Dynamics of Arab Foreign Policy-Making in the Twenty-First Century Hassan Hamdan Al-Alkim, 2012-04-16

The Arab world's strategic location and its considerable material and human potential should allow it to play a major role in world affairs. However, in addition to sharing language, culture, and history, Arab states also face common challenges: authoritarian regimes, ethnic and social cleavages, economic underdevelopment, and the need for security from the West. Hassan Hamdan al-Alkim examines the dynamics of Arab foreign policy making in the twenty-first century, taking account of the current political developments in the Arab world since January 2011. Through an insightful analysis of pivotal issues such as the Middle East Peace Process, the food and water crisis, and Saudi Arabia's foreign policy, Alkim brings us closer to a nuanced understanding of contemporary Arab politics and its role in world affairs. This balanced and discerning study is essential reading for policy makers, academics, and students of Middle Eastern politics.

How have efforts to govern nature and address urgent global environmental challenges shaped, transformed, or undermined processes of world ordering? Chapters in this book explore how efforts to govern nature have transformed or are transforming how we understand and practice world politics. Bringing together a team of contributors from around the world, the book traces this inquiry across diverse international policy fields: from security and peacebuilding through science, cooperation, and governing ecosystems to the politics of economic growth. Taken together, the book offers a conceptually ambitious and empirically grounded account of how the governance of nature and the making of world order intertwine and calls for a research agenda to attend to the growing impact of this interrelationship.
