Immune-Deficient Animals B. Sordat,1984-02-20 Immunologic Defects in Laboratory Animals 1 M. Eric Gershwin,Bruce Merchant,2012-12-06 Tiselius demonstrated that the immunologically active components of immune sera migrated electrophoretically in the gamma globulin region His findings illuminated the classic observations of Jenner regarding development of resistance to infection and those of von Pirquet Pasteur and Arthus regarding the transfer and specificity of resistance Conceptual integration of these observations provided the impetus for the present modern era of immunology Subsequent to Tiselius s work multiple rapid advances have occurred in the study of congenital and acquired immune deficiency states in mice chickens and humans These studies have readily demonstrated that the immunologic ability of an organism to protect itself from environmental influences is a prerequisite for survival Indeed this necessity for protection from microenvironmental influences has promoted the evolutionary development of immunologic diversification namely host dependence upon a sophisticated multifaceted network of cells and effector mechanisms responsible for the clearance and neutralization of toxins and potentially harmful pathogens The obligate dependence of animals upon the functional integrity of their immunologic systems is illustrated by the ready invasion of ubiquitous organisms when the host is in a state of immune defense derangement Nevertheless derangements in immune function can range from partial to complete and can be compatible with survival The consequences of such derangements run the gamut from subclinical disease to inevitable mortality Aphrodisiac Allyson Roy,2008 When her patient a perfume maker and fashionista is found dead after discovering an ancient formula with great powers sex therapist Saylor Oz and her tough talking best friend have less than one week to find the formula and stay one step ahead of a ruthless killer Original JNCI, Journal of the National Cancer Institute National Cancer Institute (U.S.),1984 Progress in Allergy Vol. 26 K. Teicher,2001-11-07 Beverly A Teicher and a panel of leading experts comprehensively describe for the first time in many years the state of the art in animal tumor model research The wide array of models detailed form the basis for the selection of compounds and treatments that go into clinical testing of patients and include syngeneic models human tumor xenograft models orthotopic models metastatic models transgenic models and gene knockout models Synthesizing many years experience with all the major in vivo models currently available for the study of malignant disease Tumor Models in Cancer Research provides preclinical and clinical cancer researchers alike with a comprehensive guide to the selection of these models their effective use and the optimal interpretation of their results Patient-Derived Mouse Models of Cancer Robert M. Hoffman,2017-08-01 This text highlights seminal discoveries and also provides comprehensive and state of the art approach to mouse models of human patient tumors These areas include training basic techniques as well as general troubleshooting Subsequent chapters focus on the different mouse models of patient tumors including the various strains of immunodeficient mice currently available and the transplantation techniques that can be used as well as state of the art imaging techniques Practical applications of the models from drug discovery genome analysis to personalized treatment are also covered Written by experts in that field each of these sections address these critical issues A brief review of the existing literature addressing the particular topic follows in each section Presently there is no single source to provide information on technique and uses of mouse models of human patient tumors Patient Derived Mouse Models of Cancer will satisfy this need for cancer researchers oncologists pharmaceutical and biotechnology industry scientists as well as molecular biologists studying in vivo systems Design of Cancer Chemotherapy E. Part 1 John Masters,Bernhard Ø Palsson,2006-04-11 Continuous cell lines derived from human cancers are the most widely used resource in laboratory based cancer research The first 3 volumes of this series on Human Cell Culture are devoted to these cancer cell lines The chapters in these first 3 volumes have a common aim Their purpose is to address 3 questions of fundamental importance to the relevance of human cancer cell lines as model systems of each type of cancer 1 Do the cell lines available accurately represent the clinical presentation 2 Do the cell lines accurately represent the histopathology of the original tumors 3 Do the cell lines accurately represent the molecular genetics of this type of cancer The cancer cell lines available are derived in most cases from the more aggressive and advanced cancers There are few cell lines derived from low grade organ confined cancers This gap can be filled with conditionally immortalized human cancer cell lines We do not know why the success rate for establishing cell lines is so low for some types of cancer and so high for others The histopathology of the tumor of origin and the extent to which the derived cell line retains the differentiated features of that tumor are critical The concept that a single cell line derived from a tumor at a particular site is representative of tumors at that site is naive and misleading East Asian and Pacific Series ,1980 The United States-Japan Cooperative Medical Science Program ,1980 Five Year Report United States-Japan Cooperative Medical Science Program,1975 Advances in Cancer Research ,1985-07-23 Advances in Cancer Research National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),
