Of Myths and Movements Haripriya Rangan, 2001 Liberation Ecologies Richard Peet, Michael Watts, 2004-08-02

Liberation Ecologies brings together some of the most exciting theorists in the field to explore the impact of political ecology in today's developing world. The book casts new light on the crucial interrelations of development, social movements, and the environment in the South, the bigger half of our planet, and raises questions and hopes about change on the global scale. The in-depth case material is drawn from across the Developing World from Latin America, Africa, and Asia. The issues raised in contemporary political, economic, and social theory are illustrated through these case studies. Ultimately, Liberation Ecologies questions what we understand by development, be it mainstream or alternative, and seeks to renew our sense of nature's range of possibilities.

Mountain, Water, Rock, God Luke Whitmore, 2018-11-27. A free ebook version of this title is available through Luminos University of California Press's Open Access publishing program. Visit www.luminosoa.org to learn more. In Mountain Water Rock God, Luke Whitmore situates the disastrous flooding that fell on the Hindu Himalayan shrine of Kedarnath in 2013 within a broader religious and ecological context. Whitmore explores the longer story of this powerful realm of the Hindu god Shiva through a holistic theoretical perspective that integrates phenomenological and systems-based approaches to the study of religion, pilgrimage, place, and ecology. He argues that close attention to places of religious significance offers a model for thinking through connections between ritual, narrative, climate, destabilization, tourism, development, and disaster, and he shows how these critical components of human life in the twenty-first century intersect in the human experience of place.

Origins of the Organic Agriculture Debate Thomas R. DeGregori, 2008-02-28. Origins of the Organic Agriculture Debate takes an historical look at two contrasting streams of ideas. The first view comprises the flow of ideas in chemistry and biology that have created the conditions for modern medicine, modern food production, and the biotechnological revolution. The second view is the vitalist reaction to the rise of modern science and the resulting rejection of modern agriculture. Contemporary proponents of organic agriculture and the anti-genetically modified food movement believe that pure food confers some special kind of virtue both on those who produce it and those who consume it. They fail to acknowledge that organic chemistry, genetics, and molecular biology have been as essential to twentieth-century advances in agriculture such as plant breeding and are instrumental to ensuring that there is enough food for everyone. Origins of the Organic Agriculture Debate Begins with an exploration of the factors involved in our modern fear of technology, a fear which forms the foundation for anti-technology beliefs and practices. Argues that vitalism is at the core of an array of contemporary anti-science and anti-technology movements. Helps readers fully understand the ferocity with which certain beliefs about homeopathic medicine and the organic are held against all evidence to the contrary. Explains the history of nitrogen in life and in agriculture, countering myths of scarce resources and beliefs about the sufficiency of organic nitrogen to feed the world's population. Purports that technology creates resources, debunking the idea that resources are natural, fixed, and finite.

