THE OCTOPUS-A STORY OF CALIFORNIA Frank Norris, 2017-04-23 Just after passing Caraher's saloon on the County Road that ran south from Bonneville and that divided the Broderson ranch from that of Los Muertos Presley was suddenly aware of the faint and prolonged blowing of a steam whistle that he knew must come from the railroad shops near the depot at Bonneville In starting out from the ranch house that morning he had forgotten his watch and was now perplexed to know whether the whistle was blowing for twelve or for one o'clock He hoped the former Early that morning he had decided to make a long excursion through the neighbouring country partly on foot and partly on his bicycle and now noon was come already and as yet he had hardly started As he was leaving the house after breakfast Mrs Derrick had asked him to go for the mail at Bonneville and he had not been able to refuse

Sporting with the Gods Michael Oriard, 1991-02-22 Sporting with the Gods examines the rhetoric of game and play and sport in American culture from the time of the Puritans to the 1980s Focusing on writers and public figures who dominated public discourse Oriard shows how the trope of game and play in fiction and in religious social and economic writings can be used to graph changes in the religious and social climate from the Puritans through the Transcendentalists to the Social Darwinists and from the Beats and hippies to the New Age spiritualists of the present decade He also uses the trope to graph the shifting attitudes toward work and play in the game of business as the United States moved to industrial capitalism and then to a postindustrial society of consumerism and leisure The result is a history of this country from its inception through the lens of a single trope resonating with implications at every strata of American culture from back cover
