during which the fort formed an integral part of the Roman military frontier for much if not all of that time the base of the cohorts I Tungrorum milliaria peditat This report documents the excavations and gives full finds reports and the analysis of the evidence has enabled the authors to provide a full history of this part of the fort Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act : 1980 Appraisal United States.
