Settler Dreaming:

Women and Migration Deborah Willis, Ellyn Toscano, Kalia Brooks Nelson, 2019-03-08 The essays in this book chart how women's profound and turbulent experiences of migration have been articulated in writing, photography, art, and film. As a whole, the volume gives an impression of a wide range of migratory events from women's perspectives covering the Caribbean, Diaspora, refugees, and slavery through the various lenses of politics and war, love and family. The contributors, which include academics and artists, offer both personal and critical points of view on the artistic and historical repositories of these experiences. Selfies, motherhood, violence, and Hollywood all feature in this substantial treasure trove of women's joy and suffering, disaster and delight, place, memory, and identity. This collection appeals to artists and scholars of the humanities, particularly within the social sciences, though there is much to recommend it to creatives seeking inspiration or counsel on the issue of migratory experiences.

Cinematic Settlers Janne Lahti, Rebecca Weaver-Hightower, 2020-07-26 This anthology adds to the burgeoning field of settler colonial studies by examining settler colonial narratives in the under-analyzed medium of film. Cinematic Settlers discusses different cinematic genres, national traditions, and specific movies in order to expose related threads, shared circulations of knowledge, and paralleled representations. Organized into thematic groupings, conquest, settlers, natives, and space, the contributors explore the question of how film compares to written genres and other visual media in representing and effecting settler colonialism on a global scale. Striving for inclusiveness, the volume covers different eras and settler colonial situations in Australia, New Zealand, Taiwan, Hawaii, the American West, Canada, Latin America, Russia, France, Algeria, Germany, Africa, South Africa, and even the next frontier, outer space. By showing how films offer layered, contested, and dynamic settler colonial narratives that advance and challenge settler hegemonic readings, the essays enable students to better analyze and understand the complex history of diversity and colonialism in film. This book is important reading for undergraduate classes on the history of empire, colonialism, and film.

Experiences in Social Dreaming W. Gordon Lawrence, 2018-07-03 Social Dreaming is the name given to a method of working with dreams that are shared and associated within a gathering of people coming together for this purpose. In the first chapter, he outlines some ideas on this phenomenon. Here follows a wide-ranging collection of essays on the experiences of various practitioners, either personal or what they have found when taking this phenomenon into the wider social arena, such as the church, schools, consultancy, and working with children.

Critical Dreaming Lilian Mengesha, 2025-05-20 Ways of knowing against colonialism. In the 1990s, the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), and US and Canadian boarding residential schools practices led to an increase in cases of missing and murdered Indigenous women from the US-Mexico border, Guatemala, Canada, and the United States. Indigenous artists aiming to recontextualize these state-sponsored instances of violence created works grappling with time, ancestry, and relationality. Lilian Mengesha interprets the works of these artists within a decolonial context through an aesthetic frame she calls critical dreaming Using methods from performance studies gender studies and Indigenous studies Critical Dreaming considers artists as expert world makers Mengesha examines selected works by Lara Kramer Regina Jos Galindo Rebecca Belmore Monique Mojica LeAnne Howe and Sky Hopinka demonstrating how each materializes alternative modes of experiencing time making kin and communing with land Mengesha argues that critical dreaming is a performance that advances material and embodied practices of survival both individual and collective to challenge colonial and nationalist discourses invested in a teleology of disappeared people history and land Her writing provides valuable insight into the intergenerational effects of settler colonialism on Indigenous communities throughout the Americas looking at how artists build worlds anew through Indigenous ways of knowing and making inspired from the past and repurposed for the present Critical Dreaming offers a resonant framework for understanding Indigenous embodied ways of knowing that work against colonial attempts to discredit or disappear forms of imagination relationality and resistance connecting disparate Indigenous communities This powerful book urges readers to recognize how Indigenous artists contribute to ongoing struggles against multiple forms of colonialism processes of settler colonialism antiblackness capitalism brahminical supremacy Hindu nationalism and heteropatriarchy Resource extraction in British Columbia in the 1970s 90s and in present day Alberta offer examples of spaces that illuminate the dispossession of Indigenous peoples and simultaneously reveal racialized gendered and caste labor formations Upadhyay juxtaposes these extraction sites with examples of anticolonial activism and solidarities from Toronto Analyzing silence on settler colonialism and brahminical caste supremacy Upadhyay upends the idea of dominant caste Indian diasporas as racially victimized and shows that claiming victimhood denies a very real complicity in enforcing other power structures Exploring stories of quotidian proximity and intimacy between Indigenous and South Asian communities Upadhyay offers meditations on anticolonial and anti casteist ways of knowledge production ethical relationalities and solidarities Groundbreaking and ambitious Indians on Indian Lands presents the case for holding Indian diasporas accountable for acts