Updates and clarifies issues discussed in the author's previous works A Theory of Technology 1985 Agriculture and Modern Technology 2001 and The Environment Our Natural Resources and Modern Technology 2002 We need to better understand the forces of scientific and technological change if we are to control the negative elements of these forces continue to advance the development of science and technology and facilitate fuller participation in the benefits of our advancing capability to further the human endeavor Origins of the Organic Agriculture Debate will provide a basis for this understanding Deliberating Environmental Policy in India Sunayana Ganguly, 2015-11-06 As one of the world's largest and most bio diverse countries India's approach to environmental policy will be very significant in tackling global environmental challenges This book explores the transformations that have taken place in the making of environmental policy in India since the economic liberalization of the 1990s It investigates if there has been a slow shift from top down planning to increasingly bottom up and participatory policy processes examining the successes and failures of recent environmental policies Linking deliberation to collective action this book contends that it is crucial to involve local actors in framing the policies that decide on their rights and control over bio resources in order to achieve the goal of sustainable human development The first examples of large scale participatory processes in Indian environmental policy were the 1999 National Biodiversity Strategy Action Plan and the 2006 Scheduled Tribes and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers Act This book explores these landmark policies exploring the strategies of advocacy and deliberation that led to both the successes and failures of recent initiatives It concludes that in order to deliberate with the state civil society actors must engage in forms of strategic advocacy with the power to push agendas that challenge mainstream development discourses The lessons learnt from the Indian experience will not only have immediate significance for the future of policy making in India but they will also be of interest for other countries faced with the challenges of integrating livelihood and sustainability concerns into the governance process The Age of Ecology Joachim Radkau, 2014-04-03 This book is the first major study of the history of environmentalism from its origins in romanticism and the nature cults of the late 18th century to the global environmental movements of today Radkau shows that this is not a single story of the steady ascent of environmentalism but rather a multiplicity of stories each with its own dramatic tension between single issue movements and the challenges posed by the interconnection of environmental issues between charismatic leaders and bureaucratic organizations and between grassroots movements and global players While the history can be traced back several centuries environmentalism has flourished since the environmental revolution of 1970 spurred on by the Chernobyl nuclear disaster in 1986 and the growing concern about global warming While environmentalists often opposed the scientific mainstream they were also often led by scientific knowledge Environmentalism is the true Enlightenment of our time so much so that we can call our era the age of ecology This timely and comprehensive global history of environmentalism will be essential reading for anyone concerned with the most pressing global issues of our time Mountain Geography Martin F. Price, 2013-08-24 Mountain Geography is a comprehensive resource that gives readers an in depth understanding of the geographical processes that occur in the world's mountains and the impact of these regions on culture and society The volume begins with an introduction that defines mountains followed by a comprehensive treatment of their physical geography including origins climatology snow and ice landforms and geomorphic processes soils vegetation and wildlife The concluding chapters discuss the human geography of mountains and our attitudes toward them populations in the mountain regions and their livelihoods and interactions within dynamic environments the diversity of mountain agriculture and the challenges of sustainable mountain development Book Jacket

Friction Anna Lowenhaupt Tsing, 2024-08-06 What the struggle over the Indonesian rainforests can teach us about the social frictions that shape the world around us Rubbing two sticks together produces heat and light while one stick alone is just a stick It is the friction that produces movement action and effect Anthropologist Anna Lowenhaupt Tsing challenges the widespread view that globalization invariably signifies a clash of cultures developing friction as a metaphor for the diverse and conflicting social interactions that make up our contemporary world Tsing focuses on the rainforests of Indonesia where in the 1980s and 1990s capitalist interests increasingly reshaped the landscape not so much through corporate design as through awkward chains of legal and illegal entrepreneurs that wrested the land from previous claimants creating resources for distant markets In response environmental movements arose to defend the rainforests and the communities of people who live in them Not confined to a village province or nation the social drama of the Indonesian rainforests includes local and national environmentalists international science North American investors advocates for Brazilian rubber tappers United Nations funding agencies mountaineers village elders and urban students all drawn into unpredictable messy misunderstandings but misunderstandings that sometimes work out Providing an invaluable portfolio of methods for the study of global interconnections Friction shows how cultural differences are in the grip of worldly encounter and reveals how much is overlooked in contemporary theories of the global Community, Commons and Natural Resource Management in Asia Haruka Yanagisawa, 2015-08-14 Managing the commons natural resources held in common by particular communities is a complex challenge How have Asian societies handled resources of this sort in the face of increasing marketization and quickly growing demand for resources And how have resource management regimes changed over time with state formation modernization development and globalization Community Commons and Natural Resource Management in Asia brings clarity detail and historical understanding to these questions across a variety of Asian societies and ecological settings Case studies drawn from Japan Korea Thailand India and Bhutan examine fisheries forests and other environmental resources held in common There is a tendency to imagine that traditional communities had socially equitable and environmentally friendly systems for managing the commons but natural resources in Asia were often under free access regimes Resource management developed in response to social and economic pressures and the state has been at various times both a beneficial and a negative influence on the development of community level systems of managing the commons The chapters in this volume show that a simple modernist framework cannot adequately capture this process and the institutional changes it involved

