Born in Africa, Conceived in Heaven: A Father's Journal Dan Tarrant, 2013-01-12. Born in Africa, Conceived in Heaven is the story of one man's journey to fatherhood, a journey that took Dan to many unexpected places and experiences that stretched him as a person, a husband, and a Christian. Dan readily admits that there were many times he could not see the path forward. If not for a profound sense that God was calling so directly to adopt John and Nya, Dan says the only logical thing to do would have been to give up. Praise God that we walk by faith and not by logic alone. If you are a Christian regardless of your Church, you'll enjoy Dan's search for God's will in the midst of his family's search to be a family. If you are not a believer, you'll be surprised at the organic rather than didactic manner in which Dan searches for and finds the role of God in his journey. Dan's original intention was to write this for his children. They are the primary audience in this series of journal entries. John and Nya, this is really your book. Thanks for sharing it with the world.

Most importantly, Elizabeth Seton was a holy person who brought other people to a greater love of God and of their sisters and brothers.
