Greening the Economy John Magne Skjelvik, Nordic Council of Ministers, Annegrete Bruvoll, 2011-06. After the recent financial and economic crisis, greening the economy has become a major focus for international and national discussions. How to combine forceful and effective action to meet climate change and other environmental challenges with stronger and more sustainable economic development in both developed and developing countries. This synthesis report on the Nordic countries' environmental policy experiences focuses on the use of economic instruments and how this policy has contributed to the integration of environmental concerns into economic growth and development policies. The report demonstrates that the Nordic countries have been successful in achieving substantial reductions in several major pollutants and clear improvements in local and regional environmental quality while maintaining an internationally respectable rate of economic growth. This decoupling of economic development from growth in emissions has been achieved through a range of policy instruments with a strong and increasing element of economic market-based instruments. The challenge and the opportunity for the Nordic countries is to strengthen and deepen such policies with even more effective design of and combination of policy instruments to deal with new and remaining threats to the local, national, and international environment.
