Ferenc Morton Szasz: A Celebration and Selected Writings Mark T. Banker, 2018-09-17. Ferenc Morton Szasz was a lifelong student who became a professor of history at the University of New Mexico. As a one-year appointment at the Albuquerque campus evolved into a forty-year career, Szasz glimpsed the predictable unpredictability that he would eventually discern as one of history's most enduring and elusive traits. The connections and consequences along the way forged a truly exceptional life and career. A master of the United States history survey, Szasz enthralled and inspired tens of thousands of students with energy, enthusiasm, provocative insights, and good will. Ambitious undergraduates regularly vied with graduate students for coveted seats in his upper-level courses where he offered insights into World War II, American religious history, and popular culture. Szasz's interests, he insisted, were the ideas of the people and how they shift over time. In an era when historical scholarship became increasingly specialized, he pursued an eclectic array of research interests and challenged his doctoral students to do the same. The ten selections of Szasz's writings that are the primary content of this volume balance insights into history's great moments with attention to events and details often overlooked by more conventional historians. Szasz's crisp, accessible prose reveals both the unique and universal in the human experience and offers heartfelt glimpses into humanity's paradoxical promises and perils. Back cover. Adobe, Pressed-earth, and Rammed-earth Industries in New Mexico Edward W. Smith, George S. Austin, 1996. How Buildings Learn Stewart Brand, 1995-10-01. A captivating exploration of the ever-evolving world of architecture and the untold stories buildings tell. When a building is finished, being built, that isn't the end of its story. More than any other human artifacts, buildings improve with time if they're allowed to. Buildings adapt by being constantly refined and reshaped by their occupants, and in that way, architects can become artists of time rather than simply artists of space. From the connected farmhouses of New England to I. M. Pei's Media Lab, from the evolution of bungalows to the invention of Santa Fe Style, from Low Road military surplus buildings to a High Road English classic like Chatsworth, this is a far-ranging survey of unexplored essential territory. Discover how structures become living organisms shaped by the people who inhabit them and learn how architects can harness the power of time to create enduring works of art through the interconnected worlds of design, function, and human
