state of the world's food systems today. The authors focus in on specific cases from all corners of the globe to cover topics including drought and soil conservation, land allocation and cooperative marketing efforts and food safety measures and advertising policies. In documenting past successes and failures, these case studies provide a valuable foundation for future research and efforts to create truly successful and sustainable food policy.

Food Policy Tim Lang, David Barling, Martin Caraher, 2009-03-19

For over half a century food policy has mapped a path for progress based upon a belief that the right mix of investment, scientific input and human skills could unleash a surge in productive capacity which would resolve humanity's food-related health and welfare problems. It assumed that more food would yield greater health and happiness by driving down prices, increasing availability and feeding more mouths. In the 21st century this policy mix is quietly becoming unstuck. In a world marred by obesity alongside malnutrition, climate change alongside fuel and energy crises, water stress alongside more mouths to feed and social inequalities alongside unprecedented accumulation of wealth, the old rubric of food policy needs re-evaluation. This book explores the enormity of what the new policy mix must address, taking the approach that food policy must be inextricably linked with public health, environmental damage and social inequalities to be effective. Written by three authors with differing backgrounds, one in political science, another in environmental health and health promotion and the third in social psychology, this book reflects the myriad of perspectives essential to a comprehensive view of modern food policy. It attempts to make sense of what is meant by food policy, explores whether the term has any currency in current policy discourse, assesses whether current policies help or hinder what happens, judges whether consensus can triumph in the face of competing bids for understanding, looks at all levels of governance across the range of actors in the food system from companies and the state to civil society and science, considers what direction food policies are taking, not just in the UK but internationally, assesses who and what gains or loses in the making of these food policies and identifies a modern framework for judging how good or limited processes of policy making are. This book provides a major comprehensive review of current and past food policy thinking and proposing the need for what the authors call an ecological public health approach to food policy. Nothing less will be fit for the 21st century.

Public Health Nutrition Natalie Stein, 2014-03-13

Issues related to nutrition are among the most pressing public health concerns in modern times. Worldwide malnutrition affects nearly 1 billion individuals or more than one in seven people. Many Protein energy malnutrition and micronutrient deficiencies play roles in more than half of all childhood deaths. Effects of malnutrition include mortality, decreased economic productivity, morbidities such as blindness and stunting and development of chronic diseases. With a unique focus on Global Health, this book is a comprehensive introduction to Public Health Nutrition. Designed for MPH programs, this book will prepare students to become successful global public health professionals with a clear understanding of the critical need for public health nutrition programs around the globe. Unlike other texts of its kind, Public Health Nutrition: Principles and Practice for Community and Global Health offers a unique focus on nutrients Readers will come away with a solid understanding of the specific roles of nutrients including macronutrients and the most relevant micronutrients enabling them to be more effective in improving public health nutrition With 19 chapters divided into 6 parts this book covers Nutrition around the World Policy and Public Health Nutrition Hunger and Malnutrition Maternal and Child Nutrition Nutritional Scenes in Developing Nations Nutrition and the Environment

Sustainable Food Networks: Chains of Values and Food Transitions Carolina Yacamán-Ochoa, José Luis Sánchez-Hernández, Javier Sanz-Cañada, 2025-06-12 Sustainable Food Networks SFNs are emerging as pivotal value chains for agroecological and food transitions in both urban and rural territories These networks aim to create a healthy fair localized and inclusive food supply model standing in contrast to the dominant corporate food system characterized by long haul complex and fragile supply chains Despite their potential SFNs such as community supported agriculture farmers markets and urban agriculture have not been thoroughly examined through the lens of economic geography and related interdisciplinary perspectives The current globalized food system is fraught with economic social and environmental issues including the marginalization of family farming environmental degradation and the loss of local knowledge and biodiversity SFNs offer a critical alternative by emphasizing small batch production environmental sustainability and social equity yet there remains a significant gap in understanding their full impact and potential This research topic aims to collate comprehensive research on Sustainable Food Networks SFNs with specific objectives identifying various SFN initiatives across different territories evaluating their spatial dimensions in global contexts and assessing policies that can enhance the social economic and environmental sustainability of food value chains Key questions include how alternative values are propagated within SFNs the critical spatial nodes for these values the role of urban and peri urban agriculture and the interplay between territorial conditions and SFN performance Additionally the research seeks to understand how SFNs compete with hegemonic value chains and the potential role of public policy in strengthening these networks To gather further insights into the complexities and potentials of SFNs we welcome articles addressing but not limited to the following themes The propagation and transfer of alternative values within SFNs Identification of critical spatial nodes for the reproduction of these values Roles of urban and peri urban agriculture in SFNs Relationships between territorial conditions governance and SFN performance Strategies employed by SFNs to tackle competition from corporate value chains The impact of SFNs on the surge of local organic and healthy food outlets The role of public policy in supporting and strengthening SFNs

