In Twilight and in Dawn Barnett Richling, 2012-10-01 When New Zealand born and Oxford educated anthropologist Diamond Jenness set aside hopes of building a career in the South Pacific to join Vilhjalmur Stefansson s Canadian Arctic Expedition he had little idea of what lay ahead But Jenness thrived under the duress of that transformational experience the groundbreaking ethnographic work he accomplished recounted in People of the Twilight and in Dawn in Arctic Alaska proved to be a lasting contribution to twentieth century anthropology and the foundation of a career he would devote to researching Canada s first peoples Barnett Richling draws upon a wealth of documentary sources to shed light on Jenness s tenure with the Anthropological Division of the National Museum of Canada a forerunner of the Canadian Museum of Civilization during which his investigations took him beyond the Arctic to seven First Nations communities from Georgian Bay to British Columbia s interior Jenness was renowned as a pre eminent scholar of Inuit culture but he also stood out for the contributions his field work made to linguistics ethnology material culture and Northern archaeology His story is also an institutional one Jenness worked as a public servant at a time when the federal government spearheaded anthropological research although his abiding commitment to the first peoples of his adopted homeland placed him at odds with Ottawa s approach to aboriginal affairs In Twilight and in Dawn is an exploration of one man s life in anthropology and of the conditions at the museum on the reserves in society s mainstream and in the world at large that inspired and shaped Jenness s contributions to science to his profession and to public life An informative study of the evolution of a discipline focused through the life of one of its leading practitioners In Twilight and in Dawn is an illuminating look at anthropological thought and practice in Canada during the first half of the twentieth century Iroquois in the West Jean Barman, 2019-03-04 Two centuries ago many hundreds of Iroquois principally from what is now Kahnaw ke left home without leaving behind their ways of life Recruited to man the large canoes that transported trade goods and animal pelts from and to Montreal some Iroquois soon returned while others were enticed ever further west by the rapidly expanding fur trade Recounting stories of Indigenous self determination and self sufficiency Iroquois in the West tracks four clusters of travellers across time place and generations a band that settled in Montana another ranging across the American West others opting for British Columbia and the Pacific Northwest and a group in Alberta who were evicted when their longtime home became Jasper National Park Reclaiming slivers of Iroquois knowledge anecdotes and memories from the shadows of the past Jean Barman draws on sources that range from descendants recollections to fur trade and government records to travellers accounts What becomes clear is that no matter the places or the circumstances the Iroquois never abandoned their senses of self Opening up new ways of thinking about Indigenous peoples through time Iroquois in the West shares the fascinating adventures of a people who have waited over two hundred years to be heard Studying Arctic

Fields Richard C. Powell, 2017-12-12 In recent years the circumpolar region has emerged as the key to understanding global climate change The plight of the polar bear resource extraction debates indigenous self determination and competing definitions of sovereignty among Arctic nation states have brought the northernmost part of the planet to the forefront of public consideration Yet little is reported about the social world of environmental scientists in the Arctic What happens at the isolated sites where experts seek to answer the most pressing questions facing the future of humanity Portraying the social lives of scientists at Resolute in Nunavut and their interactions with logistical staff and Inuit Richard Powell demonstrates that the scientific community is structured along power differentials in response to gender class and race To explain these social dynamics the author examines the history and vision of the Government of Canada s Polar Continental Shelf Program and John Diefenbaker s Northern Vision combining ethnography with wider discourses on nationalism identity and the postwar evolution of scientific sovereignty in the high Arctic By revealing an expanded understanding of the scientific life as it relates to politics history and cultures Studying Arctic Fields articulates a new theory of field research Advocating for a greater appreciation of science in the remote parts of the world Studying Arctic Fields is an innovative approach to anthropology environmental inquiry and geography and a landmark statement on Arctic science as a social practice

