including over a decade of unique interview sources Fisher documents China's efforts to build a larger nuclear force that may soon be protected by missile defenses modern high technology systems for space air and naval forces and how China is now beginning to assemble naval air and ground forces for future power projection missions His work also examines how the United States and other governments simultaneously seek greater engagement with China on strategic concerns while hedging against its rising power Although China faces both internal and external constraints on its rise to global eminence it cannot be denied that China's government is pursuing a far reaching strategic agenda

Embracing Communist China James Fanell, Bradley Thayer, 2024-03-12 For decades the United States has underestimated the threat from the People's Republic of China PRC In doing so it has left our country vulnerable to their devious plans a profound strategic miscalculation As a result of this carelessness the United States is at risk of losing its dominant position in global politics But how did this happen How was it possible that the US could lose its dominant position after its Cold War victory and allow the rise of a peer enemy over a short period of time about thirty years In Embracing Communist China authors James E Fanell and Bradley A Thayer get to the bottom of this heinous miscalculation Broken down into three central arguments Fanell and Thayer lay out not only the reason for China's rise in power but how the United States could have prevented it Due to failures on the parts of the national security commission strategists military personnel and the intelligence community a historical case of threat deflation caused our country to refute all supplied information of China's growing power By not taking this seriously the PRC has risen with the goal of usurping the US as a global superpower US business interests and financiers trumped strategy Seeing China as a source of cheap labor for manufacturing investment and intellectual labor including for research and development the mighty dollar's influence reigned supreme overlooking the big picture With their advancements China used its political warfare strategy to promote threat deflation under Deng Xiaoping As such the PRC learning key lessons from the Soviet Union's mistakes in the Cold War focused on elites from all aspects of US and other Western societies enriching them and shaping their perception of China and of Chinese Communist Party CCP while using the enticement of a growing market to influence their behavior As Americans we can no longer think of China as a secondary power but one that is looking to remove the US as the most powerful country in the world By understanding the profound strategic failures made by the US are we able to correct them and so defeat the PRC as we did the Soviet Union