Social Innovation and Sustainability Transition Geoff Desa, Xiangping Jia, 2022-11-09 This book uses a historical and modern lens to reimagine the role that

Extension could potentially play in catalyzing reciprocal co learning relationships between Land Grant Universities and their diverse local constituencies The establishment of statewide extension systems was once seen as a way to ensure that Land Grant Universities would be accessible and responsive to all of a state s residents Extension systems continue to offer a front door to a major public university in almost every county of the United States but they tend to be viewed primarily as a way to translate science or distribute information from the university to the public This books argues for the importance of Extension and shows that we are conceiving of this system too narrowly Only by retelling the stories of the Extension and getting people to see themselves as part of the story can we imagine a different future in which state universities and land grant colleges engage more authentically and equitably in two way relationships with their local constituents in catalyzing reciprocal co learning relationships between Land Grant Universities and their diverse local constituencies Chapter Palatable disruption the politics of plant milk chapter Feeding the melting pot inclusive strategies for the multi ethnic city chapter A carrot isn t a carrot isn t a carrot tracing value in alternative practices of food exchange chapter Virtualizing the good life reworking narratives of agrarianism and the rural idyll in a computer game and chapter Workable utopias for social change through inclusion and empowerment Community supported agriculture CSA in Wales as social innovation are available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International license via link springer.com Nutrition and an Active Life Wilma Freire, Pan American Health Organization, 2005 This publication contains thirteen papers written by leading international public health professionals on a range of topics including the role of research into early childhood nutrition and the formulation of infant feeding policies the control of iodine and vitamin A deficiencies folic acid fortification of wheat flour breast feeding practices nutrition recommendations within the context of local urban market realities promoting active lifestyles and health urban spaces and the importance of urban planning and public transport to public health objectives

Nutrition Michael J. Gibney, Barrie M. Margetts, John M. Kearney, Lenore Arab, 2013-03-19 As an academic subject nutrition has grown enormously in recent years and with it the need for specialist textbooks on the subject In response to this need a decision was taken by The Nutrition Society to produce a ground breaking series of four textbooks of which Public Health Nutrition is the third The books in the series Provide students with the required scientific basis in nutrition in the context of a systems and health approach Enable teachers and students to explore the core principles of nutrition and to apply these throughout their training to foster critical thinking at all times Each chapter identifies the key areas of knowledge that must be understood and also the key points of critical thought that must accompany the acquisition of this knowledge Are fully peer reviewed to ensure completeness and clarity of content as well as to ensure that each book takes a global perspective and is applicable for use by nutritionists and on nutrition courses throughout the world Public Health Nutrition is an essential purchase for students majoring in nutrition and dietetics Public health nutrition as a subject is growing immensely in importance taking into account the real potential to reduce the burden of non communicable chronic disease through diet Professionals in nutrition dietetics food science medicine community health care and many related health care areas will all find much of great use within the book s covers Libraries in all universities medical schools and establishments teaching and researching in these subject areas should have several copies on their shelves OTHER BOOKS IN THE NUTRITION SOCIETY TEXT BOOK SERIES Introduction to Human Nutrition ISBN 0 632 05624 X Nutrition Metabolism ISBN 0 632 05625 8 Clinical Nutrition ISBN 0 632 05626 6 Food Wars Tim Lang, Michael Heasman, 2015-10-16 In the years since publication of the first edition of Food Wars much has happened in the world of food policy This new edition brings these developments fully up to date within the original analytical framework of competing paradigms or worldviews shaping the direction and decision making within food politics and policy The key theme of the importance of integrating human and environmental health has become even more pressing In the first edition the authors set out and brought together the different strands of emerging agendas and competing narratives The second edition retains the same core structure and includes updated examples case studies and the new issues which show how these conflicting tendencies have played out in practice over recent years and what this tells us about the way the global food system is heading Examples of key issues given increased attention include nutrition including the global rise in obesity as well as chronic conditions hunger and under nutrition the environment particularly the challenges of climate change biodiversity loss water stress and food security food industry concentration and market power volatility and uncertainty over food prices and policy responses tensions over food democracy and citizenship social and cultural aspects impacting food and nutrition policies