Steele,2013-11-01 Among the many upheavals in North America caused by the French and Indian War was a commonplace practice that affected the lives of thousands of men women and children being taken captive by rival forces Most previous studies of captivity in early America are content to generalize from a small selection of sources often centuries apart In Setting All the Captives Free Ian Steele presents from a mountain of data the differences rather than generalities as well as how these differences show the variety of circumstances that affected captives experiences The product of a herculean effort to identify and analyze the captives taken on the Allegheny frontier during the era of the French and Indian War Setting All the Captives Free is the most complete study of this topic Steele explores genuine doctored and fictitious accounts in an innovative challenge to many prevailing assumptions and arguments revealing that Indians demonstrated humanity and compassion by continuing to take numerous captives when their opponents took none by adopting and converting captives into kin during the war and by returning captives even though doing so was a humiliating act that betrayed their societies values A fascinating and comprehensive work by an acclaimed scholar Setting All the Captives Free takes the study of the French and Indian War in America to an exciting new level      A Companion to American Indian History Philip J. Turner,2020-08-20 For millennia plants and their habitats have been fundamental to the lives of Indigenous Peoples as sources of food and nutrition medicines and technological materials and central to ceremonial traditions spiritual beliefs narratives and language While the First Peoples of Canada and other parts of the world have developed deep cultural understandings of plants and their environments this knowledge is often underrecognized in debates about land rights and title reconciliation treaty negotiations and traditional territories Plants People and Places argues that the time is long past due to recognize and accommodate Indigenous Peoples relationships with plants and their ecosystems Essays in this volume by leading voices in

Raven, Jeremy Webber, 2011-11-01 In the early 1970s many questioned whether Aboriginal title existed in Canada and rejected the notion that Aboriginal peoples should have rights different from those of other citizens But in 1973 the Supreme Court of Canada issued a landmark decision in the Calder case confirming that Aboriginal title constituted a right within Canadian law Let Right Be Done examines the doctrine of Aboriginal title thirty years later and puts the Calder case in its legal historical and political context both nationally and internationally With its innovative blend of scholarly analysis and input from many of those intimately involved in the case this book should be essential reading for anyone interested in Aboriginal law treaty negotiations and the history of the BC Indian land question Forty Narratives in the Wyandot

Wasáse Taiaiake Alfred, 2005-08-01 The word Was se is the Kanienkeha Mohawk word for the ancient war dance ceremony of unity strength and commitment to action The author notes This book traces the journey of those Indigenous people who have found a way to transcend the colonial identities which are the legacy of our history and live as Onkwehonwe original people It is dialogue and reflection on the process of transcending colonialism in a personal and collective sense making meaningful change in our lives and transforming society by recreating our personalities regenerating our cultures and surging against forces that keep us bound to our colonial past      Marshall Decision and Native Rights Ken

Coates,2000-11-09 In The Marshall Decision and Native Rights Ken Coates explains the cross cultural legal and political implications of the recent Supreme Court decision on the Donald Marshall case He describes the events personalities and conflicts that brought the Maritimes to the brink of a major confrontation between Mi kmaq and the non Mi kmaq fishers in the fall of 1999 detailing the bungling by federal departments and the lack of police preparedness He shows how political business and Mi kmaq leaders in the Maritimes handled the volatile situation urging non violence and speaking out against racism in contrast to the way federal and regional leaders have responded in other parts of the country Legal victories such as Marshall argues Coates are a double edged sword that provide greater legal clarity but expand the gap between indigenous and non indigenous peoples in Canada Coates recounts the history of Mi kmaq white contact in the region and considers the impact of native rights on natural resources showing that the costs will be borne mainly by rural Canadians By placing the local and regional reaction to the Marshall decision in the broader historical national and international context of indigenous political and legal rights The Marshall Decision and Native Rights shows how little Canada has learned from three decades of First Nations legal conflicts and how far the country is from meaningful reconciliation      Inuit Women Janet

