National Constitutions And International Economic Law Studies In Transnational Economic Law:

National Constitutions and International Economic Law Meinhard Hilf (jurist.), Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann, 1993-02-16 This book comprises contributions from leading practitioners and scholars in relation to national constitutions and international economic law and the conflicts that may arise International Contracts and National Economic Regulation: Dispute Resolution Through International Commercial Arbitration Mahmood Bagheri, 2000-12-06 The growth of national economic regulation and the process of globalisation increasingly expose international transactions to an array of regulations from different jurisdictions These developments often contribute to widespread international contractual failures when parties claim the incompatibility of their contractual obligations with regulatory laws The author challenges conventional means of dispute resolution and argues for an interdisciplinary approach whereby disciplines such as international economic law conflict of laws contract law and economic regulations are functionally united to resolve international and multifaceted regulatory disputes He identifies the normative foundation of contract law as an important determinant in this process contending that contract law is essentially neutral and underpinned by the concept of corrective justice while economic regulations are mainly prompted by distributive justice Applying this corrective distributive justice dichotomy to international contracts the author critically assesses major conflict of laws approaches such as proper law the Rome Convention and governmental interest analysis which could disregard either public interest or private rights The author taking these theories into account proposes an alternative two dimensional interest analysis approach He tests the viability of this approach with reference to arbitral awards and court decisions in various jurisdictions and concludes that it uniquely fits into the structure of international commercial arbitration In adopting this approach arbitrators would take into account both corrective and distributive justice and to the extent that corrective justice prevails would be able to avert a total failure of the contract The International Legal System in Quest of Equity and Universality Laurence Boisson de Chazournes, Vera Gowlland-Debbas, 2021-10-18 Georges Abi Saab began his writing and teaching at a time when the process of decolonization and thereafter the quest for emancipation began to make its far reaching impact on the international scene producing significant changes in the international environment both quantitatively in increasing the number of nation States and qualitatively in changing patterns of interests and claims This was bound to result in new pressures on the international legal system itself and in a questioning of the traditional Eurocentric content of international law In his work and teaching Professor Abi Saab viewed the dynamics of international law as a function of two driving forces the emergence of the third world and the sense of injustice In his view the first driving force the emergence of the third world raised the problem of exclusion exclusion from participation in the elaboration of international law and the decision making process and exclusion as beneficiaries of the resulting rules of international law At the same time this new force introduced diversity into the international scene reflecting the richness of the international community in its different facets This process remains relevant today reflecting the contemporary problem of exclusion of new actors as well as their quest for participation The second driving force the sense of injustice posed a teleological problem for him that of defining community values in order that they capture the different facets of justice whether formal or distributive So long as there is no effective organic structure international law in his view will continue to remain effectiveness oriented reflecting rather than impacting on the structures of power Nevertheless it is undeniable that there is an on going process of development of community values and interests as Georges Abi Saab wrote with reference to international crimes law like all social phenomena is a continuous unfolding a continuous process of elaboration He has also considered that the dynamics of the international legal process itself can be captured from the perspective of international organizations as vehicles for change in the international system From his early writings Georges Abi Saab approached the United Nations Charter as a blueprint both normative and institutional for a certain type of international society International institutions with all their imperfections continue for him to be the means of realization of the law of cooperation which lies at the heart of his concept of the international system The themes selected for this volume in honour of Professor Georges Abi Saab are intended to reflect his unique and pioneering contribution to the field of international law The contributors are drawn from what he has always considered to be his large family of former students in his forty years of teaching Georges Abi Saab has acted as mentor to generations of students from all over the world who have benefited from his vision insights originality and creative and stimulating use of language The contributors also include colleagues and friends who share a similar vision of the international legal system

Law Making Under the Trade Constitution: A Study in Legislating by the World Trade Organization Gail Evans, 2000-01-01 This work lays the foundation for an empirical understanding of the WTO constitution as a response to the logic of intellectual property law It concludes that the WTO and its institutions must find ways of conforming to the democratic principles of accountability transparency and representation

Local Engagement with International Economic Law and Human Rights Ljiljana Biukovic, Pitman B. Potter, 2017-05-26 Providing an analysis of global regulation and the impact of international organizations on domestic laws this collection grew out of a central objective to explore methods of domestic engagement with international trade and human rights norms and the inherent difficulties in establishing balanced links between these two international law regimes The common thread of the papers in this collection is a focus on the application of socio legal normative paradigms in building knowledge and policy support for coordinating local performance with international trade and human rights standards in ways that are mutually sustaining