Urban Food Planning Rositsa T. Ilieva, 2016-09-13 This highly original work examines the rise of the urban food planning movement in the Global North and provides insights into the new relationship between cities and food which has started developing over the past decade It sheds light on cities as new spaces for food system innovation and on food as a tool for sustainable urban development Drawing insights from the literature on socio technical transitions the book presents examples of pioneering urban food planning endeavours from North America and Western Europe especially the Netherlands and the UK These are integrated into a single mosaic helping to uncover the conceptual analytical design and organizational innovations emerging at the interface of food and urban policy and planning The author shows how promising seeds of transition to a shared urban food planning agenda are in the making though the urban food planning niche as a whole still lacks the necessary maturity to lastingly influence mainstream planning practices and the dominant agri food system regime Some of the strategic levers to cope with the current instability and limitations of urban food planning and effectively transition it from a marginal novelty to a normalized domain of policy research and practice are systematically examined to this end The conclusions and recommendations put forward have major implications for scholars activists and public officials seeking to radically transform the co evolution of food cities and the environment

Food Wars Michael Heasman, Tim Lang, 2004-04-26 Food Wars is a heartening book which calls for a radical change in the way the world feeds itself It offers a blueprint for a future where nobody goes to bed hungry Derek Cooper founder presenter of the BBC s Food Programme An important book that should be read by everyone who cares about how the way food is produced affects our own health as well as that of the environment and our national economies Marion Nestle author of Food Politics and Paulette Goddard Professor of Nutrition Food Studies and Public Health New York University The emergence of global markets has a far reaching impact on what we eat and on health food security social justice and quality of life What matters now is not just what we eat but how and where it has been produced distributed and processed and the assumptions upon which this production is based a global politics of food and health Food Wars argues that two conflicting paradigms one developing food through integrating the life sciences the other through ecology are battling to replace the dominant industrial productionist model of the 20th century both grappling to attract investment public support and policy legitimacy over the appropriate use of biology and food technologies Agrifood Transitions in the Anthropocene Allison M. Loconto, Douglas H. Constance, 2024-02-01 The greatest challenges of the twenty first century stem from the fact that we are now living in a new epoch the Anthropocene The human footprint on the planet can no longer be denied One of the greatest and most essential human innovations agriculture is being increasingly recognised as a leading contributor to climate change According to global governance bodies the world will need to feed a predicted nine billion people by 2050 However in this Anthropocene we must address the environmental inequalities in how these people will be fed This book explores our current societal struggles to transition towards more sustainable agrifood systems It suggests that debates around sustainable agriculture must be social as well as technical exploring the growth of social movements campaigning for more democratic food systems However as each chapter demonstrates both the problems and the solutions in sustainable agriculture are highly contested Using the term agrifood to capture the nexus between research governance and the environment knowledge environment governance this book provides an in depth and wide ranging account of current research around agricultural production and food consumption The book introduces the Anthropocene along with the fundamental question that it poses about human nature interactions It outlines the core concerns related to agriculture and food and the debates around the need for agrifood system transitions Each chapter investigates controversies in the field through case studies These contributions offer a call for sociologists of agriculture and food to engage with the controversies unfolding in the Anthropocene Livestock in a Changing Landscape, Volume 1 Henning Steinfeld, Harold A. Mooney, Fritz Schneider, Laurie E. Neville, 2013-03-06 The rapidly changing nature of animal production systems especially increasing intensification and globalization is playing out in complex ways around the world Over the last century livestock keeping evolved from a means of harnessing marginal resources to produce items for local consumption to a key component of global food chains Livestock in a Changing Landscape offers a comprehensive examination of these important and far reaching trends The books are an outgrowth of a collaborative effort involving international nongovernmental organizations including the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization UN FAO the International Livestock Research Institute ILRI the Swiss College of Agriculture SHL the French Agricultural Research Centre for International Development CIRAD and the Scientific Committee for Problems of the Environment SCOPE Volume 1 examines the forces shaping change in livestock production and management the resulting impacts on landscapes land use and social systems and potential policy and management responses Volume 2 explores needs and draws experience from region specific contexts and detailed case studies The case studies describe how drivers and consequences of change play out in specific geographical areas and how public and private responses are shaped and implemented Together the volumes present new sustainable approaches to the challenges created by fundamental shifts in livestock management and production and represent an essential resource for policy makers industry managers and academics involved with this issue
