The National Curriculum and the Primary School Jeni Riley, 1992 Curriculum: Construction and Critique Prof Alistair Ross, Alistair Ross, 2003-09-02 Although curriculum is central to the schooling process debates about it are rarely well informed Over the past ten years there has been a dearth of books that have informed the debate by examining curriculum in a broader context beyond the National Curriculum Ross in this refreshing re examination of the area opens up a more general debate on how the curriculum is shaped and the compromises made between different ideologies of the nature and purpose of education Creative Teachers in Primary Schools Peter Woods, 2019-07-17 Is creative teaching still possible in English schools Can teachers maintain and promote their own interests and beliefs as well as deliver a prescribed National Curriculum Originally published in 1995 this book explores creative teachers attempts to pursue their brand of teaching despite the changes Peter Woods has discovered a range of strategies and adaptations to this end among such teachers including resisting change which runs counter to their own values appropriating the National Curriculum within their own ethos enhancing their role through the use of others and enriching their work through the National Curriculum to provide quality learning experiences If all else fails such teachers remove themselves from the system and take their creativity elsewhere A strong theme of self determination runs through these experiences While acknowledging hard realities the book is ultimately optimistic and a tribute to the dedication and inspiration of primary teachers The book makes an important contribution to educational theory showing a range of responses to intensification as well as providing many detailed examples of collaborative research methods Parents And Teachers Carol Vincent, 2013-10-08 This work examines the factors that shape and influence home school relations At its heart is an analysis of parent teacher relationships in an inner city borough drawn from case studies of five primary schools and a parents centre Interviews with parents are revealing windows into parents views on a range of issues including curriculum discipline and parents relationships with their children s teachers The author also considers teachers perspectives on these matters and explores the influence of social class ethnicity and gender on parent teacher interactions While presenting these issues within a consideration of broader themes such as citizenship community power and participation the book discusses the reasons why initiatives designed to improve home school relations appear to result in such limited change Unfolding Creativity John Howlett, Amy Palmer, 2021-10-28 This book presents a selection of case studies of pioneers in arts education who were working in the United Kingdom in the period 1890 to 1950 Focusing on music drama and visual arts and crafts the editors and contributors examine the impact these individuals had on developing innovative approaches to these subject areas and how they drew on perspectives that emphasised the need for children s self expression The chapters offer an analysis of the pioneers beliefs and values with a particular emphasis on their ideological positions about identity nation and what constituted good taste The book further examines how their ideas were disseminated in so doing interrogating the concept of influence in educational theory and
