Information Technologies for Social Capital: Cross-cultural Perspectives* Peter van den Besselaar, Satoshi Koizumi, 2005-04-25 Digital cities constitutes a multidisciplinary field of research and development where researchers designers and developers of communityware interact and collaborate with social scientists studying the use and effects of these kinds of infrastructures and systems in their local application context The field is rather young After the diffusion of ICT in the world of organizations and companies ICT entered everyday life And this also influenced ICT research and development The 1998 Workshop on Communityware and Social Interaction in Kyoto was an early meeting in which this emerging field was discussed After that two subsequent Digital Cities workshops were organized in Kyoto and a third one in Amsterdam This book is the result of the 3rd Workshop on Digital Cities which took place September 18 19 2003 in Amsterdam in conjunction with the 1st Communities and Technologies Conference Most of the papers were presented at this workshop and were revised thoroughly afterwards Also the case studies of digital cities in Asia the US and Europe included in Part I were direct offsprings of the Digital Cities Workshops Together the papers in this volume give an interesting state of the art overview of the field In total 54 authors from the Americas from Asia and from

Europe were contributed to this volume The authors come from Brazil two the USA eleven China three Japan fourteen Finland two Germany two Italy three Portugal two the Netherlands eight and the UK seven indicating the international nature of the research field Handbook of Information Security, Key Concepts, Infrastructure, Standards, and Protocols Hossein Bidgoli, 2006-03-20 The Handbook of Information Security is a definitive 3 volume handbook that offers coverage of both established and cutting edge theories and developments on information and computer security The text contains 180 articles from over 200 leading experts providing the benchmark resource for information security network security information privacy and information warfare Community Development in Asia and the Pacific Manohar S. Pawar, 2009-09-11 This book familiarizes readers with the Asia Pacific region presents the major social economic and political issues maps contemporary community development trends and critically analyzes the challenges of and opportunities for community development practice in the Asia Pacific region Localizing the Internet John Postill, 2011-08-01 Internet activism is playing a crucial role in the democratic reform happening across many parts of Southeast Asia Focusing on Subang Jaya a suburb of Kuala Lumpur this study offers an in depth examination of the workings of the Internet at the local level In fact Subang Jaya is regarded as Malaysia's electronic governance laboratory The author explores its field of residential affairs a digitally mediated social field in which residents civil servants politicians online journalists and other social agents struggle over how the locality is to be governed at the dawn of the Information Era Drawing on the field theories of both Pierre Bourdieu and the Manchester School of political anthropology this study challenges the unquestioned predominance of network and community as the two key sociation concepts in contemporary Internet studies The analysis extends field theory in four new directions namely the complex articulations between personal networking and social fields the uneven diffusion and circulation of new field technologies and contents intra and inter field political crises and the emergence of new forms of residential sociality Housing Inequality in Chinese Cities Youqin Huang, Si-ming Li, 2014-03-05 In recent decades Chinese cities have experienced profound social economic and spatial transformations In particular Chinese cities have witnessed the largest housing boom in history and unprecedented housing privatization China now is a country of homeowners with more than 70 per cent of urban residents owning homes higher than many developed countries This book shows how China's spectacular housing success is not shared by all social groups with rapidly rising housing inequality and residential segregation increasingly prevalent in previously homogeneous Chinese cities It focuses on the two extremes of the residential landscape and reveals the stark contrast between low income households who live in shacks in so called urban villages and the nouveaux riches who live in exclusive gated villa communities Over four parts the contributors look at the degree to which inequality affects Chinese cities and the extent of residential differentiation housing for the urban poor and in particular housing for migrants from rural China housing for the rapidly expanding Chinese middle class and the new rich and finally governance in residential neighbourhoods Housing Inequality in Chinese Cities presents theoretically informed and empirically grounded research into the polarized residential landscape in Chinese cities and as such will be of great interest to students and scholars of Chinese studies urban geography urban sociology and urban studies Public and Situated Displays K. O'Hara,M. Perry,E. Churchill,D. Russell,2013-03-09 Public and situated display technologies can have an important impact on individual and social behaviour and present us with particular interesting new design considerations and challenges While there is a growing body of research exploring these design considerations and social impact this work remains somewhat disparate making it difficult to assimilate in a coherent manner This book brings together the perspectives of key researchers in the area of public and situated display technology The chapters detail research representing the social technical and interactional aspects of public and situated display technologies The underlying concern common to these chapters is how these displays can be best designed for collaboration coordination community building and mobility Presenting them together allows the reader to examine everyday display activities within the context of emerging technological possibilities Encyclopedia of Library and Information Sciences John D.

McDonald,Michael Levine-Clark,2017-03-15 The Encyclopedia of Library and Information Sciences comprising of seven volumes now in its fourth edition compiles the contributions of major researchers and practitioners and explores the cultural institutions of more than 30 countries This major reference presents over 550 entries extensively reviewed for accuracy in seven print volumes or online The new fourth edition which includes 55 new entire entries and 60 revised entries continues to reflect the growing convergence among the disciplines that influence information and the cultural record with coverage of the latest topics as well as classic articles of historical and theoretical importance Community in the Digital Age

Andrew Feenberg,Darin Barney,2004-07-19 Is the Internet the key to a reinvigorated public life Or will it fragment society by enabling citizens to associate only with like minded others Online community has provided social researchers with insights into our evolving social life As suburbanization and the breakdown of the extended family and neighborhood isolate individuals more and more the Internet appears as a possible source for reconnection Are virtual communities real enough to support the kind of personal commitment and growth we associate with community life or are they fragile and ultimately unsatisfying substitutes for human interaction Community in the Digital Age features the latest most challenging work in an important and fast changing field providing a forum for some of the leading North American social scientists and philosophers concerned with the social and political implications of this new technology Their provocative arguments touch on all sides of the debate surrounding the Internet community and democracy Virtual Community Practices and Social
