New Connections Telecommunications In A Changing South Africa:

New Connections Richard Gerber, Robin Braun, 1998 Written for students as well as business managers in telecommunications industries this book investigates the telecommunications sector worldwide and includes a detailed study of the South African perspective The analysis includes technological advances trade agreements market structures and competition regulations social aspects macroeconomic and strategic considerations and human resource development In addition the 1996 Telecommunications Act the 1997 Amendment Act and the licences and regulations issued under these acts are provided on a disk which accompanies the book These HTML files can be accessed using a Web browser

The Interface of Competition Law, Industrial Policy and Development Concerns Balthasar Strunz, 2018-07-28 This book analyses essential concepts of competition law and industrial policy and shows where the two areas clash with and complement each other respectively The discussion takes place in the context of developing countries taking into consideration their realities and specific needs South Africa serves as a real world example for competition law that goes beyond the notion of consumer welfare An in depth analysis of the enforcement of South African law illustrates how the law is used both to combat the negative effects of past industrial policy and to accommodate current economic and social needs The book is intended for all readers with an interest in the enforcement of competition law in developing countries It will particularly benefit those who want to learn about unorthodox approaches that integrate the concept of public interest and social imperatives into the application of competition law

Extrastatecraft Keller Easterling, 2014-11-04 Extrastatecraft is the operating system of the modern world the skyline of Dubai the subterranean pipes and cables sustaining urban life free trade zones the standardized dimensions of credit cards and hyper consumerist shopping malls It is all this and more Infrastructure sets the invisible rules that govern the spaces of our everyday lives making the city the key site of power and resistance in the twenty first century Keller Easterling reveals the nexus of emerging governmental and corporate forces buried within the concrete and fiber optics of our modern habitat Extrastatecraft will change how we think about cities and perhaps how we live in them

Networks of Communication in South Africa R. Sooryamoorthy, 2017-06-15 This book is an original study on the development of media technologies communications and social networks in South Africa It is for those researching the growth of communication technology and new media in Africa as well as those more widely involved in development studies and economics

Telecommunications in Africa Eli M. Noam, 1999-02-25 A modern telecommunications network is an essential infrastructure for the world's developing nations The emergence of new technologies the entrance of supra national carriers and deregulation in the telecommunications sector have resulted in the globalization of telecommunications and the opening of markets on every continent Collecting the work of 19 expert contributors this book provides a comprehensive examination of what African countries are doing to build their telecommunications capabilities Africa has historically lagged behind other regions in developing its telecommunications infrastructure and the penetration rate for basic service is still relatively low But as some African nations undergo restructuring they have begun to open their networks to foreign investors and regional cooperative ventures to expand basic and advanced telecommunications services The contributors discuss the uneven pace of economic regulatory and social change among African nations as state telecommunications monopolies maintain their hold in some countries and give way to privatization in others Analyzing the political and economic changes of the 1990s the contributors provide clues about how Africa can shake off decades of inertia and prepare to take part in the global information economy Edited by an internationally recognized authority on telecommunications this volume is the latest in a series that surveys telecommunications in the major regions of the world Thorough and accessible it is a valuable resource for students and scholars in the areas of communications economics regulatory law telecommunications engineering and African studies as well as telecommunications professionals and policy makers New Media N. C. Lesame, 2005 In this publication the contributors share their knowledge of and expertise in the Information and Communication Technology ICT sector to provide the reader with information on the latest developments in this field especially in selected African countries South Africa Yearbook, 2006 South Africa Yearbook 2002/03 Delien Burger, 2002 Telecommunications Equipment Lori Hylton Brown, 1994 , Connecting Canadians Andrew Clement, 2012 Connecting Canadians examines the role of community informatics or community based ICT initiatives in this process of transition The Community Research Alliance for Community Innovation and Networking CRACIN set out to study how civil society groups in locations ranging from Vancouver to Labrador and from remote Northern communities to Toronto and Montreal sought to enable local communities to develop on their own terms within the broader context of federal and provincial policies and programs Drawing on diverse theoretical perspectives from sociology to library and information sciences to women's studies the essays not only document specific local initiatives but analyze the overall trajectory of the government's vision of a digitally inclusive Canada Structural Change in Transportation and Communications in the Knowledge Society Kiyoshi Kobayashi, T. R. Lakshmanan, William Peter Anderson, 2006-12-21 The transformation of the world economy from a system of nations trading materials intensive goods to a system of seamless global networks for information intensive goods and services has created the need for a comprehensive restructuring of transportation and communications activities The contributors transportation and communications analysts from Japan and the United States address this restructuring from a variety of perspectives ranging from theoretical treatments of the role of information in the economy to applications of communications technologies for the collection of travel data The authors transcend traditional methods of transportation and communication analysis in order to address emerging issues that are not well represented by the prevailing cost benefit framework Many draw from advances in social sciences such as game theory that recognize the interdependence of human decision making New ways of assessing the economic benefit of infrastructure and the evolving role of institutions in the information economy are demonstrated along with novel approaches to analyzing human mobility and interaction in a knowledge rich environment By moving beyond traditional forms of analysis that were better suited to an earlier time the chapters in this book provide a wealth of insights for policy formulation in the globalized knowledge economy This comprehensive volume will be of great value to regional scientists and economic geographers as well as civil engineers economists and analysts interested in transportation and communications
