Disability & the Politics of Education Susan Lynn Gabel, Scot Danforth, 2008 Disability and the Politics of Education An International Reader is a rich resource that deals comprehensively with the many aspects of the complex topic of disability studies in education For nearly two decades global attention has been given to education as a human right through global initiatives such as Education for All EFA and the Salamanca Statement Yet according to UNESCO reaching the goals of EFA remains one of the most daunting challenges facing the global community Today millions of the world's disabled children cannot obtain a basic childhood education particularly in countries with limited resources Even in the wealthiest countries many disabled children and youth are educationally segregated from the nondisabled particularly if they are labeled with significant cognitive impairment International agencies such as the United Nations and the World Bank have generated funds for educational development but unfortunately these funds are administered with the assumption that west is best thereby urging developing countries to mimic educational policies in the United States and the United Kingdom in order to prove their aid worthiness This McDonaldization of education reproduces the labeling resource allocation and social dynamics long criticized in disability studies The authors in this volume explore these subjects and other complexities of disability and the politics of education In doing so they demonstrate the importance and usefulness of international perspectives and comparative approaches

The Politics of Social Exclusion in India Harihar Bhattacharyya, Partha Sarkar, Angshuman Kar, 2009-12-16 Social exclusion and inclusion remain issues of fundamental importance to democracy Both exclusion and inclusion relate to the access to participation in the public realm public goods and services for certain groups of people who are minorities marginalized and deprived Democratization has led to the inclusion of the previously excluded in the political process While the problems of exclusion remain even in advanced Western countries in respect of the minorities of sorts and the underprivileged the problem of deep rooted social and cultural exclusions is acute in post colonial countries including India This book analyses social exclusions in India which remain the most solid challenges to Indian democracy and development Communal clashes ethnic riots political secessionist movements and extremist violence take place almost routinely and are the outward manifestations of the entrenched culture of social exclusion in India With its interdisciplinary approach the book looks at the multidimensional problems of social exclusion and inclusion providing a critical comprehensive analysis of the problem and of potential solutions The authors are experts in the fields of historical sociology anthropology political theory social philosophy economics and indigenous vernacular literature Overall the book offers an innovative theoretical perspective of the long term issues facing contemporary Indian democracy contemporary integration policies and practices are not just about migrants and minority groups becoming part of society but often also reflect deliberate attempts to undermine their inclusion or participation. This affects individual lives as well as social cohesion. The book highlights the variety of ways in which integration and disintegration are related to and often depend on each other. By analysing how disintegration works within a wide range of legal and institutional settings, this book contributes to the literature on integration by considering disintegration as a highly stratified process. Through featuring a fertile combination of comparative policy analyses and ethnographic research based on original material from six European and two non-European countries, this book will be a great resource for students, academics and policy makers in migration and integration studies.

Book Presentation On April 22, 2021, the University of Sheffield hosted the book presentation on Politics of Disintegration. During this event, the editors Sophie Hinger and Reinhard Schweitzer discussed the book. The event was chaired by Aneta Piekut and Jean Marie Lafleur was the discussant. Youth Citizenship and the Politics of Belonging Sharlene Swartz, Madeleine Arnot, 2014-10-20

Around the world today, young people are being called upon to develop civic competence and carry the burden of forging a political future in the midst of impoverishment, exclusion and inequality. In societies that have experienced civil war, military occupation, mass immigration of displaced people or social conflict, the conditions under which young people attempt to build their citizenship are not well understood. Youth Citizenship and the Politics of Belonging contributes to the field of youth citizenship studies by purposively exploring the experiences of young adults in the context of the formation of nationhood and global citizenship. It explores from the perspective of various countries the role of social context and schooling in creating young citizens. This collection offers a unique opportunity to hear the voices of young people themselves who, as learner-citizens within educational institutions, poor communities and refugee camps amongst other settings, expose the tensions between social inclusion and marginalization. The book considers young people's contemporary social movements, their activism and their sense of belonging. It looks at understandings of national, political and religious identities, youth rights and various forms of state, community and sexual violence, as well as strategic coping strategies, their reinterpretations of civic messages and the ways in which anger, resistance and disengagement put youth in a difficult position. This book was originally published as a special issue of Comparative Education.

Material Politics of Citizenship Nina Amelung, Cristiano Gianolla, Joana Sousa Ribeiro, Olga Solovova, 2021-11-17

