Gender and Emotions in Medieval and Early Modern Europe: Destroying Order, Structuring Disorder Susan Broomhall, 2016-03-03. States of emotion were vital as a foundation to society in the premodern period, employed as a force of order to structure diplomatic transactions, shape dynastic and familial relationships and align religious beliefs, practices and communities. At the same time, societies understood that affective states had the potential to destroy order, creating undesirable disorder and instability that had both individual and communal consequences. These had to be actively managed through social mechanisms such as children's education, acculturation and training and also through religious, intellectual and textual practices that were both socio-cultural and individual. Presenting the latest research from an international team of scholars, this volume argues that the ways in which emotions created states of order and disorder in medieval and early modern Europe were deeply informed by contemporary gender ideologies. Together the essays reveal the critical roles that gender ideologies and lived, structured and desired emotional states played in producing both stability and instability.

Heroes and Anti-heroes in Medieval Romance Neil Cartlidge, 2012. Investigations into the heroic or not behaviour of the protagonists of medieval romance. Medieval romances so insistently celebrate the triumphs of heroes and the discomfiture of villains that they discourage recognition of just how morally ambiguous, antisocial or even downright sinister their protagonists can be and correspondingly of just how admirable or impressive their defeated opponents often are This tension between the heroic and the antiheroic makes a major contribution to the dramatic complexity of medieval romance but it is not an aspect of the genre that has been frequently discussed up until now Focusing on fourteen distinct characters and character types in medieval narrative this book illustrates the range of different ways in which the imaginative power and appeal of romance texts often depend on contradictions implicit in the very ideal of heroism Dr Neil Cartlidge is Lecturer in English at the University of Durham Contributors Neil Cartlidge Penny Eley David Ashurst Meg Lamont Laura Ashe Judith Weiss Gareth Griffith Kate McClune Nancy Mason Bradbury Ad Putter Robert Rouse Siobhain Bly Calkin James Wade Stephanie Vierick Gibbs Kamath Arthurian Literature V Richard Barber, 1985-11 Published by Boydell Brewer Inc Magic and the Supernatural in Medieval English Romance Corinne J. Saunders, 2010 This study looks at a wide range of medieval English romance texts including the works of Chaucer and Malory from a broad cultural perspective to show that while they employ magic in order to create exotic escapist worlds they are also grounded in a sense of possibility and reflect a complex web of inherited and current ideas Book Jacket Elf Queens and Holy Friars Richard Firth Green, 2016-09-28 Starting from the assumption of a far greater cultural gulf between the learned and the lay in the medieval world than between rich and poor Elf Queens explores the church's systematic campaign to demonize fairies and infernalize fairyland and the responses this provoked in vernacular romance Arthur and Merlin, 1890 Merlin Stephen Knight, 2009 Stephen Knight traces the myth of Merlin from the early Welsh figure of Myrddin through centuries of literature and art and to contemporary examples of literature film and television
