New Guinea People And Art:

Art and Creativity in a New Guinea Society Ross Bowden, 2022-07-26 The Kwoma the subject of this book are one of a number of peoples in the Sepik River region of northern Papua New Guinea who have created some of the most distinctive visual art in the Pacific Through case studies of their painting sculpture architecture and ritual this book examines in detail how people in this society understand their art as a cultural phenomenon This includes how they understand its origins in the spirit world how they judge quality in art and how they understand artistic creativity The book contrasts Kwoma beliefs with the radically different approach to art found in the modern West The modern Western concept of art first emerged not in the eighteenth century in the Enlightenment or even later as anthropologists and art historians often assume but several centuries earlier in the Renaissance The book gives an account of radical changes that took place culturally in Europe between the twelfth and sixteenth centuries in the way human intellectual creativity was understood and how this gave rise to a new concept of art one that remains unchanged in the modern West today New Guinea Ernst Fuhrmann, 1999 This work is the first English translation of a German introductory text published by the well known publisher Folkwang Verlag in Hagen in 1922 The book is based on photographs of art collections in the major museums of Europe and includes a special section on the ornamental More designs of New Guinea Sculpture and body art before the term was reinvented are documented in detail Art forms such as masks furniture and house structures are also included The introduction places this art in its everyday context and discusses beliefs related to the use of artifacts Much of what is shown here has so far only been preserved in the museum collections on which the book was based Back cover
