

The background of the entire image is a close-up photograph of a weathered stone Buddha face. The face is partially obscured by thick green moss and small, delicate purple and white flowers growing on the stone surface. The lighting is soft, highlighting the textures of the stone and the natural elements.

Realist Cinema as World Cinema Lúcia Nagib, 2025-10-01 This book presents the bold and original proposal to replace the general appellation of world cinema with the more substantive concept of realist cinema Veering away from the usual focus on modes of reception and spectatorship it locates instead cinematic realism in the way films are made The volume is structured across three innovative categories of realist modes of production noncinema or a cinema that aspires to be life itself intermedial passages or films that incorporate other artforms as a channel to historical and political reality and total cinema or films moved by a totalising impulse be it towards the total artwork total history or universalising landscapes Though mostly devoted to recent productions each part starts with the analysis of foundational classics which have paved the way for future realist endeavours proving that realism is timeless and inherent in cinema from its origin

Found Footage Horror Films Peter Turner, 2019-01-28 This book adopts a cognitive theoretical framework in order to address the mental processes that are elicited and triggered by found footage horror films Through analysis of key films the book explores the effects that the diegetic camera technique used in such films can have on the cognition of viewers It further examines the way in which mediated realism is constructed in the films in order to attempt to make audiences either misread the footage as non-fiction or more commonly to imagine that the footage is non-fiction Films studied include The Blair Witch Project Rec Paranormal Activity Exhibit A Cloverfield Man Bites Dog The Last Horror Movie Noroi The Curse Autohead and Zero Day This book will be of key interest to Film Studies scholars with research interests in horror and genre studies cognitive studies of the moving image and those with interests in narration realism and mimesis It is an essential read for students undertaking courses with a focus on film theory particularly those interested specifically in horror films and cognitive film theory

Cinematic Modernism and Contemporary Film Howard Finn, 2022-10-06 Cinema was the most important new artistic medium of the twentieth century and modernism was the most important new aesthetic movement across the arts in the twentieth century However what exactly is the relationship between cinema and modernism Cinematic Modernism and Contemporary Film explores how in the early twentieth century cinema came to be seen as one of the new technologies which epitomised modernity and how cinema itself reflected ideas hopes and fears concerning modern life Howard Finn examines the emergence of a new international style of cinema combining a poetic aesthetic of the image with genre based fictional narrative and documentary realism He provides concise accounts of how theorists such as Andr Bazin Siegfried Kracauer Gilles Deleuze and Jacques Ranciere have discussed this cinematic aesthetic clarifying debates over terms such as realism classical and avant garde as well as recent controversies over terms such as slow cinema and vernacular modernism He further argues the influence of modernism through close readings of many contemporary films including films by Abbas Kiarostami Bela Tarr Jia Zhangke and Angela Schanelec Drawing on a broad range of examples including Soviet montage Italian neorealism postwar new waves and the new cinema of Taiwan and Iran this book explores the cultural significance of modernism and its lasting influence over cinema

American Documentary Filmmaking in the Digital Age Lucia Ricciardelli, 2014-11-20 American Documentary Filmmaking in the Digital Age examines the recent challenges to the conventions of realist documentary through the lens of war documentary films by Ken Burns Michael Moore and Errol Morris During the twentieth century the invention of new technologies of audiovisual representation such as cinema television video and digital media have transformed the modes of historical narration and with it forced historians to assess the impact of new visual technologies on the construction of history This book investigates the manner in which this contemporary Western crisis in historical narrative is produced by a larger epistemological shift in visual culture Ricciardelli uses the theme of war as depicted in these directors films to focus her study and look at the models of national identity that Burns Morris and Moore shape through their depictions of US military actions She examines how postcolonial critiques of historicism and the advent of digitization have affected the narrative structure of documentary film and the shaping of historical consciousness through cinematic representation
