The Power of Neo-Slave Fiction and Public History Grant Rodwell, 2023-10-13 Professional historians schools colleges and universities are not alone in shaping higher order understanding of history The central thesis of this book is the belief historical fiction in text and film shape attitudes towards an understanding of history as it moves the focus from slavery to the enslaved from the institution to the personal families and feminist accounts In a broader sense this contributes to a public history In part using the quickly growing corpus of neo slave counterfactual narratives this book examines the notion of the emerging slavery public history and the extent to which this is defined by literature film and other forms of artistic expression rather than non fiction popular or scholarly and education in history in the school systems Inter alia this book looks to the validity of historical fiction in print or in film as a way of understanding history A focal point of this book is the hypothesis that neo slave narratives supported by selective triangulated readings and viewings of scholarly works and non fiction have assisted greatly in re shaping the historiography of antebellum slavery and scholarly historians followed in the wake of these developments Essentially this has meant a re shaping of the historiography with a focus from slavery to that of the enslaved Moreover it has opened new vistas for a public history devoid of top down authoritative scholarship An important and provocative read for students and scholars interested in understanding the history of slavery its harrowing effects and how it was culturally defined Humanities ,2002-11

Twentieth Century American Literature Warren French,1980-11-01 Hollywood Quarterly Eric Smoodin,Ann

Martin,2002-05-17 The first issue of Hollywood Quarterly in October 1945 marked the appearance of the most significant successful and regularly published journal of its kind in the United States For its entire life the Quarterly held to the leftist utopianism of its founders several of whom would later be blacklisted The journal attracted a collection of writers unmatched in North American film studies for the heterogeneity of their intellectual and practical concerns from film radio and television industry workers to academics from Sam Goldwyn Edith Head and Chuck Jones to Theodor Adorno and Siegfried Kracauer For this volume Eric Smoodin and Ann Martin have selected essays that reflect the astonishing eclecticism of the journal with sections on animation the avant garde and documentary to go along with a representative sampling of articles about feature length narrative films They have also included articles on radio and television reflecting the contents of just about every issue of the journal and exemplifying the extraordinary moment in film and media studies that Hollywood Quarterly captured and helped to create In 1951 Hollywood Quarterly was renamed the Quarterly of Film Radio and Television and in 1958 it was replaced by Film Quarterly which is still published by the University of California Press During those first twelve years the Quarterly maintained an intelligent sophisticated and critical interest in all the major entertainment media not just film and in issue after issue insisted on the importance of both aesthetic and sociological methodologies for studying popular culture and on the political significance of the mass media Women, America, and Movement Susan L. Roberson,1998 Since the colonial days American women have traveled migrated and relocated always faced with the challenge of reconstructing their homes for themselves and their families Women America and Movement offers a journey through largely unexplored territory the experiences of migrating American women These narratives both real and imagined represent a range of personal and critical perspectives some of the women describe their travels as expansive and freeing while others relate the dreadful costs and sacrifices of relocating Despite the range of essays featured in this study the writings all coalesce around the issues of politics poetry and self identity described by Adrienne Rich as the elements of the politics of location treated here as the politics of relocation The narratives featured in this book explore the impact of race class and sexual economics on migratory women their self identity and their roles in family and social life These issues demonstrate that in addition to geographic place ideology is itself a space to be traversed By examining the writings of such women as Louise Erdrich Zora Neale Hurston and Gertrude Stein the essayists included in this volume offer a variety of experiences The book confronts such issues as racist politicking against Native Americans African Americans and Asian immigrants sexist attitudes that limit women to the roles of wife mother and sexual object and exploitation of migrants from Appalachia and of women newly arrived in America These essays also delve into the writings themselves by looking at what happens to narrative structure as authors or their characters cross geographic boundaries The reader sees how women writers negotiate relocation in their texts and how the written word becomes a place where one finds oneself
