Contributors to the Quarterly Review Jonathan Cutmore,2015-10-06 The Quarterly Review presents a rare opportunity to Romantic scholars to test the truth of Marilyn Butler's claim that the early nineteenth century periodical is the matrix for democratization of public writing and reading This is the second title in this series to look at its influence The English Catalogue of Books Sampson Low,1926 Volumes for 1898 1968 include a directory of publishers Regional Romanticism

Gerard Lee McKeever, 2024-10-22 This book tracks the rise of modern cultural regionalism across the turn of the nineteenth century. Attending specifically to literature and literary culture, it examines how a particular region, southwest Scotland, was reimagined between 1770 and 1830. Regionalisms were a vital emergent force in this period in dialogue with the local, the national, the transnational, and the imperial. In the case of southwest Scotland, the literary inscription of the region was generated in a blossoming periodical press by visitors like Dorothy Wordsworth and John Keats, by resident icon Robert Burns, by homesick emigrants such as Allan Cunningham, by adventurers, colonialists, and pirates looking back from within and beyond the formal limits of empire, by the unprecedented success of Walter Scott, and by many others navigating the opportunities presented by rapidly evolving economic, environmental, and infrastructural conditions. Regional Romanticism illuminates a neglected aspect of anglophone literary history, acknowledging regions and regionalism as a primary frame of reference in late eighteenth and early nineteenth century culture.