Wood Joachim Radkau, 2012 tzi the iceman could not do without wood when he was climbing his Alpine glacier nor could medieval cathedral builders or today's construction companies From time immemorial the skill of the human hand has developed by working wood so much so that we might say that the handling of wood is a basic element in the history of the human body The fear of a future wood famine became a panic in the 18th century and sparked the beginnings of modern environmentalism This book traces the cultural history of wood and offers a highly original account of the connection between the raw material and the human beings who benefit from it Even more it shows that wood can provide a key for a better understanding of history of the peculiarities as well as the varieties of cultures of a co evolution of nature and culture and even of the rise and fall of great powers Beginning with Stone Age hunters it follows the twists and turns of the story through the Middle Ages and the Industrial Revolution to the global society of the twenty first century in which wood is undergoing a varied and unexpected renaissance Radkau is sceptical of claims that wood is about to disappear arguing that such claims are self serving arguments promoted by interest groups to secure cheaper access to and control over wood resources The whole forest and timber industry often strikes the outsider as a world unto itself a hermetically sealed black box but when we lift the lid on this box as Radkau does here we will be surprised by what we find within Wide ranging and accessible this rich historical analysis of one of our most cherished natural resources will find a wide readership The Postcolonial Politics of Development Ilan Kapoor,2008-02-08 This book uses a postcolonial lens to question development s dominant cultural representations and institutional practices investigating the possibilities for a transformatory postcolonial politics Ilan Kapoor examines recent development policy initiatives in such areas as governance human rights and participation to better understand and contest the production of knowledge in development its cultural assumptions power implications and hegemonic politics The volume shows how development practitioners and westernized elites intellectuals are often complicit in this neo colonial knowledge production Noble gestures such as giving foreign aid or promoting participation and democracy frequently mask their institutional biases and economic and geopolitical interests while silencing the subaltern marginalized groups on whose behalf they purportedly work In response the book argues for a radical ethical and political self reflexivity that is vigilant to our reproduction of neo colonialisms and amenable to public contestation of development priorities It also underlines subaltern political strategies that can and do lead to greater democratic dialogue Connecting Ecologies Patrick Riordan,Gavin Flood,2024-06-03 Connecting Ecologies focuses on the environmental aspects of Pope Francis encyclical Laudato Si and the challenge to care for our common home It considers how best to devise and implement the new societal models needed to tackle the ecological problems facing the world today The book addresses the need for and complexity of an integral ecology one that looks not only at physical and biological processes but also allows for the contributions of theology philosophy spirituality and psychology including the implications for the human and social sciences The contributions document four categories of resonances resources requirements and responses evoked by a reading of Laudato Si and include consideration of other faith traditions They reflect on how care for our common home motivates people in different places cultures and professions to cooperate for myriad goods in common The volume is particularly relevant for scholars working in religious studies and theology with an interest in ecology the environment and the Anthropocene Migration Studies and Colonialism Lucy Mayblin,Joe Turner,2020-12-03 The history of migration is deeply entangled with colonialism To this day colonial logics continue to shape the dynamics of migration as well as the responses of states to those arriving at their borders And yet migration studies has been surprisingly slow to engage with colonial histories in making sense of migratory phenomena today This book starts from the premise that colonial histories should be central to migration studies and explores what it would mean to really take that seriously To engage with this task Lucy Mayblin and Joe Turner argue that scholars need not forge new theories but must learn from and be inspired by the wealth of literature that already exists across the world Providing a range of inspiring and challenging perspectives on migration the authors aim is to demonstrate what paying attention to colonialism through using the tools offered by postcolonial decolonial and related scholarship can offer those studying international migration today Offering a vital intervention in the field this important book asks scholars and students of migration to explore the histories and continuities of colonialism in order to better understand the present
