Not Far Away Lois Beardslee, 2007. In Not Far Away a semi-fictional memoir, Lois Beardslee gives a chilling account of racism particularly that leveled against Native women in language that is supple, evocative, often comical, and always incisive. Her fictional heroine, the teacher Ima Pipiig (pronounced buh BEEG), endures humiliating insults from school administrators, fellow teachers, students, and callous neighbors. For years she suffers in silence, believing that opposing bigotry would only fuel its caustic flames, but then she begins to speak out. Scattered among the chapters chronicling Ima's experiences are essays and speeches written by the author herself, blurring the line between fiction and fact and creating a kind of resounding echo of resistance that is the author's response to racism.

The Indian History of an American Institution Colin G. Calloway, 2010-07-31. Dartmouth College began life as an Indian school, a pretense that has since been abandoned. Still, the institution has a unique if complicated relationship with Native Americans and their history. Beginning with Samson Occom's role as the first development officer of the college, Colin G. Calloway tells the entire complex story of Dartmouth's historical and ongoing relationship with Native Americans. Calloway recounts the struggles and achievements of Indian attendees and the history of Dartmouth alumni's involvements with American Indian affairs. He also covers more recent developments such as the mascot controversies, the emergence of an active Native American student organization, and the partial fulfillment of a promise deferred. This is a fascinating picture of an elite American institution and its troubled relationship at times compassionate, at times conflicted, with Indians and Native American culture.
