Learning to Think Martin Woodhead, Paul Light, 1991 A study in child psychology which presents a series of essays that examine how a child is initiated into shared cultural understanding through close relationships with parents and teachers as well as siblings and peers

The Philosophy of Mathematics Education Paul Ernest, 2002-11-01 Although many agree that all teaching rests on a theory of knowledge there has been no in depth exploration of the implications of the philosophy of mathematics for education This is Paul Ernest's aim Building on the work of Lakatos and Wittgenstein it challenges the prevalent notion that mathematical knowledge is certain absolute and neutral and offers instead an account of mathematics as a social construction This has profound educational implications for social issues including gender race and multiculturalism for pedagogy including investigations and problem solving and challenges hierarchical views of mathematics learning and ability Beyond this the book offers a well grounded model of five educational ideologies each with its own epistemology values aims and social group of adherents An analysis of the impact of these groups on the National Curriculum results in a powerful critique revealing the questionable assumptions values and interests upon which it rests The book finishes on an optimistic note arguing that pedagogy left unspecified by the National Curriculum is the way to achieve the radical aims of educating confident problem posers and solvers who are able to critically evaluate the social uses of mathematics Curricular

Needs of Slow Learners W. K. Brennan, 2018-09-03 First published in 1979 This report discusses the existing practices of over 500 primary secondary and special schools with their special needs pupils The study outlines the variety of provisions facilities and equipment in the schools and the extent of use with slow learners It maps out the curricular activities in many organisational contexts and across all subject areas and discusses comparative strengths and weaknesses It relates the findings to the problems of improving the quality of education offered to slow learning pupils suggesting areas where improvement is needed and outlining possible new approaches Mathematical Enculturation Alan Bishop, 2012-12-06

Mathematics is in the unenviable position of being simultaneously one of the most important school subjects for today's children to study and one of the least well understood Its reputation is awe inspiring Everybody knows how important it is and everybody knows that they have to study it But few people feel comfortable with it so much so that it is socially quite acceptable in many countries to confess ignorance about it to brag about one's incompetence at doing it and even to claim that one is mathophobic So are teachers around the world being apparently legal sadists by inflicting mental pain on their charges Or is it that their pupils are all masochists enjoying the thrill of self-inflicted mental torture More seriously do we really know what the reasons are for the mathematical activity which goes on in schools Do we really have confidence in our criteria for judging what's important and what isn't Do we really know what we should be doing These basic questions become even more important when considered in the context of two growing problem areas The first is a concern felt in many countries about the direction which mathematics education should take in the face of the increasing presence of computers and calculator related technology in society Report of the International Clearinghouse on Science and Mathematics Curricular Developments International Clearinghouse on Science and Mathematics Curricular
