Foreign Office, 1964 Reluctant European Stephen Wall, 2020-09-25 In 2016 the voters of the United Kingdom decided to leave the European Union The majority for Leave was small Yet in more than 40 years of EU membership the British had never been wholeheartedly content In the 1950s governments preferred the Commonwealth to the Common Market In the 1960s successive Conservative and Labour administrations applied to join the European Community because it was a surprising success whilst the UK's post war policies had failed But the British were turned down by the French When the UK did join more than 10 years after first asking it joined a club whose rules had been made by others and which it did not much like At one time or another Labour and Conservative were at war with each other and internally In 1975 the Labour government held a referendum on whether the UK should stay in Two thirds of voters decided to do so But the wounds did not heal Europe remained them not us The UK was on the front foot in proposing reform and modernisation and on the back foot as other EU members wanted to advance to ever closer union As a British diplomat from 1968 Stephen Wall observed and participated in these unfolding events and negotiations He worked for many of the British politicians who wrestled to reconcile the UK's national interest in making a success of our membership with the sceptical even hostile strands of opinion in parliament the press and public opinion This book tells the story of a relationship rooted in a thousand years of British history and of our sense of national identity in conflict with our political and economic need for partnership with continental Europe Appendix to the Journals of the House of Representatives of New Zealand New Zealand. Parliament. House of Representatives, 1908 Great Britain, the Dominions and the Transformation of the British Empire, 1907-1931 Jaroslav Valkoun, 2021-02-15 The relations of Great Britain and its Dominions significantly influenced the development of the British Empire in the late 19th and the first third of the 20th century The mutual attitude to the constitutional issues that Dominion and British leaders have continually discussed at Colonial and Imperial Conferences respectively was one of the main aspects forming the links between the mother country and the autonomous overseas territories This volume therefore focuses on the key period when the importance of the Dominions not only increased within the Empire itself but also in the sphere of the international relations and the Dominions gained the opportunity to influence the forming of the Imperial foreign policy During the first third of the 20th century the British Empire gradually transformed into the British Commonwealth of Nations in which the importance of Dominions excelled The work is based on the study of unreleased sources from British archives a large number of published documents and extensive relevant literature     The Constitutional Year Book ,1915     British Military Withdrawal and the Rise of Regional Cooperation in South-East Asia, 1964-73 S.
