Natives of Sarawak Evelyn Hong, 1987 Based on interviews and research conducted in 1985 Natives of Sarawak Evelyn Hong, 1987 State, Communities and Forests in Contemporary Borneo Fadzilah Majid Cooke, 2006-07-01 The name Borneo evokes visions of constantly changing landscapes but with important island wide continuities One of the continuities has been the forests which have for generations been created and modified by the indigenous population but over the past three decades have been partially replaced by tree crops grass or scrub This book the first in the series of Asia Pacific Environmental Monographs looks at the political complexities of forest management across the whole island of Borneo tackling issues of tenure land use change and resource competition tradition versus modernity disputes within and between communities between communities and private firms or between communities and governments While it focuses on the changes taking place in local political economies and conservation practices it also makes visible the larger changes taking place in both Indonesia and Malaysia The common theme of the volume is the need to situate local complexities in the larger institutional context and the possible gains to be made from such an approach in the search for alternative models of conservation and development , Histories of Health in Southeast Asia Tim Harper, Sunil S. Amrith, 2014-10-01 Health patterns in Southeast Asia have changed profoundly over the past century In that period epidemic and chronic diseases environmental transformations and international health institutions have created new connections within the region and the increased interdependence of Southeast Asia with China and India In this volume leading scholars provide a new approach to the history of health in Southeast Asia Framed by a series of synoptic pieces on the Landscapes of Health in Southeast Asia in 1914 1950 and 2014 the essays interweave local national and regional perspectives They range from studies of long term processes such as changing epidemics mortality and aging and environmental history to detailed accounts of particular episodes the global cholera epidemic and the hajj the influenza epidemic of 1918 WWII and natural disasters The writers also examine state policy on healthcare and the influence of organizations from NGOs such as the China Medical Board and the Rockefeller Foundation to grassroots organizations in Thailand Indonesia and the Philippines Anthropologica , 2002

Timber Booms and Institutional Breakdown in Southeast Asia Michael L. Ross, 2001-01-08 Scholars have long studied how institutions emerge and become stable But why do institutions sometimes break down In this book Michael L. Ross explores the breakdown of the institutions that govern natural resource exports in developing states He shows that these institutions often break down when states receive positive trade shocks unanticipated windfalls Drawing on the theory of rent seeking he suggests that these institutions succumb to a problem he calls rent seizing the predatory behavior of politicians who seek to supply rent to others and who purposefully dismantle institutions that restrain them Using case studies of timber booms in Indonesia Malaysia and the Philippines he shows how windfalls tend to trigger rent seizing activities that may have disastrous consequences for state institutions and for the government of natural resources More generally he shows how institutions can collapse when they have become endogenous to any rent seeking process

KELABITS' STORY THE GREAT TRANSITION Sagau Batu Bala, 2014 The book tries to answer the questions Who are the Kelabits Why are they called Kelabits Where do they live When did they come to live there What were their problems What made them what they are today What must they do in order to advance forward God and Gaia Michael S Northcott, 2022-12-22 God and Gaia explores the overlap between traditional religious cosmologies and the scientific Gaia theory of James Lovelock It argues that a Gaian approach to the ecological crisis involves rebalancing human and more than human influences on Earth by reviving the ecological agency of local and indigenous human communities and of nonhuman beings Present day human ecological influences on Earth have been growing at pace since the Scientific and Industrial Revolutions when modern humans adopted a machine cosmology in which humans are the sole intelligent agency The resultant imbalance between human and Earthly agencies is degrading the species diversity of ecosystems causing local climate changes and threatens to destabilise the Earth as a System Across eight chapters this ambitious text engages with traditional cosmologies from the Indian Vedas and classical Greece to Medieval Christianity with case material from Southeast Asia Southern Africa and Great Britain It discusses concepts such as deep time and ancestral time the ethics of genetic engineering of foods and viruses and holistic ecological management Northcott argues that an ontological turn that honours the differential agency of indigenous humans and other kind and that draws on sacred traditions will make it is possible to repair the destabilising impacts of contemporary human activities on the Earth System and its constituent ecosystems This book will be of considerable interest to students and scholars of the environmental humanities history and cultural and religious studies Environmental Change in South-East Asia Raymond Bryant, Michael Parnwell, 2005-08-03 Environmental Change in South East Asia brings together scholars journalists consultants and NGO activists to explore the interaction of people politics and ecology Ostensibly green activities plantation forestry eco tourism hydro electricity are revealed as guises used by elites to promote their own political and economic interests Highlighting fatal flaws in presently exclusive economic and ecological approaches the authors stress that neither the quest for sustainable development nor the process of environmental change itself can be understood without reference to political processes The Hidden Harvest Ian Scoones, Mary Melnyk, Jules N. Pretty, 1992 971 references on wild foods in agricultural systems are selected with the intention to provide an indication of the range of research carried out on this subject highlighting key themes of policy interest The bibliography is organised into a number of different thematic sessions Each session starts with an introduction with references to major issues in the literature and areas where questions remain unanswered Each reference is provided with an abstract Three indices are given a regional index an ethnic groups index and a thematic index Green Consumption Bart Barendregt, Rivke Jaffe, 2020-05-15 Green lifestyles and ethical consumption have become increasingly popular strategies in moving towards environmentally friendly societies and combating global poverty Where previously environmentalists saw excess consumption as central to the problem green consumerism now places consumption at the heart of the solution However ethical and sustainable consumption are also important forms of central to the creation and maintenance of class distinction Green Consumption scrutinizes the emergent phenomenon of what this book terms eco chic a combination of lifestyle politics environmentalism spirituality beauty and health Eco chic connects ethical sustainable and elite consumption It is increasingly part of the identity kit of certain sections of society who seek to combine taste and style with care for personal wellness and the environment This book deals with eco chic as a set of activities an ideological framework and a popular marketing strategy offering a critical examination of its manifestations in both the global North and South The diverse case studies presented in this book range from Basque sheep cheese production and Ghanaian Afro chic hairstyles to Asian tropical spa culture and Dutch fair trade jewellery initiatives The authors assess the ways in which eco chic with its apparent paradox of consumption and idealism can make a genuine contribution to solving some of the most pressing problems of our time

