Piers Plowman and the Reinvention of Church Law Arvind Thomas, 2019-03-07 It is a medieval truism that the poet meddles with words the lawyer with the world But are the poet's words and the lawyer's world really so far apart To what extent does the art of making poems share in the craft of making laws and vice versa Framed by such questions Piers Plowman and the Reinvention of Church Law in the Late Middle Ages examines the mutually productive interaction between literary and legal makyns in England's great Middle English poem by

William Langland Focusing on Piers Plowman's preoccupation with wrongdoing in the B and C versions Arvind Thomas examines the versions representations of trials confessions restitutions penalties and pardons Thomas explores how the literary informs and transforms the legal until they finally cannot be separated Thomas shows how the poem's narrative voice metaphor syntax and style not only reflect but also act upon properties of canon law such as penitential procedures and authoritative maxims Langland's mobilization of juridical concepts Thomas insists not only engenders a poetics informed by canonist thought but also expresses an alternative vision of canon law from that proposed by medieval jurists and today's medievalists

Human Rights and the Reinvention of Freedom Nick Stevenson, 2016-10-04 This volume seeks to propose a reinvention of freedom under contemporary conditions of globalization cross border mobility and neo liberal dominance There are currently two predominant myths circulating about freedom The first is that in a global age growing numbers of citizens are less concerned with freedom than they are with security Secondly there is the presumption that freedom only refers to market freedom and consumerism implying that the ideas of choice and consumption are interchangeable with ideas of freedom Stevenson argues that while these arguments are significant they are deeply misleading More authentic ideas of freedom such as self realisation participating in politics and seeking a meaningful life of self reflection have not been entirely displaced but have instead become reinvented in our global times The cries of freedom can still be heard in a multitude of places from the Arab Spring to the Occupy Movement and from the protests against European austerity to the current popularity of human rights Stevenson also argues that the idea of freedom has become increasingly mobile in our interconnected and transnational society The spaces and places of civil society are more complex in this global age pushing ideas of freedom far beyond the usual arena of national politics This volume brings together a diverse range of cultural interpretations in respect of freedom related to the idea of the commons cosmopolitanism contemporary documentary cinema and the history of jazz music Exploring the ways in which notions of freedom are being re made within the context of the present and looking more precisely at the current threats to freedom it will be of interest to students and scholars of globalization human rights and cultural sociology
