I did not, when a slave, understand the deep meaning of those rude and apparently incoherent songs. I was myself within the circle; so that I neither saw nor heard as those without might see and hear. They told a tale of woe which was then altogether beyond my feeble comprehension; they were tones loud, long, and deep; they breathed the prayer and complaint of souls boiling over with the bitterest anguish. Every tone was a testimony against slavery, and a prayer to God for deliverance from chains. The hearing of those wild notes always depressed my spirit, and filled me with ineffable sadness. I have frequently found myself in tears while hearing them. The mere recurrence to those

Rhetorical Power Steven Mailloux, 1989 In this provocative and forcefully written book Steven Mailloux takes issue with the validity of a number of distinctions commonly made in contemporary literary theory and cultural studies distinctions between theory and history reader and text truth and ideology aesthetics and politics Mailloux first presents the case for a rhetorical hermeneutics and against foundationalist theories of interpretation Doing hermeneutic theory he argues entails doing rhetorical history By means of a detailed analysis of reader response criticism he highlights the connections between institutional politics and the interpretive rhetoric of academic literary criticism Mailloux then uses Adventures of Huckleberry Finn as an exemplary text Relating Mark Twain's rhetoric to the cultural politics of post Reconstruction debates about racist ideology he places his reader oriented interpretation within the rhetorical history of controversies over the meaning and value of Huckleberry Finn Finally in a far ranging study of cultural reception he juxtaposes the twentieth century concern about the topic of race in Huckleberry Finn with the nineteenth century audience's very different concerns about juvenile delinquency and the bad boy boom In the final part of the book Mailloux restates his critique of foundationalist hermeneutics through readings of Ken Kesey Michel Foucault Edward Said and Richard Rorty and he concludes by examining the role of rhetoric and theory in a congressional dispute

Everyday Ideas Ronald J. Zboray, Mary Saracino Zboray, 2006 Everyday Ideas Socioliterary Experience among Antebellum New Englanders takes an unprecedented look at the use of literature in everyday life in one of history's most literate societies the home ground of the American Renaissance Using information pulled from four thousand manuscript letters and diaries Everyday Ideas provides a comprehensive picture of how the social and literary dimensions of human existence related in antebellum New England Penned by ordinary people factory workers farmers clerks storekeepers domestics and teachers and other professionals the writings examined here brim with thoughtful references to published texts lectures and speeches by the period's canonized authors and lesser lights. These personal accounts also give an insider's perspective on issues ranging from economic problems to social status conflicts to being separated from loved ones by region, state, or nation. Everyday Ideas examines such references and accounts and interprets the multiple ways literature figured into the lives of these New Englanders. An important aid in understanding historical readers and social authorship practices, Everyday Ideas is a unique resource on New England and provides a framework for understanding the profound role of ideas in the everyday world of the antebellum period.

Literary Executions John Cyril Barton, 2021-04-27. Rich with historical detail, Literary Executions examines the figure and theme of the death penalty in imaginative literature from Cooper to Dreiser. Gregg Crane, Professor of English Language and Literature, University of Michigan, drawing from legal and extralegal discourse but focusing on imaginative literature, Literary Executions examines representations of responses to and arguments for and against the death penalty in the United States over the long nineteenth century. John Cyril Barton creates a generative dialogue between artistic relics and legal history. He looks to novels, short stories, poems, and creative nonfiction as well as legislative reports, trial transcripts, legal documents, newspaper and journal articles, treatises, and popular books like The Record of Crimes, A Defence of Capital Punishment, and The Gallows, the Prison, and the Poor House, all of which were part of the debate over the death penalty. Barton focuses on several canonical figures: James Fenimore Cooper, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Lydia Maria Child, Walt Whitman, Herman Melville, and Theodore Dreiser, and offers new readings of their work in light of the death penalty controversy. Barton also gives close attention to a host of then popular but now forgotten writers, particularly John Neal, Slidell MacKenzie, William Gilmore Simms, Sylvester Judd, and George Lippard, whose work helped shape or was shaped by the influential anti-gallows movement. By engaging the politics and poetics of capital punishment, Literary Executions contends that the movement to abolish the death penalty in the United States should be seen as an important part of the context that brought about the flowering of the American Renaissance during the antebellum period and that influenced literature later in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.
