Off We Go Teddy And Mes:

Revolving Doors: The True Account of the Full Spectrum of Fostering Abuses of a Boy Before Age Five Dawn Maree Ketteringham, B.A., M.A.Ed., 2015-02-27 Revolving Doors is an adult autobiographical novel in which Richard now in his sixties recalls incidents of his nightmarish first five years of childhood while fostered through seventeen residences as a ward of Toronto's S W York Co Children's Aid Society. From his perspective and understanding as a small child he shares graphic details of memories of unspeakably perverse mistreatment including perpetual neglect, abuse, molestation and worse. After years of counselling and treatment for ensuing debilitating mental illnesses, Richard experienced a black out resulting in the sudden awareness of long buried traumatic memories. The author furnishes vivid details of her brother's incredible story by interweaving his recollections and relentless nightmares with documentation from the organizations involved. It is Richard's most sincere desire that his story of ultimate survival might encourage similar abuse victims who may be searching for hope in facing and fighting their own demons.

Talent and eroticism combine to enhance the strength and optimism with which they approach life and its attendant issues. Along the way we meet a wayward filmmaker and a family of Polynesian Polygamists. Not to mention attending a couple of very funny weddings. But it is a crisis which leads Abby and Mark to appreciate their true destiny.

Teddy A. Phill Babcock, 2016-06-02 This is a story about a boy growing into manhood. It describes a way of life of challenges that are before him. One of the challenges involved a preacher's daughter and another was the daughter of his father's friend while in the service. This high school boy and girl were having a picnic on the river and were nearly captured by three escaped prisoners. This was their first date. With his help a circus in town provided their facilities for the senior prom and the HS graduation. The preacher's daughter and the boy attend different colleges. He graduated from West Point. His friend graduated from Annapolis and was sent to Africa.
