When Deadly Force Is Involved

Bruce M. Lawlor,2017-03-17 Self defense as a legal concept is easy to describe but difficult to apply Generally a person who is without fault may use reasonable force or defensive force for the purpose of defending one's own life or the lives of others including in certain circumstances the use of deadly force provided there is no reasonable alternative to avoid it When someone begins to parse the words of this description however he or she runs immediately into a maze of self defense laws that appear to be at odds with each other Bruce Lawlor clears up the confusion by identifying the major issues that surface in most self defense cases and by describing how the law has dealt with them historically Its purpose is not to provide legal advice but to illuminate the path that must be taken to decide whether a claim of self defense is valid It examines a variety of issues including the duty to retreat and stand your ground laws what is a deadly threat when is fear of mortal danger reasonable and even what happens when a person mistakenly shoots someone in self defense When Deadly Force Is Involved A Look at the Legal Side of Stand Your Ground Duty to Retreat and Other Questions of Self Defense brings a bit of order to the confusion behind self defense

Exploring the Mandatory Life Sentence for Murder Barry Mitchell,Julian V Roberts,2012-10-19 Murder is often regarded as both the ultimate and a unique crime and whereas courts are normally given discretion in sentencing offenders for murder the sentence is mandatory indeterminate imprisonment Since the crime and the punishment come as a package deal this book looks at both the legal nature of the offence and at the current operation of the mandatory life sentence Not only does the book adopt a critical approach by assessing the strengths and weaknesses of the status quo it also draws upon comparative material from both common and civil law jurisdictions in an attempt to provide a comprehensive exploration of these issues The need for public confidence in the criminal justice system is particularly acute in the way it deals with the most serious homicides In this book the authors report findings from the first systematic exploration of public attitudes to sentencing murder in this or any other common law jurisdiction The picture of public opinion emerging from this recent large scale nationwide qualitative and quantitative survey funded by the Nuffield Foundation is likely to surprise many and will be of interest to all jurisdictions where the mandatory life sentence for murder has been questioned    California.