From the intersection of citizenship, critical migration studies and science and technology studies (STS), this book examines across the various case studies configurations between technologies, infrastructures and citizenship that may constrain acts of citizenship in migration and border regimes, constitute contestation and participation over citizenship or enable and shape alternative acts of citizenship in migration and border regimes. Technologies and infrastructures on the border are designed to position migrants in multiple and potentially contradictory forms; migrants crossing the border in their turn may choose to challenge and repurpose those technologies and infrastructures to match their interests By elaborating on the notion of material citizenship politics the contributors provide a detailed analysis of socio material practices on the border that moves beyond portraying migrants as mere victims of border technologies and migration infrastructures and anchors critique on the inside of those practices The chapters in this volume hope to contribute to setting the research agenda and to stimulate further research along these lines revisiting the in visibilities of migrant subjects along technologies and infrastructures As the current pandemic unfolds exposing societal vulnerabilities this book highlights the need to critically reflect on the establishment of existing technologies and infrastructures in order to examine to what extent those affect and shape migrant subjects in particular but may also be extended and used on wider populations after being tested and normalized on vulnerable subjects This book will be of interest to a broad readership across the social sciences including scholars working in Critical Migration and Border Studies Citizenship Studies Critical Security Studies and Science and Technology Studies The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Citizenship Studies     The Politics of Knowledge in Inclusive Development and Innovation David Ludwig,Birgit Boogaard,Phil Macnaghten,Cees Leeuwis,2021-10-14 This book develops an integrated perspective on the practices and politics of making knowledge work in inclusive development and innovation While debates about development and innovation commonly appeal to the authority of academic researchers many current approaches emphasise the plurality of actors with relevant expertise for addressing livelihood challenges Adopting an action oriented and reflexive approach this volume explores the variety of ways in which knowledge works paying particular attention to dilemmas and controversies The six parts of the book address the complex interplay of knowledge and politics starting with the need for knowledge integration in the first part and decolonial perspectives on the politics of knowledge integration in the second part The following three parts focus on the practices of inclusive development and innovation through three major themes of learning for transformative change evidence and digitisation The final part of the book addresses the governance of knowledge and innovation in the light of political struggles about inclusivity Exploring conceptual and practical themes through case studies from the Global North and South this book will be of great interest to students scholars and practitioners researching and working in development studies epistemology innovation studies science and technology studies and sustainability studies more broadly     The Politics of Autism Dr. Bryna Siegel,2018-08-01 The Politics of Autism investigates the truths and fictions of public understanding about autism questioning apparent realities too sensitive or impolitic to challenge Is there really more autism How has the count expanded by diagnosing autism over other conditions Have scientific methods in autism diagnosis gone hand in hand with autism increases Are mild autism cases really a disorder rather than personality variant Can autism be quiescent in childhood but truly first recognizable in adulthood Why does popular media often portray people with autism as odd geniuses ignoring the kind of autism most have Siegel tackles thorny issues and perennial questions How do we weigh likely treatment gains with treatment costs Why does our autism education persist in teaching academic subjects some never master Why do we fail to plan realistically for autistic adulthood Which parents get caught up in non mainstream treatments and fear of vaccines Readers will see an insider s view of controversies in autism research Siegel s views sometimes iconoclastic always frank and informed challenge broad unexamined assumptions about our understanding of autism Each chapter addresses different issues data and social policy recommendations A chapter by chapter bibliography with URLs provides both popular media and scientific references

Armed non-state actors and the politics of recognition Anna Geis, Maéva Clément, Hanna Pfeifer, 2021-06-15 Recognition is often considered a means to de escalate conflicts and promote peaceful social interactions This volume explores the forms that social recognition and its withholding may take in asymmetric armed conflicts examining the risks and opportunities that arise when local state and transnational actors recognise misrecognise or deny recognition of armed non state actors By studying key asymmetric conflicts through the prism of recognition it offers an innovative perspective on the interactions between armed non state actors and state actors In what contexts does granting recognition to armed non state actors foster conflict transformation What happens when governments withhold recognition or label armed non state actors in ways they perceive as misrecognition The authors examine the ambivalence of recognition processes in violent conflicts and their sometimes unintended consequences The volume shows that while non recognition prevents conflict transformation the recognition of armed non state actors may produce counterproductive precedents and new modes of exclusion in intra state and transnational politics

The Exclusionary Politics of Asylum V. Squire, 2016-01-12 This critique of the securitization and criminalization of asylum seeking challenges the claim that asylum seekers threaten receiving states It analyzes recent policy developments in relation to their wider historical political and European contexts and argues that the UK response effectively renders asylum seekers as scapegoats social and economic injustice and popular representation Such struggles in Indonesia have engaged with the state through both discursive and non discursive processes The authors show that while the state is the common focal point these struggles are fragmented across different sectors and subject positions The authors thus propose that developing chains of solidarity is highly important to motivating a democracy that not only has sovereign control over public affairs but also robust channels and organisations for political representation In advocating the development of transformative agendas organisations and strategies as an important need and an enduring challenge for the realization of citizenship this book is timely and relevant to the study of contemporary Indonesia s socio political landscape It is relevant to students and scholars in political science anthropology sociology human geography and development studies

Politics of Fear Frank Furedi, 2005-11-15 Furedi argues that the traditional terms left and right have been both distorted and proved inadequate by a number of developments notably the Cold War the Culture Wars and as he s shown in previous books the prevalence of risk adverse managerialism The result is a politics both big P and little p that fails to take humans seriously as humans and which necessarily evades discussion of right and wrong Furedi shows that the single most important political need is for an adequate conception of humanity and in the process the public and that it is this that will produce a new and more imaginative alignment in politics

Re-Imagining a Politics of Life Leonie Ansems de Vries, 2014-10-30 The prominence and variety of global movements of resistance indicates that the idea of politics as governance is contested However the political canon continues to reinforce a narrow definition of politics according to liberal principles and practices This book develops a new theory of political life that includes and highlights the interconnectedness of forces of order disorder governance resistance violence and difference Using the concept of the milieu both a mechanism of governance and a force of difference and transformation this book stages an encounter between the modern political and international thought of Thomas Hobbes and Immanuel Kant and the contemporary philosophy of Michel Foucault and Gilles Deleuze The writings of Foucault and Deleuze will serve to explore and contextualize the milieu and will function to highlight the complex mobility and relationality of notions of politics life governance and resistance