Mancini Billson,Kyra Mancini,2007-04-09 Inuit Women is the definitive study of the Inuit during a time of rapid change Based on fourteen years of research and fieldwork this analysis focuses on the challenges facing Inuit women as they enter the twenty first century Written shortly after the creation of Nunavut a new province carved out of traditional Inuit homelands in the Canadian North this compelling book combines conclusions drawn from the authors ethnographic research with the stories of Inuit women and men told in their own words In addition to their presentation of the personal portraits and voices of many Inuit respondents Janet Mancini Billson and Kyra Mancini explore global issues the impact of rapid social change and Canadian resettlement policy on Inuit culture women s roles in society and gender relations in Baffin Island in the Eastern Arctic They also include an extensive section on how the newly created territory of Nunavut is impacting the lives of Inuit women and their families Working from a research approach grounded in feminist theory the authors involve their Inuit interviewees as full participants in the process This book stands alone in its attention to Inuit women s issues and lives and should be read by everyone interested in gender relations development modernization globalization and Inuit culture

National Identity and the Conflict at Oka Amelia Kalant,2004-06 Through readings of literature canonical history texts studies of museum displays and media analysis this work explores the historical formation of myths of Canadian national identity and then how these myths were challenged and affirmed during the 1990 standoff at Oka It draws upon history literary criticism anthropology studies in nationalism and ethnicity and post colonial theory      Fighting for a Hand to Hold Samir Shaheen-Hussain,2020-09-23 Launched by healthcare providers in January 2018 the aHand2Hold campaign confronted the Quebec government's practice of separating children from their families during medical evacuation airlifts which disproportionately affected remote and northern Indigenous communities. Pediatric emergency physician Samir Shaheen Hussain's captivating narrative of this successful campaign which garnered unprecedented public attention and media coverage seeks to answer lingering questions about why such a cruel practice remained in place for so long. In doing so it serves as an indispensable case study of contemporary medical colonialism in Quebec. Fighting for a Hand to Hold exposes the medical establishment's role in the displacement, colonization and genocide of Indigenous peoples in Canada. Through meticulously gathered government documentation, historical scholarship, media reports, public inquiries and personal testimonies, Shaheen Hussain connects the draconian medevac practice with often disregarded crimes and medical violence inflicted specifically on Indigenous children. This devastating history and ongoing medical colonialism prevent Indigenous communities from attaining internationally recognized measures of health and social well-being because of the pervasive systemic anti-Indigenous racism that persists in the Canadian public health care system and in settler society at large. Shaheen Hussain's unique perspective combines his experience as a frontline pediatrician with his long-standing involvement in anti-authoritarian social justice movements. Sparked by the indifference and callousness of those in power, this book draws on the innovative work of Indigenous scholars and activists to conclude that a broader decolonization struggle calling for reparations, land reclamation and self-determination for Indigenous peoples is critical to achieve reconciliation in Canada.

Earth Into Property Tony Hall, 2010. A broad exploration of the colonial roots of global capitalism and the worldwide quest of Indigenous people for liberation through decolonization. Atiqput Carol Payne, Beth Greenhorn, Deborah Kigjugalik Webster, Christina Williamson, 2022-09-16. Our names Atiqput are very meaningful. They are our identification. They are our Spirits. We are named after what's in the sky for strength, what's in the water, the land, body parts. Every name is attached to every part of our body and mind. Yes, every name is alive. Every name has a meaning. Much of our names have been misspelled and many of them have lost their meanings forever. Our Project Naming has been about identifying Inuit who became nameless over the years, just unidentified eskimos. With Project Naming we have put Inuit meanings back in the pictures, back to life. Piita Irniq. For over two decades, Inuit collaborators living across Inuit Nunangat and in the South have returned names to hundreds of previously anonymous Inuit seen in historical photographs held by Library and Archives Canada as part of Project Naming. This innovative photo-based history research initiative was established by the Inuit school Nunavut Sivuniksavut and the national archive. Atiqput celebrates Inuit naming practices and through them honours Inuit culture, history and storytelling. Narratives by Inuit elders including Sally Kate Webster, Piita Irniq, Maniok Thompson, Ann Meekitjuk Hanson and David Serkoak form the heart of the book as they reflect on naming traditions and the intergenerational conversations spurred by the photographic archive. Other contributions present scholarly insights and research projects that extend Project Naming's methodology interspersed with pictorial essays by the artist Barry Pottle and the filmmaker

Asinnajaq Through oral testimony and photography Atiqput rewrites the historical record created by settler societies and challenges a legacy of colonial visualization      Popular Justice and Community Regeneration Kayleen M.