The Brazilian Amazon Rainforest Luiz C. Barbosa, 2000 Barbosa sociology San Francisco State University provides a global world systemic analysis of the problem of deforestation of the Brazilian Amazon rainforest He shows how changes in global ecopolitics demanding sustainable development coupled with the onset of democracy in Brazil substantially altered the battle over the future of Amazonia He describes deforestation in the region in the context of an expanding frontier of global capitalism and compares Amazon experiences with those of Costa Rica Malaysia and Indonesia

Borneo Transformed Jean-Francois Bissonnette, Stephane Bernard, Rodolphe De Koninck, 2011-03-01 Since the 1960s Southeast Asia s agricultural sector has experienced phenomenal growth with increases in production linked to an energy intensive capitalization of agriculture and the rapid development of agrifood systems and agribusiness Agricultural intensification and territorial expansion have been key to this process with expansion of areas under cultivation playing an unusually important role in the transformation of the countryside and livelihoods of its inhabitants Borneo with vast tracts of land not yet under crops has been the epicenter of this expansion process with rubber and oil palm acting as the spearhead Indonesia s Kalimantan provinces and the Malaysian states of Sabah and Sarawak have all undergone major changes but the time frames have varied as have the crops involved Agricultural expansion in Borneo is both an economic and a political process and it has brought about profound socio economic transformations including deforestation and development of communication networks There has also been rapid population growth much faster than in either Indonesia or Malaysia as a whole with attendant pressures on employment housing and social services Until the end of the 20th century agricultural expansion in Indonesia and Malaysia was largely state driven with the goal of poverty reduction Subsequently as in Borneo boom crop expansion has been taken over by private corporations that are driven by profit maximization rather than poverty reduction

Authoritarian Populism in

Malaysia A. Munro-Kua, 1996-11-13 Socio economic and political issues are dealt with selectively within a chronological historical framework covering the dramatic colonial impact of 1940-60 until the present day. The state is examined from the point of view of social class as well as communalism to explain the dominance of the ruling coalition over the 37 years since independence. The author argues that authoritarian populism is the concept that best fits the apparent paradox of an enduring regime via the ballot box and the extensive restrictions on the scope of democracy particularly through the repressive apparatus of detention without trial. The underlying theme is a critique and explanation of Malaysia's human rights record.

Exploring Agrodiversity H. C. Brookfield, 2001 Small farmers are often viewed as engaging in wasteful practices that wreak ecological havoc. Exploring Agrodiversity sets the record straight. Small farmers are in fact ingenious and inventive and engage in a diverse range of land management strategies many of them resourcefully geared toward conserving resources especially soil. Using case studies from Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Pacific this book provides in depth analysis of agricultural diversity and explores its history.

Dams and Reservoirs under Changing Challenges Anton J. Schleiss, Robert M. Boes, 2011-05-18 In the past boundary conditions in the building of dams have changed as technological developments have been influential on dam planning, construction, operation and maintenance processes. It is ICOLD's mission to not only consider these developments but also adequately deal with environmental aspects and related infrastructure issues.

Altered wa In Search of Good Energy Policy Marc Ozawa, Jonathan Chaplin, Michael Pollitt, David Reiner, Paul Warde, 2019-06-20 Offers an innovative look at why science and technology cannot alone meet the needs of energy policy making in the future.

Third World Political Ecology Sinead Bailey, Raymond Bryant, 2005-08-08 An effective response to contemporary environmental problems demands an approach that integrates political, economic and ecological issues. Third World Political Ecology provides an introduction to an exciting new research field that aims to develop an integrated understanding of the political economy of environmental change in the Third World. The authors review the historical development of the field, explain what is distinctive about Third World political ecology and suggest areas for future development. Clarifying the essentially politicised condition of environmental change today, the authors explore the role of various actors: states, multilateral institutions, businesses, environmental non-governmental organisations, poverty stricken farmers, shifting cultivators and other grassroots actors in the development of the Third World's politicised environment. Third World Political Ecology is the first major attempt to explain the development and characteristics of environmental problems that plague parts of Asia, Africa and Latin America. Drawing on examples from throughout the Third World, the book will be of interest to all those who wish to understand the political and economic bases of the Third World's current predicament.