International Economic Law Colin Picker, Isabella D Bunn, Douglas Arner, 2008-04-08 Bretton Woods has become shorthand for the post war international financial and economic framework Mindful of the historic 1944 conference and its legacy for the discipline of international economic law the American Society of International Law's International Economic Law Group IELG chose Bretton Woods as the venue for a landmark scholarly meeting In November of 2006 a diverse group of academics and practitioners gathered to reflect on the past present and future of international economic law They sought to survey and advance three particular areas of endeavour research and scholarship teaching and practice service This book represents an edited collection of some of the exceptional papers presented at the conference including contributions from Andreas Lowenfeld Joel Trachtman Amelia Porges and Andrew Lang The volume is organised into three parts each covering one of the three pillars in the discipline of international economic law research and scholarship teaching and practice service It begins with an assessment of the state and future of research in the field including chapters on questions such as what is international economic law Is it a branch of international law or of economic law How do fields outside of law such as economics and international relations relate to international economic law How do research methodologies influence policy outcomes The second part examines the state and future of teaching in the subject Chapters cover topics such as how and where is international economic law taught Is the training provided in the law schools suitable for future academics government officials or practitioners How might regional shortcomings in academic resources be addressed The final part of the book focuses on the state and future of international economic law practice in the Bretton Woods era including institutional reform The contributors consider issues such as what is the nature of international economic law practice What are the needs of practitioners in government private practice international and non governmental organisations Finally how have the Bretton Woods institutions adapted to these and other challenges and how might they better respond in the future International Economic Law The State and Future of the Discipline will be of interest to lawyers economists and other professionals throughout the world whether in the private public academic or non governmental sectors seeking both fresh insights and expert assessments in this expanding field Indeed the book itself promises to play a role in the next phase of the development of international economic law The Oxford Handbook on The World Trade Organization Amrita Narlikar, Martin Daunton, Robert M. Stern, 2012-05-31 This handbook provides a holistic understanding of what the World Trade Organization does how it goes about fulfilling its tasks its achievements and problems and how it might contend with some critical challenges Collected Courses of the Xiamen Academy of International Law, Volume 3 (2010) The Xiamen Academy of International Law, 2011-06-22 The Collected Courses of the Xiamen Academy of International Law contain the Summer Courses taught at the Xiamen Academy of International Law by highly qualified international legal professionals The Third Volume of the Series contains the following articles New Trends of International Law in the Era of Globalization Stephan Hobe Tradition versus Harmonization in the Recent Reforms of Contract Law Ole Lando Constitutional Functions and Constitutional Problems of International Economic Law in the 21st Century Ernst Ulrich Petersmann International Law A System of Relationships Malcolm N Shaw QC The International Law of Watercourses New Dimensions Patricia Wouters The Xiamen Academy of International Law aims to promote academic exchanges among legal communities across the globe encourage examination of major international issues and by so doing seek ways to improve the possibilities for world peace and international cooperation It seeks to achieve this aim by providing the highest level of education to individuals particularly those from Asian countries interested in the development and use of international law persons such as young lecturers in international law diplomats practitioners of transnational law government officials in charge of foreign affairs and officials of international organizations

Tax Treaties and Controlled Foreign Company Legislation: Pushing the Boundaries Daniel Sandler, 1998-07-29 In depth analysis of the potential conflict between CFC legislation and tax treaties The book also evaluates the potential conflict between the CFC legislation found in European Union countries and the EC Treaty

International Economic Law in the 21st Century Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann, 2012-07-24 The state centred Westphalian model of international law has failed to protect human rights and other international public goods effectively Most international trade financial and environmental agreements do not even refer to human rights consumer welfare democratic citizen participation and transnational rule of law for the benefit of citizens This book argues that these multilevel governance failures are largely due to inadequate regulation of the collective action problems in the supply of international public goods such as inadequate legal judicial and democratic accountability of governments vis a vis citizens Rather than treating citizens as mere objects of intergovernmental economic and environmental regulation and leaving multilevel governance of international public goods to discretionary foreign policy human rights and constitutional democracy call for civilizing and constitutionalizing international economic and environmental cooperation by stronger legal and judicial protection of citizens and their constitutional rights in international economic law Moreover intergovernmental regulation of transnational cooperation among citizens must be justified by principles of justice and multilevel constitutional restraints protecting rights of citizens and their public reason The reality of constitutional pluralism requires respecting legitimately diverse conceptions of human rights and democratic constitutionalism The obvious failures in the governance of interrelated trading financial and environmental systems must be restrained by cosmopolitan constitutional conceptions of international law protecting the transnational rule of law and participatory democracy for the benefit of citizens

