Rossi,2012-12-06 This volume collects the papers presented at the Second European Conference on Phagocytic Leucocytes which was held in Trieste September 15 18 1980 The Conference was the continuation of the thread of a discourse initiated with the First European Conference on Phagocytic Leucocytes which was held also in Trieste in 1976 In fact in both Conferences the biochemical aspects of the basic functions of phagocytes that is movement metabolism secretion and bactericidal activity were mainly emphasized In the Second Conference two additional subjects were also dealt with and those are the tumoricidal activity of phagocytes and the clinical aspects of phagocyte functions In connection with the latter subject a Round Table on the Clinical Application of Leucocyte Function Tests was held during the Conference and the proceedings are reported in this book in the hope that they may be useful to those who are interested in the relationship between phagocytes and diseases The number of papers which are being published concerning the phagocytic process is such that one wonders whether publication of a new book in this field is necessary However the philosophy which inspired the editing of this book differs from that underlying publication of original articles in scientific journals We started from the common notion that the real progress of our knowledge is not necessarily proportional to the amount of published material in that specific field National Union Catalog, 1982 ,1983 National Union Catalog ,1983 Structure and Function Relationships in Biochemical Systems Francesco Bossa,2012-12-06 Terminal Transferase in Immunobiology and Leukemia Umberto Bertazzoni,2012-12-06 This book contains the proceedings of a conference devoted to the study of the structure and function of Terminal deoxynucleotidyl Transferase TdT and its utilization as biochemical marker in immunobiology and leukemia held in Elba Italy on May 28 31 1981 The enzyme has been known to nucleic acid biochemists for more than 20 years and has proved to be an excellent tool for making deoxypolymers labeling DNA fragments and adding homopolymer tails to restriction endonuclease fragments from DNA Since the discovery of its peculiar tissue distribution normally restricted to the thymus and bone marrow and of its abnormal occurrence in human leukemic lymphoblasts TdT has become one of the most widely used markers in the study of lymphocyte differentiation and in the classification of hematopoietic neoplasia The subject seemed most appropriate for a meeting where molecular and cellular biologists immunologists and hematologists could convene for the first time to discuss both basic research and the clinical aspects of the problem Among the goals achieved by this workshop was the sharing of information about the enzymology of TdT biochemical and immunological methodology and the correlation of TdT with other markers in the diagnosis of leukemia The remarkable accordance of results presented here by five independent hematological institutions from analysis of TdT in several thousands of leukemic patients marks the importance of this enzyme as a diagnostic and prognostic tool in these diseases
