Archaeology in New Zealand, 2001 Taking the High Ground Atholl Anderson, Douglas J. Kennett, 2012-11-01 This volume brings the remote and little known island of Rapa firmly to the forefront of Polynesian archaeology Thirteen authors contribute 14 chapters covering not only the basic archaeology of coastal sites rock shelters and fortifications but faunal remains agricultural development and marine exploitation The results presented within a chronology framed by Bayesian analysis are set against a background of ethnohistory and ethnology Highly unusual in tropical Polynesian archaeology are descriptions of artefacts of perishable material Taking the High Ground provides important insights into how a group of Polynesian settlers adapted to an isolated and in some ways restrictive environment

Fishing in Pre-European New Zealand Foss Leach, 2006 This authoritative volume draws together a broad range of information about pre European Maori fishing in a well illustrated and very readable form The author uses identifications and measurements of fish remains from 126 archaeological sites covering the full time span of prehistoric New Zealand to describe the range of fish caught by pre European Maori explore variations between regions and through time and examine the impact of Maori on the fishery The archaeological information is placed in a series of wider contexts the Pacific background to Maori fishing the nature of the New Zealand fishery climatic fluctuations during the last millennium and the nutritional requirements of human diet and the role of marine food in it The discussion of the technology and material culture of fishing breaks new ground in its treatment of cordage and knots netting and fish hooks canoe design fish preservation and cooking methods Research on fish behaviour towards hooks provides much needed insight into the reason why the rotating hook so common amongst early Maori and other Pacific island peoples was so successful The author shows that pre European Maori had a different approach to conservation of the marine environment than is currently employed in modern fisheries management and that claims of pre European over exploitation of snapper and other species are ill founded An especially important finding is that the average size of fish increased over time following the strategy of taking large numbers of what would now be considered under sized fish New Zealand had super abundant fish stocks right

Tuhinga ,2007      The Early Prehistory of Fiji Geoffrey Richard Clark,Atholl Anderson,2009-12-01 I enjoyed reading this volume It is rare to see such a comprehensive report on hard data published these days especially one so insightfully contextualised by the editors introductory and concluding chapters These scholars and the others involved in the work really know their stuff and it shows The editors connect the preoccupations of Pacific archaeologists with those of their colleagues working in other island regions and on big questions of colonisation migration interaction and patterns and processes of cultural change in hitherto uninhabited environments These sorts of outward looking big picture contextual studies are invaluable but all too often are missing from locally and regionally oriented writing very much to its detriment In sum the work strongly advances our understanding of the early prehistory of Fiji through its well integrated combination of original research and the reinterpretation of existing knowledge in the context of wider theoretical and historical concerns In doing so The Early Prehistory of Fiji makes a truly substantial contribution to Pacific and archaeological scholarship Professor Ian Lilley The University of Queensland      Tangata Whenua Atholl Anderson, Judith Binney, Aroha Harris,2014-11-15 Tangata Whenua An Illustrated History charts the sweep of M ori history from ancient origins through to the twenty first century Through narrative and images it offers a striking overview of the past grounded in specific localities and histories The story begins with the migration of ancestral peoples out of South China some 5 000 years ago Moving through the Pacific these early voyagers arrived in Aotearoa early in the second millennium AD establishing themselves as tangata whenua in the place that would become New Zealand By the nineteenth century another wave of settlers brought new technology ideas and trading opportunities and a struggle for control of the land Survival and resilience shape the history as it extends into the twentieth century through two world wars the growth of an urban culture rising protest and Treaty settlements Today at the beginning of the twenty first century M ori are drawing on both international connections and their ancestral place in Aotearoa Fifteen stunning chapters bring together scholarship in history archaeology traditional narratives and oral sources A parallel commentary is offered through more than 500 images ranging from the elegant shapes of ancient taonga and artefacts to impressions of M ori in the sketchbooks and paintings of early European observers through the shifting focus of the photographer s lens to the response of contemporary M ori artists to all that has gone before The many threads of history are entwined in this compelling narrative of the people and the land the story of a rich past that illuminates the present and will inform the future      Transactions and Proceedings of the Royal Society of New Zealand Royal Society of New Zealand,1906 Includes proceedings of member institutes of the Society and of the Society s Science Congress through v 84 1956 57      Fishing and Sea-foods of the Ancient Maori Augustus Hamilton,1908
