New Hope for Deprived Children Betty M. Flint, 1973-12-15 New Hope for Deprived Children is the carefully documented story of the development of a group of children from infancy through early adolescence Exhibiting the effects of severe institutional deprivation in the early part of their lives these children became the focus of a therapeutic programme within an institution designed to relieve their serious developmental deficiencies The programme and its effects confirmed the faith of the researchers involved that recovery to a certain degree was possible even with an institutional setting Further recovery was effected by later placement in foster and adoptive homes The lives of twenty eight of these children have been recorded and the data analysed This book presents their stories in both human and scientific terms The guidance procedures and therapeutic intervention were based on a personality theory of security which allowed the research and guidance team to provide a consistent frame of reference to all procedures designed to move the children increasingly closer to normal behaviour The range of adaptation to homes and community reflects the individual capacities of each child and the capacities of each family to sponsor such individuality Both the group analysis and the individual histories provide fascinating information and additionally pose many fundamental questions about human development

Bringing Back the Child Lisa J. Brown, Peter E. Jones, 2014-10-21 This book presents a unique multi faceted investigation of the language abilities of three older adopted Romanian orphans who experienced extreme deprivation in their early years Serena Gabrielle and Ingrid were aged 7 years 6 years and nearly 4 years respectively when rescued by UK families from the orphanages where they were placed at or around their birth In these institutions an absence of social and psychological stimulation nutritious food and physical exercise had left them completely dependent on care staff for their most basic needs and effectively without language The book presents the findings of a two year research study of the competencies in language nonverbal cognition and social and communicative behaviour which the girls acquired over several years in their new homes and discusses the implications of their linguistic progress for the Critical Period Hypothesis and modularity Detailed qualitative analysis of the girls language in everyday conversation is combined with quantitative analysis of developmental progress and structural complexity and with the results of standardized tests The authors argue that the girls progress in language defies the predictions of current Critical Period models and offers no evidence of modular dissociations between language and other cognitive domains These findings are considered in relation to other research on language development in internationally adopted children

Evidence-Based Policymaking Karen Bogenschneider,Thomas Corbett,2011-01-11 This book is for those who believe that good government should be based on hard evidence and that research and policy ought to go hand in hand Unfortunately no such bond exists Rather there is a substantial gap some say chasm between the production of knowledge and its utilization Despite much contrary evidence the authors propose there is a way of doing public policy in a more reflective manner and that a hunger for evidence and objectivity does exist The book is pragmatic drawing on advice from some of the best and brightest informants from both the research and policy communities In their own voices researchers provide incisive analysis about how to bridge the research policy divide and policymakers provide insights about why they use research what kind is most useful where they seek it and how they screen its quality The book breaks through stereotypes about what policymakers are like and provides an insiders view of how the policy process really works Readers will learn what knowledge skills approaches and attitudes are needed to take research findings from the laboratory to lawmaking bodies and how to evaluate one s success in doing so The book s balance between theory and practice will appeal to students in graduate and upper level undergraduate courses in family studies and family policy educational policy law political science public administration public health social work and sociology This book will also be of interest to researchers who want to bring their ideas into policy debate and to those who work with policymakers to advance an evidence based policy agenda
