The Prehistory of Home points out how houses function as symbols of equality or proclaim the social divides between people and how they shield us not only from the elements but increasingly from inchoate fear.

Prehistory and Early History of the Malpai Borderlands Paul R. Fish, 2006

Prehispanic and early historic archaeological information for the Malpai Borderlands of southwest New Mexico and southeast Arizona is reviewed using data derived from field reconnaissance, discussion with relevant scholars, archival resources from varied agencies and institutions, and published literature. Previous regional research has focused on late prehistory A.D. 1200 to 1450, shaping the scope of cultural historical overview and providing an opportunity to examine relationships with Casas Grandes, Paquime to the south. A second important objective of current study is the exploration of prehispanic and early historic human impacts to Borderlands ecosystems, particularly in relation to fire ecology. A recommended sequence of future research is intended to address significant questions surrounding both culture history and anthropogenic environments in the Malpai Borderlands.
