(Hank) Utle, Scott Verner, 2015-09-18 Shortly after the independent Carolina League was formed in 1936 officials of the National Association of Professional Baseball which oversaw what was known as organized baseball including the major leagues began a campaign to destroy the league The NAPB declared the Carolina League outlaw and blacklisted its players because their teams were pirating professionally contracted ballplayers with the lure of higher wages small town hero worship and a career off season Backed into a corner the Carolina League wore its outlaw label with a defiant swagger challenging the all powerful monopoly of organized professional baseball and its standard player contract This complete history of the league reveals how it persevered through three tumultuous seasons fueled by the tight knit community spirit of North Carolina Piedmont textile towns Over its three seasons of existence the Carolina League attracted professional baseball players from all over the country and it gave the players control over their careers setting a standard that was resisted until free agency was adopted in 1973