Domestic Politics and International Relations in US-Japan Trade Policymaking C. Meyerson, 2003-10-14 To what extent does domestic politics affect the agreement reached in an international trade negotiation In order to address this question Christopher C Meyerson develops an approach to analyzing the relationship between domestic politics and international relations in trade policymaking This approach is used to analyze both American and Japanese trade policymaking and US Japan trade negotiations especially during the GATT Uruguay Round agriculture negotiations that occurred between 1986 and 1994 Meyerson not only develops an innovative approach to the analysis of the relationship between domestic politics and international relations in trade policymaking but also using publicly available GATT documents and publications US Congressional hearings and Japanese language sources provides a strong narrative description of the roles of the United States and Japan in the GATT Uruguay Round agriculture negotiations

Wolfrum, 2021-12-28 Solidarity and community interest may appear to be purely abstract notions But in fact they may form the basis of a more flexible approach to international lawmaking than traditional formulas of legally binding commitments Through an empirical analysis of existing and emerging public international law this book traces these concepts in existing regimes and investigates the impact they have had and will continue to have on the progressive development of specific international regimes particularly those serving the protection of the environment and of human rights It discusses how through these two regimes these concepts have changed the international normative order and explores the challenges such changes have created for implementation and enforcement One such challenge is the lack of an adequate dispute settlement regime and the book closes with some practical suggestions for an appropriate mechanism Searching the Law, 3d Edition

Frank Bae, Edward Bander, Francis Doyle, Joel Fishman, Paul Richert, 2021-12-13 Constitutional Functions and Constitutional Problems of International Economic Law Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann, 2019-03-04 This book analyzes in four parts constitutional problems of foreign trade policy and foreign trade law in constitutional democracies which protect fundamental human rights and effective political equality through constitutional restraints on the exercise of all government powers Constitutionalism, Multilevel Trade Governance and Social Regulation Christian Joerges, Ernst-Ulrich

Petersmann, 2006-10-19 This is a book about the ever more complex legal networks of transnational economic governance structures and their legitimacy problems It takes up the challenge of the editors' earlier pioneering works which have called for more cross sectoral and interdisciplinary analyses by scholars of international law European and international economic law private international law international relations theory and social philosophy to examine the interdependences of multilevel governance in transnational economic social environmental and legal relations Two complementary strands of theorising are expounded One argues that globalisation and the universal recognition of human rights are transforming the intergovernmental society of states into a cosmopolitan community of citizens which requires more effective constitutional safeguards for protecting human rights and consumer welfare in the national and international governance and legal regulation of international trade The second emphasises the dependence of the functioning of international markets and liberal trade on governance arrangements which respond credibly to safety and environmental concerns of consumers traders political and non governmental actors Enquiries into the generation of international standards and empirical analyses of legalization and judicialisation practices form part of this agenda The perspectives and conclusions of the more than 20 contributors from Europe and North America cannot be uniform But they converge in their search for a constitutional architecture which limits empowers and legitimises multilevel trade governance as well as in their common premise that respect for human rights private and democratic self government and social justice require more transparent participatory and deliberative forms of transnational cosmopolitan democracy

The Investment Treaty Regime and Public Interest Regulation in Africa Dominic Npoanlari Dagbanja, 2022-07-14 A large amount of foreign direct investment FDI has been poured into Africa in recent decades and these investments can come with adverse effects on the environment human rights and development At the same time investment treaties entered into by African states and aimed at promoting and protecting FDI seriously limit those states ability to regulate such activities in the interests of affected communities Whilst these tensions have generated global debate little attention has been paid to the legal status of many of these investment treaties and whether given their constitutional and customary international law obligations to act in the public interest African states truly have the capacity to conclude treaties which contain standards of investment protection expressly preventing or unduly abridging the exercise of their regulatory authority Focusing on this question The Investment Treaty Regime and Public Interest Regulation in Africa presents The Imperatives Theory a legal normative and principled framework for rethinking the legal status making and reform of investment treaties and investment dispute settlement in Africa with relevant and significant implications for the global investment treaty regime

Import Propensities of Industrialized Countries J. Lutz, 2016-04-30 This volume analyzes the import patterns of selected countries to determine which nations are active importers and which ones import much less than expected The majority of the work focuses on the industrialized countries which are at the center of the international trading system determining which are very active importers and which are not Controls for wealth size and membership in customs areas are included Countries importing at levels below predicted ones are the countries likely to be most effective at protecting domestic industries from foreign competition For example the results permit an evaluation of the arguments that Japan has consistently imported less than would be expected due to the presence of barriers protecting the domestic market

WTO - Institutions and Dispute Settlement Rüdiger Wolfrum, Peter-Tobias Stoll, Karen Kaiser, 2006-05-29 Two of the greatest achievements of the Uruguay Round were the establishment of the World Trade Organization WTO as compared to the GATT a fully fledged international organization and the creation of a new uniform and binding dispute settlement system While the failure of the Ministerial Conferences in Seattle and Canc n revealed the first cracks in the institutional structure of the WTO the operation of the new dispute settlement system has so far been a remarkable success In a practical and authoritative article by article account this volume
