Screening the Male Steve Cohan, Ina Rae Hark, 2012-09-10 Screening the male re-examines the problematic status of masculinity both in Hollywood cinema and feminist film theory Classical Hollywood cinema has been theoretically established as a vast pleasure machine manufacturing an idealized viewer through its phallogocentric ideological apparatus Feminist criticism has shown how difficult it is for the female viewer to resist becoming implicated in this representational system But the theories have overlooked the significance of the problem itself of the masculine motivation at the core of the system The essays here explore those male characters spectators and performers who occupy positions conventionally encoded as feminine in Hollywood narrative and questions just how secure that orthodox male position is Screening the Male brings together an impressive group of both established and emerging scholars from Britain the United States and Australia unified by a concern with issues that film theorists have exclusively linked to the feminine and not the masculine spectacle masochism passivity masquerade and most of all the body as it signifies gendered racial class and generational differences Screening the Stage Bert Cardullo, 2006 This book examines the historical cultural and aesthetic relationships between theater and film As we enter the 21st century almost all artists students and critics working in theater will have had earlier and greater exposure to film than to theater In fact film has become central to the way in which we perceive and formulate stories images ideas and sounds At the same time film and video occupy an increasingly significant place in theater study both for the adaptation of plays and for the documentation and preservation of theatrical performances Yet far too often theater and film artists as well as educators make the jump from one medium to the other without being fully aware of the ways in which the qualities of each medium affect content and artistic expression This book is intended to fill such a gap by providing a theoretical and practical foundation for understanding the effect that film and drama have had and continue to have on each other's development Moreover this study provides a history of the relationship between drama and cinema starting with the pre cinematic late 19th century impulse towards capturing spectacular action on the stage and examining the artistic and commercial interaction between movies and plays both in popular and experimental work throughout the 20th century Important subjects treated in this book include stage versus screen acting the adaptation process itself the theatrical as well as the cinematic avant garde and the portability or adaptability of dramatic character Screening the Author Hila Shachar, 2019-06-01 This book is the first comprehensive analysis of the contemporary representation of the author on screen It does this through two main approaches by looking at how biographies of well known authors in Western culture have been adapted onto the film and television screen and by examining the wider preoccupation with the idea of what the author persona means in broader economic cultural industrial and ideological terms Drawing from current debates about the uses of the heritage industry and conventions of the Hollywood biopic and celebrity culture this book re frames the analysis of the author on screen in contemporary culture and theorises it under its own unique genre the literary biopic With case studies including adaptations of the biographies and cultural personas of William Shakespeare Jane Austen Oscar Wilde Sylvia Plath Virginia Woolf and Allen Ginsberg to name a few this book examines how and why the author continues to be a prominent screen and cultural preoccupation

Screening the East Nick Hodgin, 2011-05-01 Screening the East considers German filmmakers responses to unification In particular it traces the representation of the East German community in films made since 1989 and considers whether these narratives challenge or reinforce the notion of a separate East German identity The book identifies and analyses a large number of films from internationally successful box office hits to lesser known productions many of which are discussed here for the first time Providing an insight into the films historical and political context it considers related issues such as stereotyping racism regional particularism and the Germans confrontation with the past Screening the Golden Ages of the Classical Tradition Meredith E. Screening The Novel Keith Selby, Robert Giddings, 2016-07-27 The book takes as its theme the relationship between literature and the contemporary means of production and distribution collectively termed the media in particular film and television The intention of the book is to explore and evaluate the mutual opportunities and restrictions in this relationship In the grammar of our culture there seems to be an accepted opinion that print is superior in terms of cultural production to film radio or television that to read a book is somehow a higher cultural activity than seeing a play on television or seeing a film By the same token a novel is a superior work of art to film or television The longer perspective reveals that traditionally there always is a greater respect paid to the previous mode of literary production poetry was superior to drama poetic drama was superior to the novel and film attained cult and classic status initially over television

Screening the World Stuart Hanson, 2019-07-26 This book charts the development of the multiplex cinema as the pre eminent form of film exhibition across the world Going from its origins in the USA in the 1960s to its expansion overseas from the mid 1980s across Europe Australia and other parts of Asia Pacific the book considers the emergence of a series of initially regional then national and then international exhibition circuits However more than a consideration of US overseas expansion on the part of companies this book examines the hegemony of the multiplex as a cultural and business form arguing for its significance as a phenomenon that has transcended national and global boundaries and which has become the predominant venue for film viewing Implicit in this analysis is a recognition of the domination of US media multi nationals and Hollywood cinema and the development of the multiplex cinema as symbolic of the extension and maintenance of the USA's cultural and economic power. With case studies ranging from European countries such as Belgium, France, Germany and The Netherlands to Pacific Asian countries such as Australia, China, Japan and South Korea, this book is the first to explore the development of multiplexes on a global scale.

Screening the Royal Shakespeare Company John Wyver, 2019-06-27

No theatre company has been involved in such a broad range of adaptations for television and cinema as the Royal Shakespeare Company. Starting with Richard III filmed in the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre before World War One, the RSC's accomplishments continue today with highly successful live cinema broadcasts. The Wars of the Roses BBC 1965, Peter Brook's film of King Lear 1971, Channel 4's epic version of Nicholas Nickleby 1982 and Hamlet with David Tennant BBC 2009 are among their most iconic adaptations. Many other RSC productions live on as extracts in documentaries, as archival recordings in trailers and in other fragmentary forms. Screening the Royal Shakespeare Company explores this remarkable history of collaborations between stage and screen and considers key questions about adaptation that concern all those involved in theatre, film and television. John Wyver is a broadcasting historian and the producer of RSC Live from Stratford upon Avon and is uniquely well placed to provide a vivid account of the company's television and film productions. He contributes an award-winning practitioner's insight into screen adaptation's numerous challenges and rich potential.
