Woodland in the Neolithic of Northern Europe Gordon Noble,2017-02-15 The Neolithic period is one of the great transformations in human history when agriculture first began and dramatic changes occurred in human society These changes occurred in environments that were radically different to those that exist today and in northern Europe many landscapes would have been dominated by woodland Yet wood and woodland rarely figures in the minds of many archaeologists and it plays no part in the traditional Three Age system that has defined the frameworks of European prehistory This book explores how human environment relations altered with the beginnings of farming and how the Neolithic in northern Europe was made possible through new ways of living in and understanding the environment Drawing on a broad range of evidence from pollen data and stone axes to the remains of timber monuments and settlements the book analyzes the relationship between people their material culture and their woodland environment The Myth of Matriarchal Prehistory Cynthia Eller,2001-04-13 According to the myth of matriarchal prehistory men and women lived together peacefully before recorded history Society was centered around women with their mysterious life giving powers and they were honored as incarnations and priestesses of the Great Goddess Then a transformation occurred and men thereafter dominated society Given the universality of patriarchy in recorded history this vision is understandably appealing for many women But does it have any basis in fact And as a myth does it work for the good of women Cynthia Eller traces the emergence of the feminist matriarchal myth explicates its functions and examines the evidence for and against a matriarchal prehistory Finally she explains why this vision of peaceful woman centered prehistory is something feminists should be wary of
